Alex Shaw,2011-06-06 When it comes to football chants British fans surely must be top of the league Throughout the country every weekend football stadiums ring with the sound of hundred of thousands of supporters singing the praises of their favourite players rubbishing the opposition having a go at the ref and waxing lyrical about past legends Chants can spring from deep rooted rivalries or simply from the fact that a player has a funny name Plundering the pop charts for tunes to set their ditties too fans have come up with hundreds of hilarious moving clever and often downright scandalous songs all brought together here From close to the knuckle terrace favourites to brilliantly witty off the cuff chants and the classics heard in nearly every stadium in the land Shall We Sing a Song For You is the perfect collection of the good the bad and the downright offensive

Performing National Identity Manfred Pfister, Ralf Hertel, 2008 National identity is not some naturally given or metaphysically sanctioned racial or territorial essence that only needs to be conceptualised or spelt out in discursive texts it emerges from takes shape in and is constantly defined and redefined in individual and collective performances It is in performances ranging from the scenarios of everyday interactions to cultural performances such as pageants festivals political manifestations or sports to the artistic performances of music dance theatre literature the visual and culinary arts and more recent media that cultural identity and a sense of nationhood are fashioned National identity is not an essence one is born with but something acquired in and through performances Particularly important here are intercultural performances and transactions and that not only in a colonial and postcolonial dimension where such performative aspects have already been considered but also in inner European transactions Englishness or Britishness and Italianita the subject of this anthology are staged both within each culture and more importantly in joint performances of difference across cultural borders Performing difference highlights differences that make a difference it draws a line between self and other boundary lines that are however constantly being redrawn and renegotiated and remain instable and shifting
