The Development of Black Theater in America Leslie Catherine Sanders, 1989-08-01 In The Development of Black Theater in America Leslie Sanders examines the work of the American black theater's five most productive playwrights Willis Richardson Randolph Edmonds Langston Hughes LeRoi Jones and Ed Bullins Sanders sees the history of black theater as the process of creating a black stage reality while at the same time transforming conventions borrowed from white European culture into forms appropriate to black artists and audiences The author argues that only when these things were accomplished could the aim of black playwrights often articulated as the realistic portrayal of the Negro be fully realized This study also examines the changing nature of the dialogue black playwrights have held with the dominant tradition and how that dialogue has shaped their imaginations Sanders discussion of Richardson Edmonds Hughes Jones and Bullins provides a context for approaching the work of other black playwrights such as James Baldwin Lorraine Hansberry and Owen Dodson And her argument provides a concrete way of understanding how the context of a dominant culture influences the artistic imagination of writers not of that culture who must come to terms with its influences and transform it into a vehicle of their own Bloom's How to Write about Langston Hughes James B. Kelley, Harold Bloom, 2009 Provides a detailed introduction to writing an essay about literature and presents and discusses sample topics based on author Langston Hughes works The Collected Works of Langston Hughes Langston Hughes, Dolan Hubbard, 2001 The sixteen volumes are published with the goal that Hughes pursued throughout his lifetime making his books available to the people Each volume will include a biographical and literary chronology by Arnold Rampersad as well as an introduction by a Hughes scholar lume introductions will provide contextual and historical information on the particular work

The African American Theatrical Body Soyica Diggs Colbert, 2011-10-06 Presenting an innovative approach to performance studies and literary history Soyica Colbert argues for the centrality of black performance traditions to African American literature including preaching dancing blues and gospel and theatre itself showing how these performance traditions create the performative ground of African American literary texts Across a century of literary production using the physical space of the theatre and the discursive space of the page W E B Du Bois Zora Neale Hurston James Baldwin August Wilson and others deploy performances to re situate black people in time and space The study examines African American plays past and present including A Raisin in the Sun Blues for Mister Charlie and Joe Turner's Come and Gone demonstrating how African American dramatists stage black performances in their plays as acts of recuperation and restoration creating sites that have the potential to repair the damage caused by slavery and its aftermath
