The Chinese Socialism

Raffaella Di Napoli

The Chinese Socialism:

Marxism and the Chinese Experience Arif Dirlik, Maurice J. Meisner, 1989 These essays consider the implications for Chinese socialism of the repudiation of the Cultural Revolution and the legacy of Mao Zedong as well as the meaning of the new definition and direction Mao's successors have given socialism. The themes have been selected for conceptual coherence within a socialist problematic of social change. Representing anthropology, art history, economics, history, literature, and politics, various inquiries point in a twofold direction: the meaning of socialism for China and the meaning of Chinese Socialism for socialism as a global phenomenon, meaning not in some abstract sense but rather as it is constituted in the process of political ideological activity which articulates and defines social relationships within China as well as China's relationship to the world.

The Chinese Road to Socialism Edward Lawrence Wheelwright, Bruce J. McFarlane, 1970 Essay on the role of socialist ideology and the human factor in the economic development of China in the light of the social movement for cultural change provides a detailed exposition and analysis of how through the cultural revolution an attempt is being made to shape Chinese society in the image of communist ideals rather than to let communist ideals be overwhelmed by the pressures of traditional social structure.

References: Chinese Socialism to 1907 Martin Bernal, 1976 Socialism in China (1919-1965) Yu Youjun, 2015-05-31 This book integrates the history of China's socialist ideology and socialist movement with the history of the Communist Party of China (CPC) and that of modern China. It attempts to inform the reader with an objective narration of major historical events, a vivid depiction of great personalities, and the concise and insightful comments of the author, Dr. Yu Youjun. Socialism in China 1919-1965 covers the period spanning from the May 4th Movement of 1919 to the eve of the Cultural Revolution in 1965. Providing a broad historical perspective and sharp insights, it describes this period in detail from the introduction of Marxism to China to the CPC integrating the theory with China's prevailing conditions and enriching it with Chinese characteristics to the evolution and practice of scientific socialism in China. The Chinese Communists, represented by Mao Zedong, integrated the fundamental tenets of Marxism with China's prevailing conditions and revolutionary practices to create their own New Democracy Theory that included both new democratic revolution and new democratic society and to establish the People's Republic of China. The author's systematic review and thinking of their explorations of a theory and path to build socialism in a country that was semi-colonial and semi-feudal, burdened with a backward economy and culture, and his objective summary of the lessons and experiences from their explorations all act as a mirror for today's governance and education.

Marxism in the Chinese Revolution Arif Dirlik, 2005 Representing a lifetime of research and writing by noted historian Arif Dirlik, the essays collected here explore developments in Chinese socialism and the issues that have occupied historians of the Chinese revolution for the past three decades. Dirlik engages Chinese socialism critically but with sympathy for the aspirations of revolutionaries who found the hope of social, political, and cultural liberation in Communist alternatives to capitalism and the intellectual inspiration to realize their hopes in Marxist theory The book's historical approach to Marxist theory emphasizes its global relevance while avoiding dogmatic and Eurocentric limitations These incisive essays range from the origins of socialism in the early twentieth century through the victory of the Communists in mid century to the virtual abandonment by century's end of any pretense to a socialist revolutionary project by the leadership of the Chinese Communist Party All that remains of the revolution in historical hindsight are memories of its failures and misdeeds but Dirlik retains a critical perspective not just toward the past but also toward the ideological hegemonies of the present Taken together his writings reaffirm the centrality of the revolution to modern Chinese history They also illuminate the fundamental importance of Marxism to grasping the flaws of capitalist modernity despite the fact that in the end the socialist response was unable to transcend the social and ideological horizons of capitalism

The Road to Socialism with Chinese Characteristics Zheng Qian, 2018 The founding of the Communist Party of China CPC in 1921 the spread of Marxism and the rise of the workers and peasants movement provided a powerful organization and ideological basis for China to explore a new road to modernization Relying on a mass movement supported by strong ideals beliefs and strict discipline the CPC with Mao Zedong as the representative successfully opened a revolutionary road to reclaim the national power From 1949 to 1976 great efforts were made to explore the road of socialism construction During this time China's modernization made great strides forward but also experienced some serious twists and turns The experiences and lessons of this time period have provided valuable political material and ideological resources for the future China has successfully found a different road to modernization from the Western countries and the Soviet Union giving the Chinese Road great historical significance This book takes an in depth look at this fascinating history in Chinese politics Subject Chinese Studies Politics Socialism The Political Economy of Chinese Development Mark Selden, 2016-09-16 The first edition of The Political Economy of Chinese Socialism reconceptualized the political economy of China by highlighting the changing character of urban rural and state society conflicts in the era of Mao Zedong's leadership and in the contemporary post Mao reforms. The economic and social crises that engulfed China and indeed much of the rest of the socialist world in the late 1980s culminating in the 1989 democratic movement and its suppression stimulated a rethinking of central propositions of the first edition. It particularly led the author to inquire anew into the meaning of socio political as well as economic development in a populous and poor agrarian nation. This volume then assesses the economic performance and social consequences of China's political economy over four decades with a focus on China's countryside and city countryside relations. In addition to a reconceptualization and updating of the introductory chapter there is a new chapter The Social Origins and Limits of the Chinese Democratic Movement. Build Socialism with Chinese Characteristics Xiaoping Deng, 1985 The Chinese Reassessment of Socialism, 1976-1992 Yan Sun, 1995-08-21 A momentous debate has been unfolding in China over the last fifteen years only intermittently in public view concerning the merits of socialism as a philosophy of social justice and as a program for national development. Just as Deng Xiaoping's better advertised experiment with market based reforms has challenged Marxist Leninist dogma on economic policy the years since the death of Mao Zedong have seen a profound reexamination of a more basic question to what extent are the root problems of the system due to Chinese socialism and Marxism generally. Here Yan Sun gathers a remarkable group of primary materials drawn from an unusual range of sources to present the most systematic and comprehensive study of post Mao reappraisal of China's socialist theory and practice. Rejecting an assumption often made in the West that Chinese socialist thought has little bearing on politics and policymaking Sun takes the arguments of the post Mao era seriously on their own terms. She identifies the major factions in the debate reveals the interplay among official and unofficial forces and charts the development of the debate from an initially parochial concern with problems raised by Chinese practice to a grand critique of the theory of socialism itself. She concludes with an enlightening comparison of the reassessments undertaken by Deng Xiaoping with those of Gorbachev linking them to the divergent outcomes of reform and revolution in their respective countries.
