

Social Workers Are All Around Us

Private Practice

Whether as mental health counselors, ECTAs, couples or family therapists, or other clinical practitioners, social workers are even present in private practice. They treat mental illnesses and help people cope with life's tribulations. Some specialize and work with certain populations.

Schools

Like working with children? Social workers in schools collaborate with students, parents, and staff to help ensure students thrive. They provide direct and indirect services and organize community resources. In today's rapidly diversifying world, bilingual skills are a plus.

Criminal Justice & Corrections

Across the criminal justice system, social workers make a difference. They're domestic violence prevention advocates, corrections social workers, and dedicated practitioners helping young people rehabilitate their lives. Prison social workers address distinct challenges and issues and benefit from specialized training.

Hospitals

Social workers are critical members of health care teams, working closely with doctors, nurses, and specialists. In hospitals, nursing homes, residential treatment centers, and assisted care facilities, they serve as medical social workers, discharge planners, clinical coordinators, case managers, and more.

Community Organizations

Some practitioners dedicate themselves to a more macro approach and empower communities through on-the-ground organizing, social service agencies, government work, and public health departments. They act as catalysts for positive change on variety of local issues by bringing citizens together.

Corporations & Nonprofits

Cultural competency, critical thinking, direct and effective communication—the wide variety of skills social workers possess leads them to success in the boardroom as executive directors, assistant directors, and directors of social responsibility for corporations and nonprofits.)
