Tanami On Foot Across Australia's Desert Heart:

Tanami Kieran Kelly, 2003 Autobiographical account of author's trek across Australia's Tanami desert. In mid 2002 Kieran Kelly, a 49-year-old merchant banker and Andrew Harper of the Outback Camel Company set out to cross the Tanami on foot. Without a support crew, the two men and their five camels pitted themselves against a hostile environment. Includes colour photos. By the author of Hard Country. Hard Men In the Footsteps of Gregory Outback and Out West Tom Lynch, 2022-11 Outback and Out West examines the ecological consequences of a settler colonial imaginary by comparing expressions of settler colonialism in the literature of the American West and Australian Outback. Tom Lynch traces exogenous domination in both regions which resulted in many similar means of settlement including pastoralism, homestead acts, afforestation efforts and bioregional efforts at belonging. Lynch pairs the two nations' texts to show how an analysis at the intersection of ecocriticism and settler colonialism requires a new canon that is responsive to the social, cultural and ecological difficulties created by settlement in the West and Outback. Outback and Out West draws out the regional Anthropocene dimensions of settler colonialism considering such pressing environmental problems as habitat loss, groundwater depletion and mass extinctions. Lynch studies the implications of our settlement heritage on history, art and the environment through the cross-national comparison of spaces. He asserts that bringing an ecocritical awareness to settler colonial theory is essential for reconciliation with dispossessed Indigenous populations as well as reparations for ecological damages as we work to decolonize engagement with and literature about these places. Explorer Travellers and Adventure Tourism Jennifer Laing, Warwick Frost, 2014-08-04 This book examines the nexus between exploring and tourism and argues that exploration travel based heavily on explorer narratives and the promises of personal challenges and change is a major trend in future tourism. In particular, it analyses how romanticised myths of explorers form a foundation for how modern-day tourists view travel and themselves. Its scope ranges from the Golden Age of imperial explorers in the 19th and early 20th centuries through the growth of adventure and extreme tourism to possible future trends including space travel. The volume should appeal to researchers and students across a variety of disciplines including tourism studies, sociology, geography and history.

Journal of the Royal Australian Historical Society Royal Australian Historical Society, 2003 Includes the Society's Annual report and statement of accounts. Books and Travel Jennifer Laing, Warwick Frost, 2012-07-20 The books that we read, whether travel focused or not, may influence the way in which we understand the process or experience of travel. This multidisciplinary work provides a critical analysis of the inspirational and transformational role that books play in travel imaginings. Does reading a book encourage us to think of travel as exotic, adventurous, transformative, dangerous or educative? Do different genres of books influence a reader's view of travel in multifarious ways? These questions are explored through a literary analysis of an eclectic selection of books spanning the period from the eighteenth century to the present day. Genres covered include historical fiction, children's books, westerns, science fiction and crime fiction. Westerly, 2004
