Socialization To Old Age:

Socialization to Old Age Irving Rosow, 1974 Aging in a Changing Society James Thorson, 2013-08-21 The field of gerontology the study of aging has emerged as an area of increasing importance This book is an introduction to the multidisciplinary field of gerontology The text with its friendly narrative style assumes no prior knowledge of gerontology sociology or psychology Handbook of Life-Span Development Karen L. Fingerman, 2011 Print CourseSmart Being and Becoming Old Jon Hendricks, 2019-05-20 How does aging affect the interaction between people and their social environment This intriguing book examines that question from various perspectives exploring in detail the social and psychological dimensions of the aging process Drawing on the insights of many disciplines articles investigate such issues as subjectively evaluated age facts influencing adjustment and attitudes projections and perceptions of competence

Communication and the Aging Process Lois M. Tamir, 2013-10-22 Communication and the Aging Process Interaction throughout the Life Cycle focuses on the process of development from infancy through old age particularly noting the value of communication social interaction and social networks The manuscript first offers information on development throughout the life cycle as well as models of development crisis and change and methodology The text then discusses communicative interaction and origins of communication including interpersonal cognition social interaction caretaker child interaction communication between children and language development The book surveys adolescence and adulthood psychological characteristics of the aged and social world of the aged Personality and morale retirement and widowhood attitudes toward the aged and norms and rules are discussed The manuscript also takes a look at the social networks of the aged and communicative interaction and the aged Concerns include family neighbors friends misperceptions between generations and thought process and communication The text is a vital source of data for readers interested in the study of life cycle The Environment for Aging Russell A. Ward, Mark La Gory, Susan R. Sherman, 1988 The nature and consequences of aging depend on its environmental context and the literature does not treat the various environmental dimensions in an integrated fashion The authors introduce a general approach to the human ecosystem highlighting theoretical and empirical issues necessary to an understanding of person environment interaction related to aging They then investigate in detail three aspects of the environment of older persons residential and neighborhood interpersonal support networks and age related attitudes They give specific attention to the impact of the age composition of neighborhoods and interpersonal networks The authors present findings from their interview survey of 1 185 community residents aged 60 and over Major findings from the interviews include Despite objective neighborhood problems older persons express high neighborhood satisfaction This partly reflects limited residential options as well as a passive and vicarious spatial experience The environment is experienced in diverse ways however urbanism and personal competence shape the nature and outcomes of person environment interaction Older persons have relatively robust interpersonal support networks Perceived sufficiency of contact and support are more salient to morale than are more objective measures of interpersonal support Although attitudes toward other older people are generally favorable patterns of age identity reflect a detrimental view of aging There is little evidence that socialization for aging or age group solidarity make aging easier in this regard Older persons exhibit moderate age homogeneity within their interpersonal networks partly reflecting neighborhood age concentration Contrary to the apparent benefits of planned age segregated housing age homogeneity in neighborhoods and networks does not contribute to well being The authors examine three major themes in their concluding chapter age itself does not loom large in the lives of these community residents though age becomes salient under certain conditions there is diversity in the implications of the environmental context for aging in particular reflecting an environmental docility hypothesis and aging must be viewed in interactional or transactional terms older people construct the environment as a subjective entity

Economic and Social Factors Affecting the Health of Older Adults Colette Joy Browning, Katherine Henrietta Leith, Shane Andrew Thomas, 2023-12-11

In 2020 over 1 billion of the world's population were over the age of 60 years old and it is expected to double by 2050 according to WHO Due to the growing population of older adults there is a focus on healthy aging that will benefit the individuals and the wider communities as older adults will be able to support family members and partake in paid or voluntary work for a longer period of time Currently a large number of older adults are unable to work increasing the likelihood of economic instability with fewer streams of income Economic instability has been proven to have health impacts including declining mental wellbeing malnutrition and the inability to afford prescribed medications Social isolation proves to be another important factor in the overall health of older adults The CDC reports that poor social interactions have been linked to a higher risk of developing multiple serious medical conditions

UCSF General Catalog University of California, San Francisco, 1976

Understanding Local Agency in China's Policy Reform Xiaoye She, 2021-08-23 This book challenges the common perception or assumption that greater state intervention and re-centralization will result in convergence towards a more equitable and inclusive growth model in China Instead of asking whether local agency matters this project examines the conditions and latitude of local agency under initial decentralization followed by increasing top down re-centralization The central argument is that in response to common policy directives and pressures from above disparities in local growth strategies have interacted with political institutions in generating embedded sub-national welfare mix models with varying articulations of state market community and family in Chinese welfare production The bottom up feedback effects from these embedded models have somewhat offset growing top down pressure for re-centralization contributing to persistent sub-national variations This author contributes to a growing literature of comparative political economy that seeks to examine the political and economic logics of social policy in non-western and authoritarian political systems
