RURAL DEVELOPMENT : COMMUNITY FOREST MANAGEMENT AND SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT Dr. Nukavarapu Nageswara Rao, 2024-03-29 The forest is a significant natural resource that nature has provided to humankind The protection and development of forest resources affects the global environment as well as a nation's population and economy Development of forests involves the extension of the resource base whereas conservation of forests implies the preservation and control of the resource In the light of their long standing cohabitation the preservation and development of forest resources are closely linked to the means of subsistence of local inhabitants It is obvious that any endeavour to conserve and develop forest resources cannot be seen in isolation without taking the local inhabitants concerns about their means of subsistence into account Community Forestry in Western Indian Himalaya Nagendra Prasad Todaria,Dhanpal Singh Chauhan,2025-03-03 The Van Panchayat in Uttarakhand India is a unique community forest management system the only one incorporated into the Indian Forest Act of 1927 Originating from local resistance against British colonial control of forest resources in the early 19th century this system has evolved over the last 93 years The book offers a comprehensive view of the Van Panchayat Institution covering the British colonial policies on forest control and the subsequent developments It compiles all published work on Van Panchayat making it the first book dedicated to this system The chapters explore various aspects like forestry policy management environment ecology economics and social and institutional dimensions providing a holistic understanding of the subject Community Forestry in Nepal Richard Thwaites,Robert Fisher,Mohan Poudel,2017-12-11 Community forestry focuses on the link between forest resources and livelihoods and contributes to forest conservation and reforestation It is widespread in Nepal with a very high proportion of the rural population involved and is widely recognized as one of the most successful examples of community forestry in Asia Through a combination of literature reviews and original research this volume explores key experiences and outcomes of community forestry in Nepal over the last four decades as a model for improving forest management and supporting local livelihoods The book takes a critical approach recognizing successes especially in forest conservation and restoration along with mixed outcomes in terms of poverty reduction and benefits to forest users It recognizes the way that community forestry has continued to evolve to meet new challenges including the global challenges of climate change environmental degradation and conservation as well as national demographic and social changes due to large scale labour migration and the growing remittance economy In addition to examining the changes and responses the book explores ways that community forestry in Nepal might move forward Lessons from Nepal have relevance to community forestry and community based approaches to natural resource management around the world that are also experiencing global pressures and opportunities Wildlife and Protected Area Management Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,1997 Public and Private in Natural Resource Governance Thomas Sikor,2013-05-13 This volume develops the rich conceptual and empirical content of public private relationships increasingly acknowledged as the dominant realm of natural resource governance Ten wonderful studies from around the world illuminate opportunities for advancing the theory analysis and effective formation of sustainable systems of resource use The book is excellent for courses in governance and public policy in any resource and environmental field JEFF ROMM PROFESSOR FOR RESOURCE POLICY UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA AT BERKELEY US The book addresses the theoretically and politically most important division of social organization into public and private The authors bring an exciting multidisciplinary perspective to bear on changing and multiple publics and the strength of relationships connecting these two spheres in rural development and natural resource governance. The contributions range from consumer health and food safety, soil science, forestry and water management to sociological and economic aspects of natural resource property and governance. FRANZ VON BENDA BECKMANN, MAX PLANCK INSTITUTE FOR SOCIAL ANTHROPOLOGY, GERMANY. Natural resources have historically been considered as being governed in public or private spheres that is by the state on behalf of the people or by companies or individuals driven by the market. This dichotomy between private and public is now recognized as overly simplistic and it is clear that publics and privates operate at a range of levels and with differing degrees of separation or overlap. Bringing together a group of internationally respected researchers, this book provides a new perspective on prominent issues in resource governance including the state, NGOs, civil society, communities, participation, devolution, privatization and hybrid institutions, highlighting the three dimensional nature of relations between public and private. It builds on empirical analyses from six fields of natural resource governance: agri environment, biodiversity, bioenergy, food quality and safety, forestry and rural water and employs a comparative approach that goes beyond the specificities of individual policy fields, recognizing shared elements and allowing for a greater understanding of the dynamics underlying governance processes. Introductions to the volume and to each section summarize the key debates and highlight linkages between chapters. This is essential reading for academics, students and policy experts in natural resource governance, development and environmental policy.

Management Julio J. Diez, Beatriz Martín-García, 2012-04-11. The concept of forest sustainability dates from centuries ago although the understanding of sustainable forest management (SFM) as an instrument that harmonizes ecological and socio-economic concerns is relatively new. The change in perspective occurred at the beginning of the 1990s in response to an increased awareness of the deterioration of the environment in particular of the alarming loss of forest resources. The book collects original case studies from 12 different countries in four continents: Africa, America, Asia and Europe. These studies represent a wide variation of experiences from developing and developed countries and should clarify the current status of SFM worldwide and the problems associated with its implementation. Geography and Environment: Regional issues Prithvish Nag, Virendra Kumar Kumra, Jagadish Singh, 1997. Najih, Jady Zaidi Hassim, Dewa Gede Sudika Mangku, Hasnan Bachtiar, Fifik Wiryani, Hikmahanto Juwana, Sonny Zuhuda, Muhammad Fauzan, 2025-02-27 This book is an open access Law is a set of rules made to foster regularity and guarantee safety and certainty for citizens The existence of Law is intended to maintain social order and control societal changes into something as expected Both law and humanity are inextricable and they work in harmony Therefore the formulation and enforcement must take place simultaneously This view is relevant to the idea of Prof Satjipto Raharjo in his progressive legal theory believing that law is born for human beings not the other way around In other words the law should keep moving to maintain the people's welfare and to ensure that the certainty justice and utility of the law are guaranteed Recently the world has been faced with seemingly unstoppable humanitarian crises Prolonged conflict has caused severe losses affecting physical economic and psychological conditions and no diplomatic and repressive actions have managed to stop this issue In such a situation the law should play its role in protecting those affected by this inhuman conflict However international and national laws seem to be left as nothing but mere meaningless written rules that fail to address this existing problem In such a situation humanity is being disrupted which it sees a change of meaning triggering a critical situation and blurring it This situation also indicates that these days humanity is facing challenges Departing from this perspective the Faculty of Law Universitas Muhammadiyah Malang holds the 5th International Conference of Law and Call for Papers with the Theme Redefining Humanity Values as the Basis of Legal Reasoning Challenges in the Disruption Era From this conference we expect to welcome more ideas of redefining the significance of humanity toward the law in the existing challenges
