Volume 51

The background of the lower half of the cover features a faint, stylized graphic. It consists of a line graph with several data series, each represented by a thin grey line with small circular markers at data points. Below the line graph is a bar chart with numerous vertical bars of varying heights, also in a light grey color. The overall aesthetic is clean and academic, typical of a research journal cover.

Feldman, Albert N. Link, Donald S. Siegel, 2012-12-06 Science and technology have long been regarded as important determinants of economic growth Edwin Mansfield 1971 pp 1 2 a pioneer in the economics of technological change noted Technological change is an important if not the most important factor responsible for economic growth without question it is one of the most important determinants of the shape and evolution of the American economy Science and technology are even more important in the new economy with its greater emphasis on the role of intellectual property and knowledge transfer Therefore it is unfortunate that most individuals rarely have the opportunity to explore the economic implications of science and technology As a result the antecedents and consequences of technological change are poorly understood by many in the general public This lack of understanding is reflected in a recent survey conducted by the National Science Board 2000 summarized in Science Engineering Indicators As shown in Table 1 1 the findings of the survey indicated that many Americans despite a high level of interests in such matters are not as well informed about technological issues as they are about other policy issues As shown in the table individuals self assess based on a scale from 1 to 100 their interest in science and technology policy issues as being relatively high yet they self assess their knowledge or informedness about these issues relatively lower
