Learning and Governance in the EU Policy Making Process Anthony R. Zito,2013-10-18 This book takes stock of learning theories in the European Union EU integration literature and assesses what insights the concept of learning has added to our understanding of the European integration processes Given the European integration dynamics since 2000 including enlargement and new governance approaches and instruments learning and learning related theories have gained major EU significance The book addresses the less noticed micro level patterns of behavioural change that deserve more visibility in the EU s theoretical toolbox It focuses on the conditions under which EU actors in various decision making processes learn or do not learn In asking this question it raises issues about the EU s nature Do the EU conditions that favour learning outweigh the EU conditions that inhibit learning Is the EU system too complex for learning processes to have a discernible concrete impact To assess the degree that the EU system and its member states learn the authors selected for this volume are all explicitly comparative in their approach and have been encouraged to look at differences across political systems In doing so the authors study how EU member states EU institutions and other groups and organisations pursue learning across the multi level EU policy process This book was previously published as a special issue of Journal of European Public Policy
