Procedures G. Berlot,H. Delooz,A. Gullo,2012-12-06 Trauma has assumed a prominent role in contemporary medicine as an event that can significantly influence clinical variables such as morbidity functional deficits and consequential disability and mortality Trauma is the principal cause of death in the population below 40 years of age in industrialized coun tries

Therefore there is great interest in studying traumatic events from both the clinical and epidemiological viewpoints The importance of trauma is exem plified by the fact that in many countries the trauma patient is first treated in specialized trauma centers in which the diagnostic and treatment processes are facilitated by the 24 hour presence of personnel having interdisciplinary competencies Trauma in this context consists of any acute often unexpected condition Many of the medical difficulties associated with trauma occur in a relatively brief period that spans from the first call for help to the initiation of first aid measures A correct approach depends on the availability of experienced personnel The first measures of aid must guarantee above all the patient s survival The most critical initial phases of care to trauma patients are represented by the triad first aid triage and transport Specific morbidity indices whether anatomical func tional or mixed are indispensable elements for monitoring a patient s clinical evolution The immediate availability of essential drugs is imperative to con front the clinical situations that often present in the acute post traumatic phase Management of Musculoskeletal Injuries in the Trauma Patient Wade R. Smith,Philip F. Stahel,2013-11-19 Management of Musculoskeletal Injuries in the Trauma Patient summarizes the most current concepts and clinical practices for the management of the patient with musculoskeletal traumatic injuries The text covers optimal time frames for stabilization of orthopedic injuries and strategies to mitigate systemic injury while minimizing damage due to pelvic spine and long bone trauma The volume covers the gamut of traumatic axial and extremity injuries including cervico lumbar thoracic spine injuries spinal cord injuries long bone fractures with special emphasis on the femoral shaft pelvic and acetabular injuries open fractures mangled extremities upper extremity injuries combination and severe soft tissues injuries and periarticular fractures These are discussed in the context of isolated injury and combined with orthopedic injuries of the brain abdomen chest and other musculoskeletal injuries
