Although accessible to both the general population and to students, about 10,000, the program, Open Learning, was created after more than 10 years of the development of the online learning environment in the classroom.

Abstract. Staphylococcus aureus is the causative agent of many different types of infections. The different strains of this gram positive bacteria differ in the way of the secreted proteases. The aim of this study was to determine the proteolytic activity of S. aureus strains isolated from patients with skin diseases. The results of this study are presented in the following table:

Ethic Displacement

The diagram shows a cross-section of a tooth with a root canal. A red area at the apex of the root indicates inflammation or infection. The text explains that this is a common finding in teeth with root canal treatment, often due to the displacement of the guttae (the space between the root and the crown) during the procedure.
