The Agrarian Transition In America Dualism And Change:

The Agrarian Transition in America Wayne C. Rohrer, Louis H. Douglas, 1969      Dualism and Change Wayne C. Rohrer, Louis H. Douglas, 1965      The Agrarian Origins of American Capitalism Allan Kulikoff, 1992 Allan Kulikoff's provocative new book traces the rural origins and growth of capitalism in America challenging earlier scholarship and charting a new course for future studies in history and economics Kulikoff argues that long before the explosive growth of cities and big factories capitalism in the countryside changed our society the ties between men and women the relations between different social classes the rhetoric of the yeomanry slave migration and frontier settlement He challenges the received wisdom that associates the birth of capitalism wholly with New York Philadelphia and Boston and show how studying the critical market forces at play in farm and village illuminates the defining role of the yeomen class in the origins of capitalism      From Prairie Farmer to Entrepreneur Dennis Nordin, Roy V. Scott, 2005-01-18 Their account will inform readers with a detailed account of one of the great transformations in American life BOOK JACKET      An Opportunity Lost Virgil W. Dean, 2006 Examines Charles Brannan's agricultural plan the farm policy debate and Harry S Truman's quest for a long range agricultural program Assesses Truman's relationships with farmers and with politicians and the search for a workable peacetime program especially as it related to the parity price foundation and price supports Provided by publisher

Labor and the Locavore Margaret Gray, 2013-10-25 In the blizzard of attention around the virtues of local food production food writers and activists place environmental protection animal welfare and saving small farms at the forefront of their attention Yet amid this turn to wholesome and responsible food choices the lives and working conditions of farmworkers are often an afterthought Labor and the Locavore focuses on one of the most vibrant local food economies in the country the Hudson Valley that supplies New York restaurants and farmers markets Based on more than a decade's in depth interviews with workers farmers and others Gray's examination clearly shows how the currency of agrarian values serves to mask the labor concerns of an already hidden workforce She also explores the historical roots of farmworkers predicaments and examines the ethnic shift from Black to Latino workers With an analysis that can be applied to local food concerns around the country this book challenges the reader to consider how the mentality of the alternative food movements implies a comprehensive food ethic that addresses workers concerns      Thrown Away Linda Flowers, 1990 Guided by memory and experience reading and conversations Linda Flowers offers a perceptive and often painful rendering of the changes industrialization has brought to her native region of eastern North Carolina since 1960 Entwined with her own narrative of coming of age in the rural South is the story of the undoing of the local way of life brought about by the demise of tenant farming Flowers charts the progress of the first generation to make the transition from farm to factory and records their hopes and dreams of achieving a better life The sixties brought industrialization and sweeping changes in public schooling characterized by integration and large consolidated school systems Ten years later it was apparent that neither the schools nor the factories had yet fulfilled the promise inherent in them The children of that first generation to leave the farm struggled to find and keep even low paying dead end jobs their plight worsening with the rise of the service oriented economy of the 1980s As the author s interviews with students teachers and administrators reveal educational innovations have not meant improvements for all and white flight from public schools to private academies has sometimes sabotaged the goals of integration Flowers finds a generation of displaced families on whom long hours of shift work low wages and abandoned hopes have taken their toll The factories have come and sometimes gone in eastern North Carolina leaving behind a place and its people thrown away

Greening Criminology in the 21st Century Matthew Hall,Tanya Wyatt,Nigel South,Angus Nurse,Gary Potter,Jennifer Maher,2016-11-25 In the 21st century environmental harm is an ever present reality of our globalised world Over the last 20 years criminologists working alongside a range of other disciplines from the social and physical sciences have made great strides in their understanding of how different institutions in society and criminal justice systems in particular respond or fail to respond to the harm imposed on ecosystems and their human and non human components Such research has crystallised into the rapidly evolving field of green criminology This pioneering volume with contributions from leading experts along with younger scholars represents the state of the art in criminologists pursuit of understanding in the environmental sphere while at the same time challenging academics lawmakers and policy developers to explore new directions in the study of environmental harm

Contested Lands Robert J. Mason,1992 The nation s first and only national reserve the Pinelands of New Jersey is located in the middle of the densely populated urban corridor between New York City and Philadelphia Possessing vast quantities of pure groundwater distinct flora and fauna and a fascinating history of human occupancy and resource exploitation the Pine Barrens is managed by a 15 member commission appointed at the federal state and local level In his discussion of the implementation of the Pinelands Commission s regional plan Robert Mason explores the changing politics of place and the associated conflicts of interest that have emerged The Pinelands program is widely viewed as a land use and regional planning experiment of national significance While the commission is sustained by legislative and gubernatorial support and an absence of well organized public opposition it still has had to accommodate community and rural entrepreneurial interests In order to convey some sense of the social political and economic texture of the Pinelands Mason examines three communities Woodland Township Hamilton Township and Manchester Township The Pinelands experience offers a unique model for the management of valued places across the nation and provides valuable lessons about the human problems that confront ecologically driven planning schemes with human settlement patterns political subdivisions and economic systems Author note Robert J Mason is

Night Riders Christopher Waldrep, 1993 In the late nineteenth century industrialization was making its way into rural America In an agricultural region of Kentucky and Tennessee called the Black Patch for the dark tobacco grown there big business arrived with a vengeance eliminating competition manipulating prices and undermining local control The farmers fought back Night Riders tells the story of the struggle that followed and reveals the ambiguities and complexities of a drama that convulsed this community for over two decades Christopher Waldrep shows that contrary to many accounts these wealthy tobacco planters did not resist these new forces simply because of a nostalgia for a bygone time Instead many sought to become modern capitalists themselves but on their own terms The South's rural elite found their ability to hire and control black labor the established racial practice of the community threatened by the low prices offered by big companies for their raw materials In response farmers organized and demanded better prices for their tobacco The tobacco companies then attempted to divide the farmers by offering higher prices to those willing to break with the others When some cultivators succumbed their betrayal awakened a deeply rooted vigilante tradition that called for the protection of community at all costs Waldrep analyzes the spasm of violence that ensued in which horsemen riding at night destroyed tobacco barns and the warehouses where the companies stored their tobacco But despite this fierce upheaval the Black Patch community endured The most thorough treatment ever given to the Black Patch war Night Riders illuminates a moment in history in which the traditional and the modern the rural and the industrial fought for the future and past of a community
