Teaching Writing Pedagogy Gender And Equity:

Teaching Writing Cynthia L. Caywood, Gillian R. Overing, 1987-01-01 This anthology explores the relationship between feminism and writing theory The chapters cover the major issues basic pedagogical theory and philosophical approaches to the teaching of writing studies of problems encountered by female writers and writing instructors and useful how to essays on classroom technique The authors also address important provocative questions about power in the classroom its use abuse and distribution The book is based on the concept of equity which the editors define Equity does not mean to us the abolition of differences among individuals nor does it imply a blanket imposition of an Orwellian homogeneity It does not mean stifling some voices so that others may be heard it does not demand the compromising of academic standards in the name of egalitarianism Equity as we understand it creates new standards which accommodate and nurture differences Equity fosters the individual voice in the classroom investing students with confidence in their own authority Equity unleashes the creative potential of heterogeneity this definition of equity is at the heart of this anthology and our attempts as teachers to model our pedagogy on this principle provided the impetus for assembling it from the Introduction

Consideration for Teaching Writing to Black Female Students Roberta Rietberg Hartt, 1988 Constructing Rhetorical Education Davida Charney, Wilma R. Ebbitt, 1992 In nineteen essays illustrating its many aspects this book offers an argument for what it takes to construct a complete rhetorical education The editors take an approach that is pragmatic and pluralistic based as it is on the assumptions that a rhetorical education is not limited to teaching freshman composition or any specific writing course and that the contexts in which such an education occurs are not limited to classrooms This thought provoking volume stresses that while a rhetorical education results in the growth of writing skills its larger goal is to foster critical thinking

Gender and Academe Sara Munson Deats, Lagretta Tallent Lenker, 1994 This collection of new essays from 29 feminist scholars in a range of humanities and social science disciplines argues that pedagogical methods as well as curricula and textbooks should reflect feminist theories and emphases At the same time the scholars demonstrate that feminists can advocate both hierarchy and equality authority and freedom order and flexibility objectivity and subjectivity reason and feeling without being guilty of philosophical treason Contributors Evelyn Ashton Jones Meredith Butler John Clifford Blanche Radford Curry Sara Munson Deats Gloria DeSole Janet Mason Ellerby Mary Ann Gawelek Brenda Gross Judith M Green Suzan Harrison Kathleen Day Hulbert Carolyn Johnston Lagretta Tallent Lenker Linda E Lucas Carol Mattingly Colleen McNally Maggie Mulqueen Virginia Nees Hatlen Judith Ochshorn Gary A Olson Sharyl Bender Peterson Eleanor Roffman Fran Schattenberg Lisa S Starks Jill Mattuck Tarule Charlotte Templin Arnold S Wolfe Linda Woodbridge Judith Worell

Writing and Identity Roz Ivani?, 1998 Writing is not just about conveying content but also about the representation of self One of the reasons people find writing difficult is that they do not feel comfortable with the me they are portraying in their writing Academic writing in particular often poses a conflict of identity for students in higher education because the self which is inscribed in academic discourse feels alien to them The main claim of this book is that writing is an act of identity in which people align themselves with socio culturally shaped subject positions and thereby play their part in reproducing or challenging dominant practices and discourses and the values beliefs and interests which they embody The first part of the book reviews recent understandings of social identity of the discursive construction of identity of literacy and identity and of issues of identity in research on academic writing The main part of the book is based on a collaborative research project about writing and identity with mature age students providing a case study of one writer's dilemmas over the presentation of self a discussion of the way in which writers' life histories shape their presentation of self in writing an interview based study of issues of ownership and of accommodation and resistance to conventions for the presentation of self linguistic analysis of the ways in which multiple often contradictory interests values beliefs and practices are inscribed in discourse conventions which set up a range of possibilities for selfhood for writers The book ends with implications of the study for research on writing and identity and for the learning and teaching of academic writing The book will be of interest to students and researchers in the fields of social identity literacy discourse analysis rhetoric and composition studies and to all those concerned to understand what is involved in academic writing in order to provide wider access to higher education

Literacy as Social Exchange Maureen M. Hourigan, 1994-09-27 Literacy as Social Exchange examines the intersection of culture and literacy education In particular it explores the roles that class race ethnicity and gender play in students learning to negotiate the conventions of academic discourse It argues that recent literacy scholarship has tended to isolate class gender and culture as discrete marginalizing factors but such isolation may unintentionally silence voices from non Western non mainstream cultures Writing program administrators and writing teachers who are interested in constructing programs that address the needs of all students in increasingly multicultural classrooms will need to examine how cultural factors influence the way students learn to read write and think critically The author points out that some of the most influential scholars writing about the plight of underprivileged writers teach at some of the most exclusive institutions in the nation These basic writers are not nearly so disadvantaged as many of the student writers most writing teachers encounter every day The author explores enrollment trends in higher education that indicate conclusively that writing classrooms will soon be filled with students from non Western non mainstream cultures Because these students rhetorical and literacy traditions will be unlike both those of their teachers and of the basic writers upon which so much literacy scholarship focuses educators and literacy scholars need to increasingly conceptualize literacy in its larger political social and economic contexts

Composing Social Identity in Written Language Donald L. Rubin, 2013-09-13 This volume constitutes a unique contribution to the literature on literacy and culture in several respects It links together aspects of social variation that have not often been thus juxtaposed ethnicity nationality gender and participant role relations The unifying theme of this collection of papers is that all of these factors are aspects of writers' identities identities which are simultaneously expressed and constructed in text The topic of social identity and writing can be approached from a variety of scholarly avenues including humanistic critical and historical perspectives The papers in the present volume make reference to and contribute to such humanistic perspectives however this book lies squarely within the tradition of social science It draws primarily upon the disciplines of linguistics discourse analysis anthropology social and cognitive psychology and education studies The constituent topics of social identity style and writing themselves lie at the intersections of several related fields of scholarship Writing remains of peak interest to educators from many fields and is still a hot topic The instructional ramifications of the particular issues addressed in this volume are of vital concern to educational systems adjusting to the realities of our multicultural society This publication therefore should attract a substantial and diverse readership of scholars educators and policymakers affiliated with many fields including applied linguistics composition and rhetoric communication studies dialect studies discourse analysis English composition English language arts education ethnic studies language behavior literacy sociolinguistics stylistics women s studies and writing research and instruction Encyclopedia of Rhetoric and Composition Theresa Enos, 2011-04-06 This reference guide surveys the field covering rhetoric s principles concepts applications practical tools and major thinkers Drawing on the scholarship and expertise of 288 contributors the Encyclopedia presents a long needed overview of rhetoric and its role in contemporary education and communications discusses rhetoric s contributions to various fields surveys the applications of this versatile discipline to the teaching of English and language arts and illustrates its usefulness in all kinds of discourse argument and exchange of ideas

Fragments of Rationality Lester Faigley, 2014-07-12 In an insightful assessment of the study and teaching of writing against the larger theoretical political and technological upheavals of the past thirty years Fragments of Rationality questions why composition studies has been less affected by postmodern theory than other humanities and social science disciplines
