Starving the hungry beast of gov't spending

■ Cutting expenditures requires creative solutions in the costly service sector

■ Involvement in the private-sector provision of services could nimbrogate economy

BY KENNETH BOGGER

As the world watches the United States grapple with its fiscal crisis, the extent of the battle with the social and political forces that have led to the current predicament is becoming clearer. There has been much discussion of how to cut government spending, but not as much discussion of how to make government spending more effective. And yet, without creative approaches to providing government services, there will be no way to cut government spending.

Any creative approach to the current challenge goes back to the 1990s, the so-called Clinton-Bush-Bush Clinton era. It was then that the "big government" that played the role of the "big government" was challenged. The challenge was to find a way to cut government spending without cutting the services that the government provides. The challenge was to find a way to cut government spending without cutting the services that the government provides.

Today, the challenge is to find a way to cut government spending without cutting the services that the government provides. The challenge is to find a way to cut government spending without cutting the services that the government provides. The challenge is to find a way to cut government spending without cutting the services that the government provides.

That government service provision is the core of the government's role is not in doubt. Government service provision is the core of the government's role. Government service provision is the core of the government's role. Government service provision is the core of the government's role.

Klaus adds injustice to end of his term

Never was the legacy of a German politician more clearly defined than for Wolfgang Schäfer, who died on January 28. He was a man of many talents, but his greatest achievement was his role in the reunification of Germany. He was a man of many talents, but his greatest achievement was his role in the reunification of Germany.

The Editorial Page:

The Why, Who, and how of the Editorial Page Kenneth Rystrom, 1983     The Editorial Page Robert Stanley Mann, 1914     The Editorial Page Robert William Jones, 1930     The Rotarian, 1956-06 Established in 1911 The Rotarian is the official magazine of Rotary International and is circulated worldwide Each issue contains feature articles columns and departments about or of interest to Rotarians Seventeen Nobel Prize winners and 19 Pulitzer Prize winners from Mahatma Ghandi to Kurt Vonnegut Jr have written for the magazine     The Editorial Eye Jane T. Harrigan, Karen Brown Dunlap, 2003-09-05 A complete guide to editing print and electronic media The Editorial Eye teaches students the skills they need to become professional editors from generating story ideas to correct comma placement Much praised for its accessibility this text covers essential editing skills in an engaging student friendly style This thoroughly revised edition includes new coverage of electronic media and online news along with updated chapters on layout and design     The Editorial, 1916     Editorial and Opinion Steven M. Hallock, 2006-11-30 In 1930 there were 288 competitive major newspaper markets in the United States Today there are fewer than 30 The diminishing diversity of opinion and voices in newspapers editorials is taking place even as technological advances seemingly provide more sources of the same information As Hallock shows the concentration of media ownership in fewer and fewer hands allows those individuals and entities an inordinate amount of influence In this intriguing book he examines 18 newspaper markets to show us exactly how and where this troubling trend is occurring what it means for the political landscape and ultimately how it can affect us all Newspaper editorials say a lot about the society in which we live They are not just an indication and reflection of the issues of the day and of which way the political wind is blowing They are also a part of the political climate that sets the agenda for politicians and helps them discern which are the hot button issues and which side people are on Journalists and politicians enjoy a level of symbiosis in their relationships they influence each other indirectly It therefore follows that when fewer ideas and a narrower range of opinions are expressed in the nation s newspapers there is a real danger that our thinking can become more simplistic as well     Murder on the Opinion Page Tony A. Powers, 2009-06 Murder on the Opinion Page is a mystery thriller about people who disappear after they write a letter to the editor Veteran police detective Dan Kawowski and forensics intern Jane Dockery suspect a serial killer is on the loose Why would someone be kidnapped and murdered for writing a letter to the editor Kawowski and Dockery search for the killer and stumble upon a plot no one would ever dream could happen This couldn t happen in America could it     The Editorial Page John Allen Boyd, 1941     The Complete Newspaper Resource Book Jane Lamb, 1985 A tool and sourcebook with reproducible pages aids teachers using the newspaper in the classroom     Governmental Responses to Crime Herbert Jacob, Robert L. Lineberry, 1982     Governmental Responses to Crime: Crime on urban agendas, 1982     Politics and Policy in North Carolina Thad L. Beyle, Merle Black, 1975     Mixed News Jay Black, 2013-12-02 This volume addresses some of the central issues of journalism today the nature and needs of the individual versus the nature and needs of the broader society theories of communitarianism versus Enlightenment liberalism independence versus interdependence vs co dependency negative versus positive freedoms Constitutional mandates versus marketplace mandates universal ethical issues versus situational and or professional values traditional values versus information age values ethics of management versus ethics of worker bees commitment and compassion versus detachment and professional distance conflicts of interest versus conflicted disinterest and talking to versus talking with All of these issues are discussed within the framework of the frenetic field of daily journalism a field that operates at a pace and under a set of professional standards that all but preclude careful systematic examinations of its own rituals and practices The explorations presented here not only advance the enterprise but also help student and professional observers to work through some of the most perplexing dilemmas to have faced the news media and public in recent times This lively volume showcases the differing opinions of journalistic experts on this significant contemporary issue in public life Unlike previous books and monographs which have tended toward unbridled enthusiasm about public journalism and trade press articles which have tended toward pessimism this book offers strong voices on several sides of this complex debate To help inform the debate a series of voices journalistic interviews with practitioners and critics of public journalism is interspersed throughout the text At the end of each essay a series of quotes from a wide variety of sources In other words augments each chapter with ideas and insights that support and contradict the points used by each chapter author

Journalism and Communication in China and the West Bing Tong, 2020-11-21 This book sheds new light on the study of journalism and communication considering why and how journalism is studied in the 21st century It notably offers both an international and interdisciplinary comparison of journalism and communication examining the history of Chinese and Western journalism and addressing the similarities and differences between them Focusing on the education and training of future journalists it also provides a comprehensive study of news coverage systems in China and in Western countries including the processing of news sources attitudes towards news communication and comparative communication scholarship Researchers of media and journalism will find this a key read as well as practicing journalists and students of journalism
