Roman Decorative Stone Collections in the Kelsey Museum of Archaeology J. Clayton Fant, Leah E. Long, Lynley J. McAlpine, 2024 At the turn of the twentieth century Francis W Kelsey began to amass a large collection of artifacts from ancient sites across the Mediterranean with an emphasis on Imperial Rome to broaden the teaching of antiquity at the University of Michigan Among the objects now housed in the museum that bears his name is a collection of seven hundred colorful stones dating to the Roman period one of the largest and most varied collections of Roman decorative stones outside Europe These pieces were obtained as archaeological artifacts mostly architectural with many deriving from well known ancient buildings such as the Baths of Diocletian in Rome and the Palace of Herod in Jericho allowing for new interpretations of their architectural decoration and design Chapters trace the formation of the collection study the archaeology of the artifacts and detail the history of each stone and its study with a comprehensive bibliography In keeping with the nature of the collection Roman Decorative Stone Collections focuses on archaeological contexts and object biographies from the stones first use to their eventual display in the Kelsey Museum Entries are accompanied by rich photographs detailing the stones appearances environmental factors and their collectors The fully illustrated catalog includes essays deriving from Kelsey s original notes on sources buildings sites and dealers As the first formal catalog of these items Roman Decorative Stone Collections is an accessible resource of Roman archaeology antiquities and the decorative arts A Lapidary, Or, The History of Pretious Stones Thomas Nicols, 1652 The Churchman , 1892 Stone , 1937 New Approaches to Old Stones Yorke M. Rowan, Jennie R. Ebeling, 2016-04-08 Ground stone artefacts were widely used in food production in prehistory However the archaeological community has widely neglected the dataset of ground stone artefacts until now New Approaches to Old Stones offers a theoretical and methodological analysis of the archaeological data pertaining to ground stone tools The essays draw on a range of case studies from the Levant Egypt Crete Anatolia Mexico and North America to examine ground stone technologies From medieval Islamic stone cooking vessels and late Minoan stone vases to the use of stone in ritual and as a symbol of luxury New Approaches to Old Stones offers a radical reassessment of the impact of ground stone artefacts on technological change production and exchange Report on the Building and Ornamental Stones of Canada William Arthur Parks, 1916 The Victoria History of the County of Nottingham William Page, 1910 The Archaeological Journal , 1904 Lexicographical Studies in Ancient Egyptian Minerals J. Cheetham,2005 Francis Cheetham's classic survey of English medieval alabasters includes a richly illustrated catalogue of the Victoria and Albert Museum's unparalleled collection English alabasters represent a unique contribution to medieval art Less sophisticated perhaps than other contemporary forms of religious art they were a neglected area of study until this volume was first published in 1984 Stories from the New Testament and The Golden Legend were the most favoured subjects and the numerous examples that survive in churches and museums throughout Europe attest to their wide and enduring appeal FrancisCheetham examines here all aspects of their production and demonstrates how the panels and altarpieces can aid our understanding of life and devotional practice in medieval times At the heart of this fascinating study is a richly illustrated catalogue of the 260 examples in the collection of London's Victoria and Albert Museum a collection so comprehensive that it would be possible to write a survey of the subject almost without recourse to pieces elsewhere as Sir Roy Strong notes in his Foreword Their division into subject categories is an invaluable aid to identification and classification The late Francis Cheetham was an acknowledged expert on medieval English alabasters and this reissue of his classic work will be welcomed by historians art historians collectors and dealers alike taking its place alongside his Alabaster Images of Medieval England which was published by the Boydell Press in 2003
