Concepts and Theories of Human Development Richard M. Lerner, 2018-04-19 Concepts and Theories of Human Development is the most comprehensive and in depth overview of the foundational theoretical contributions to understanding human development and the influence of these contributions for contemporary research and application in developmental science Since its initial publication in 1976 it has been an essential resource for students and professionals alike and has become the go to book for graduate students studying for their comprehensive exam on human development In this new Fourth Edition Richard M Lerner concentrates his focus on advanced students and scholars already familiar with the basic elements of major psychological theories The book discusses the assumptions involved in such topics as stage theories the nature nurture issue the issue of continuity discontinuity and the important role of philosophical ideas about theories in particular metatheories in understanding the links between theory and research It particularly focuses on relational developmental systems RDS metatheory exploring its roots in the 1930s following its development into the present day and contrasting it with the fundamentally flawed genetic reductionist models that continue to be circulated by scientists the media and the general public It discusses implications of theory for research methods and for applications aimed at the promotion of health positive development and social justice among diverse people across the life span

The Ontogeny of Human Bonding Systems Warren B. Miller, Joseph Lee Rodgers, 2001-11-30 The Ontogeny of Human Bonding Systems takes an interdisciplinary look at the phenomena of human bonding The authors draw upon behavioral genetics molecular genetics of behavior cognitive and affective neuroscience evolutionary psychology human ethology behavioral ecology and the study of attachment processes within developmental psychology The topics will emphasize human reproduction and fertility related behavior in particular and the evolutionary origins and neural underpinnings of such behavior This book is for anyone interested in the evolutionary origins neural underpinnings and psychological structure involved in human relationships

Handbook of Social Development Vincent B. Van Hasselt, Michel Hersen, 2013-11-11 Social development over one s lifetime is a complex area that has received considerable attention in the psychological social psychological and sociological literature over the years Surprisingly however since 1969 when Rand McNally published Goslin's Handbook of Socialization no comprehensive statement of the field has appeared in book form Given the impressive data in this area that have been adduced over the last two decades we trust that our handbook will serve to fill that gap In this volume we have followed a lifespan perspective starting with the social interactions that transpire in the earliest development stages and progressing through childhood adolescence adulthood and finally one's senior years In so doing we cover a variety of issues in depth The book contains 21 chapters and is divided into five parts I Theoretical Perspectives II Infants and Toddlers III Children and Adolescents IV Adults and V The Elderly Each of the parts begins with introductory material that reviews the overall issues to be considered Many individuals have contributed to the final production of this handbook Foremost are our eminent contributors who graciously agreed to share with us their expertise We also thank our administrative and technical staff for their assistance in carrying out the day to day tasks necessary to complete such a project Finally we thank Eliot Werner Executive Editor at Plenum for his willingness to publish and for his tolerance for the delays inevitable in the development of a large handbook

Sociogenetic

Perspectives on Internalization Brian D. Cox, Cynthia Lightfoot, 2013-05-13 The issue of how the external world becomes part of the behavioral repertoire of children has been important to psychology from its very beginning preoccupying theorists from Sigmund Freud to George Herbert Mead But ever since Lev Vygotsky claimed that every function in a child's activity appears first as a process in the social realm between individuals and moves to a process that individual children can accomplish relatively independently there has been increased debate as to exactly how this process of internalization happens In contemporary developmental psychology the process of internalization has become so important that the time is ripe for a book which explicitly addresses the problems it poses Although the chapters in this book deal with age groups from preschool to adolescence and topics from mathematics to storytelling and from taking risks to making moral judgments there is one core question which unifies them all If the growing competence of a child is truly sociogenetic if it truly grows out from is supported by and is dependent upon the social where is that competence truly located Bearing a variety of labels cultural historical co constructionist dialectical contextualist narrative hermeneutic and discursive psychologies and analytic constructs scaffolding proleptic instruction participation appropriation and situated activity contemporary perspectives are showing clear signs of development and differentiation This volume's goal is to help bring some order to these differences without denying either the usefulness of this variety or the importance of the differences among perspectives This new book illuminates these differences by collecting a select sample of theory and research into one of two major sections The first section includes work undertaken from a social interactive perspective The overarching aim is to identify processes of child child or child adult interactions as they emerge over relatively short periods of time Typically the methodology involves the microanalysis of videotaped interactions Development is situated literally within social interactions which are considered directly responsible for children's development The second section provides a sample of work representing a symbolic action perspective This one is not oriented toward social interactions but toward the symbolic meanings that they express and that children impose on them The dominant methodology is interpretive or hermeneutic and the goal is to articulate the figurative metaphoric processes and narrative structures that inhabit social actions and from which they draw their meaning and coherence
