Hensley, Melissa Anne Hensley, 2015-11-06 Despite the critical role that community based supervisors play in the training of social work students there has been no comprehensive resource for core information until now This is a sage practical guide for social work field instructors who want to provide expert guidance to their students in the field and in the classroom It helps field educators to impart the knowledge skills and values of the social work profession and to assist students in translating classroom knowledge into effective practice in realworld settings The book helps instructors to master the nuts and bolts of field education by delineating how to orient students to field work and supervision monitor cases evaluate student performance navigate professional ethics comply with

CSWE practice competencies and fulfill all requirements of a social work practicum. The authors, who are seasoned social work practitioners and veteran field instructors, distill years of hard-earned wisdom regarding all components of the field education process. They describe how to recruit practicum students and facilitate positive collaboration between school and field agency. The chapters outline dos and don'ts of supervision, learning, assessment, planning, and agendas, evaluation plans, and techniques, how to integrate theory and practice, and how to best assist students who are struggling. Plentiful examples from social work programs and field agencies clearly illustrate the challenging process of providing field instruction to both graduate and undergraduate social work students.

KEY FEATURES Provides comprehensive practical guidance for all aspects of social work field education. Includes helpful strategies regarding challenging aspects of field education. Addresses student orientation, evaluation, professional ethics, supervision, dos and don'ts, integrating theory and practice, and much more. Guides field instructors in complying with CSWE practice competencies. Helps field instructors clarify the expectations of a social work practicum and stay connected with their students' schools.

The Practice of Field Instruction in Social Work Marion Bogo, Elaine J. Vayda, 1998. Social work professionals generally agree that one of the most critical components of the learning process for a practitioner in training is field education, and that the field instructor has the greatest influence on a student's approaching career. In Marion Bogo and Elaine Vayda's text, field instructors will find a model for pedagogy based on the authors' many years of experience both in field and classroom environments. Now in its second edition, completely revised and updated, The Practice of Field Instruction in Social Work remains the only volume specifically intended for use by field instructors. Bogo and Vayda address how the teaching professional can systematically address the critical societal, organizational, psycho-social, and interactive components of social work practice. They discuss all phases of the field educator's work, from student orientation to assessment and contracting, from shepherding students' learning processes to evaluating their work. In addition, they bring to the table the many practical concerns that affect today's teaching professional, including the uses and abuses of the instructor-student relationship, ethical issues, and working with students where differences in age, ethnicity, gender, or disability may be important considerations. This book also includes eight teaching modules, each one a complete curriculum with numerous examples and exercises for use by field coordinators in the seminar setting and by field instructors. Throughout the modules, Bogo and Vayda present a wealth of case examples drawn from their teaching experience and that of others who have applied their highly effective pedagogical framework.
