The Emerging Response To Child Labour Conditions O:

The Child and the State in India Myron Weiner, 2021-02-09 India has the largest number of non schoolgoing working children in the world Why has the government not removed them from the labor force and required that they attend school as have the governments of all developed and many developing countries To answer this question this major comparative study first looks at why and when other states have intervened to protect children against parents and employers By examining Europe of the nineteenth century the United States Japan and a number of developing countries Myron Weiner rejects the argument that children were removed from the labor force only when the incomes of the poor rose and employers needed a more skilled labor force Turning to India the author shows that its policies arise from fundamental beliefs embedded in the culture rather than from economic conditions Identifying the specific values that elsewhere led educators social activists religious leaders trade unionists military officers and government bureaucrats to make education compulsory and to end child labor he explains why similar groups in India do not play the same role Working Children Chandragupt S. Sanon, 1998 With reference to a study conducted at Ahmedabad India Children at Work Valentina Forastieri, 2002 Topics covered include child labour occupational health occupational safety developed country developing country

Governance and Business Models for Sustainable Capitalism Atle Midttun, 2021-12-20 Governance and Business Models for Sustainable Capitalism touches upon many of the central themes of today's debate on business and society. In particular, it brings attention to a recurrent tension between efficiency, innovation and productivity on the one hand and fairness, equity and sustainability on the other. The book argues that we need radical rethinking of business models and economic governance beyond the classical doctrine which sees social and ecological responsibility as lying with public policy regulation of purely profit seeking firms. In spite of the popular CSR agenda, business as we know it today is both too transient and too limited in its motivation to carry the regulatory burden. We need to adopt a much wider concept of partnered governance where advanced states and pioneering companies work together to raise the social and environmental bar. The book suggests that civil engagements based on moral rather than formal rights and amplified through the media may provide a healthy challenge both to autocratic planning and to solely profit centered commercialization. The book also proposes a triple cycle theory of innovation for sustainability, a novel framing of the efficacy of green and prosocial entrepreneurship as intertwined with political visions and supportive institutions. In addition, the book offers reflections on the ways in which further digital robotization may enable transition to an Agora Economy where productive efficiency is combined with expanded civic freedoms. Aimed primarily at researchers, academics and students in the fields of political economy, business and society, corporate governance, business ethics, corporate social responsibility and sustainability, the book will additionally be of value to practitioners, supplying them with information regarding the challenges associated with the shaping of sustainable or civilised market capitalism for a better world.

Hearings on International Child Labor United States. Dept. of Labor. International Child Labor Office,1998      The Encyclopedia of Christianity Erwin Fahlbusch,Geoffrey William Bromiley,1999 This multifaceted and up to date encyclopedia is sure to be of interest to pastors and church workers of all confessions equally so to students scholars and researchers around the world who are interested in any aspect of Christianity or religion in general The first volume contains 465 articles that address a comprehensive list of topics      Global Governance, Human Rights and International Law Errol P. Mendes,2022-08-18 This book offers a stimulating introduction to the links between areas of global governance human rights global economy and international law By drawing on a range of diverse subject areas it argues that the foundations of global governance human rights and international law are undermined by a conflict or tragic flaw where insistence on absolute conceptions of state sovereignty are pitted against universally accepted principles of justice and human rights resulting in destructive self interest for both the state and the global community Following the election of President Donald Trump the second edition will explores how we are witnessing a critical battle to ensure that human rights international law and the beneficial aspects of globalization will still be relevant and applied in some of the critical institutions of global governance and in the operations of the global private sector The second edition will focus on how States institutions and global civil society will have to ramp up the struggle to fight this tragic flaw that is now even more evident with the actions of the US and other authoritarian states like China and Russia in this second decade of the 21st Century      The New Politics of American Trade I. M. Destler,Peter J. Balint,1999 Imports pour into the United States up by 79 percent in six years The trade deficit more than doubles The House of Representatives solidly rejects a bill that would liberalize global and regional trade and endorses import quotas for a major manufactured product by a two to one margin Although at first glance these events of the 1990s might sound like past chapters of US trade politics in fact the political dynamics have changed in significant ways As the impact of globalization comes into focus politically important constituencies have begun to resist trade liberalization Labor and environmental groups in particular demanding that their concerns be addressed have succeeded in fracturing the long standing bipartisan protrade coalition in Congress and in the process have undercut US leadership in liberalizing global trade This new study reexamines the landscape of trade politics It shows how trade advocates and labor and environmental skeptics differ significantly in both their substantive views and their political and organizational cultures The authors demonstrate how this new challenge differs from that of traditional trade protectionism likening it instead to the debate a century ago over whether and how to regulate American capitalism for social purposes The analysis leads to a set of recommendations aimed at constructive compromise and a new political foundation for US trade policy leadership      New Actors and Alliances in Development Lisa Ann Richey,Stefano Ponte,2016-03-17 This collection brings together an interdisciplinary group of scholars exploring how development financing and interventions are being shaped by a wider and more complex platform of actors than usually considered in the existing literature The contributors also trace a changing set of key relations and alliances in development those between business and consumers NGOs and celebrities philanthropic organizations and the state diaspora groups and transnational advocacy networks ruling elites and productive capitalists and between new donors and developing country governments Despite the diversity of these actors and alliances several commonalities arise they are often based on hybrid transnationalism and diffuse notions of development responsibility rather than being new per se they are newly being studied as engaging in practices that are now coming to be understood as development and they are limited in their ability to act as agents of development by their lack of accountability or pro poor commitment The articles in this collection point to images and representations as increasingly important in development branding and suggest fruitful new ground for critical development studies This book was originally published as a special issue of Third World Quarterly

Decent Work Fiona Christie, Marilena Antoniadou, Kevin Albertson, Mark Crowder, 2021-09-29 Addressing changes to today's work and employment relationships this volume offers suggestions for how public and private sector policy and practice can support the realisation of Decent Work while exploring urgent and practical possibilities to secure fair and decent working lives for all
