Teaching Media In The English Curriculum:

Teaching Media in the English Curriculum Andrew Hart, Alun Hicks, 2002 Learning English is a problem in many secondary schools yet students watch hear understand and discuss television radio and film This school based British research shows teachers can make use of this and includes strategies for doing so

The Changing Role of Media in the English Curriculum Steve Connolly, 2021-10-11 This book analyses and explains the role that the study of media texts has played in English curricula across the last 30 years exploring the implications of these changes for teachers and students Presenting a documentary analysis of the key evidence surrounding the history of media texts within English the book focuses on how media has been characterized in the subject of English in the UK National Curriculum while also reflecting on the position of media texts in other English speaking National Curricula such as Australia and New Zealand It dissects the changing role of media texts in English considering media texts which range from newspapers and print adverts films and TV through to digital web based and multimodal texts The book charts the history of this part of English and considers what it can tell us about the nature of curriculum and English education more broadly Speaking to important issues of curriculum in education this book will be key reading for researchers students and practitioners of media education English education and the history of education

Teaching the Media Andrew Hart, 2013-12-16 In TEACHING THE MEDIA INTERNATIONAL PERSPECTIVES Andrew Hart initiates a challenging dialogue about approaches to Media teaching in the major English speaking nations of the world including the United States Canada the United Kingdom Australia and South Africa By animating actual lessons and the considered views of classroom practitioners TEACHING THE MEDIA encourages readers to develop new perspectives on Media teaching to examine approaches that differ from their own and to reflect critically on their own practices with a view to understanding them more fully and enhancing their effectiveness in the classroom Based on original research that began in England in the early 1990s this is the first international comparative study to focus on Media Education in English speaking countries It systematically examines classroom strategies for Media teaching in the light of the major theoretical paradigms which have emerged globally over the last 50 years It analyses the rich diversity of different educational concerns goals and classroom practices through a series of national studies of teachers and lessons As a result not only do we see how Media is actually taught in range of classroom contexts but existing models of Media teaching can now be more precisely critiqued and made more accessible for further research and development

Media Literacy in Schools Andrew Burn, James Durran, 2007-05-22 Includes CD Rom Intriguing and timely I whole heartedly recommend this text to teacher educators and their trainees certainly across English and the Arts but arguably to all engaged in considering critical pedagogy across the curriculum ESCalate This is a very timely book firmly rooted in authentic albeit visionary classroom practice that has much to offer to teachers of all subjects but should be particularly welcomed by English and media colleagues English Drama Media Heaving with ideas outstanding lesson ideas and inspiring work from students The

Secondary English Magazine I really enjoyed working my way through this book The book is accompanied by a DVD organised into chapters which correspond to those in the book and it was great to see the ideas and schemes referred to in the text come alive The schemes have been included which makes it even easier to adapt the work to fit the technology and resources available in your own school All teachers of media would benefit from browsing this book Learning Teaching Update This book is for secondary English Media and ICT teachers who want to develop practical media work and media literacy across the curriculum It is ideal for secondary English and media teachers and curriculum leaders in secondary schools as well as ICT teachers and co ordinators PCGE English Media students and researchers working on media English and ICT projects A range of case studies are presented which show how digital media work from video editing to computer game authoring can be developed in schools drawing on children s own cultural knowledge It also shows the benefits of such projects in terms of learning outcomes and increased self esteem for a range of learners The book comes with a CD Rom of children s work from the various case study projects exhibiting the high standard of moving image work animations and computer games that can be produced with the help of this text With an integrated approach drawing together practice theory and research the book will help teachers to plan for and develop their own media projects in school It offers advice on integrating media work across the curriculum in English and media classes as well as in ICT and citizenship and presents a model of progression which shows how learning can develop from the first years of secondary school through to GCSE level In line with current government initiatives to open up curriculum boundaries the book shows how to plan for longer periods of time for these projects
