restores the core economic concept of trade to its medieval contexts showing that it contains three component parts value consent and community Medieval writing about trade not only relies on these elements it presents them as unproblematic By addressing texts in which each element of trade is discussed directly Farber demonstrates that this straightforward picture is falsely reassuring In fact these ideas were deeply contested In the end Farber reveals writing about trade was not descriptive but argumentative analyzing the act in an attempt to justify it Such texts reveal deep intellectual uncertainties about the market society they advocated An Anatomy of Trade in Medieval Writing benefits from Farber s close reading of literary sources among them the poetry of Geoffrey Chaucer and Robert Henryson theological sources including the writing of Thomas Aquinas and Richard of Middleton and legal sources such as the canon law on marriage formation A provocative contribution to our understanding of medieval life and thought this book implies a need to reconsider the genealogy of economics as a way of thinking about the world Medieval Allegory and the Building of the New Jerusalem Ann Raftery Meyer,2003 The chantry movement in late medieval England is situated in this context and leads to a demonstration of the movement s associations with the highly wrought poem Pearl and its companion poems the book analyses Pearl as medieval architecture offering fresh perspectives on its elaborate construction and historical context BOOK JACKET *St. Erkenwald ...
