St Vincents Hospital 1834 1994 An Historical And Social Portrait:

Irish women in medicine, c.1880s-1920s Laura Kelly, 2016-05-16 Available in paperback for the first time this book is the first comprehensive history of Irish women in medicine in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries It focuses on the debates surrounding women s admission to Irish medical schools the geographical and social backgrounds of early women medical students their educational experiences and subsequent careers It is the first collective biography of the 760 women who studied medicine at Irish institutions in the period and in contrast to previous histories puts forward the idea that women medical students and doctors were treated fairly and often favourably by the Irish medical hierarchy It highlights the distinctiveness of Irish medical education in contrast with that in Britain and is also unique in terms of the combination of rich sources it draws upon such as official university records from Irish universities medical journals Irish newspapers Irish student magazines the memoirs of Irish women doctors and oral history accounts Medicine, Disease and the State in Ireland, 1650-1940 Greta Jones, Elizabeth Malcolm, 1999 A pioneering collection of essays aiming to open up the previously neglected area of the social history of medicine in Ireland Irish Medical Education and Student Culture, c.1850-1950 Laura Kelly, 2017-09-15 This book is the first comprehensive history of medical student culture and medical education in Ireland from the middle of the nineteenth century until the 1950s Utilising a variety of rich sources including novels newspapers student magazines doctors memoirs and oral history accounts it examines Irish medical student life and culture incorporating students educational and extra curricular activities at all of the Irish medical schools The book investigates students experiences in the lecture theatre hospital dissecting room and outside their studies such as in digs sporting teams and in student societies illustrating how representations of medical students changed in Ireland over the period and examines the importance of class religious affiliation and the appropriate traits that students were expected to possess It highlights religious divisions as well as the dominance of the middle classes in Irish medical schools while also exploring institutional differences the students decisions to pursue medical education emigration and the experiences of women medical students within a predominantly masculine sphere Through an examination of the history of medical education in Ireland this book builds on our understanding of the Irish medical profession while also contributing to the wider scholarship of student life and culture It will appeal to those interested in the history of medicine the history of education and social history in modern Ireland Ireland and Medicine in the Seventeenth and Eighteenth Centuries James Kelly, 2016-05-06 The story of early modern medicine with its extremes of scientific brilliance and barbaric practice has long held a fascination for scholars The great discoveries of Harvey and Jenner sit incongruously with the persistence of Galenic theory superstition and blood letting Yet despite continued research into the period as a whole most work has focussed on the metropolitan centres of England Scotland and France ignoring the huge range of national and regional practice This collection aims to go some way to rectifying this situation providing an exploration of the changes and developments in medicine as practised in Ireland and by Irish physicians studying and working abroad during the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries Bringing together research undertaken into the neglected area of Irish medical and social history across a variety of disciplines including history of medicine Colonial Latin American history Irish and French history it builds upon ground breaking work recently published by several of the contributors thereby augmenting our understanding of the role of medicine within early modern Irish society and its broader scientific and intellectual networks By addressing fundamental issues that reach beyond the medical institutions the collection expands our understanding of Irish medicine and throws new light on medical practices and the broader cultural and social issues of early modern Ireland Europe and Latin America Taking a variety of approaches and sources ranging from the use of epistolary exchange to the study of medical receipt books legislative practice to belief in miracles local professionalization to international networks each essay offers a fascinating insight into a still largely neglected area Furthermore the collection argues for the importance of widening current research to consider the importance and impact of early Irish medical traditions networks and practices and their interaction with related issues such as politics gender economic demand and religious belief

Shadow of the Brotherhood Barry Kennerk, 2010 The true story of a fascinating manhunt launched to track down the Fenian assailants of two Dublin Metropolitan Policemen in Temple Bar 1867

A New History of Ireland Volume VII J. R. Hill, Theodore William Moody, Francis X. Martin, Francis John Byrne, 2010-08-26 Volume VII covers a period of major significance in Ireland's history the division of Ireland and the eventual establishment of the Irish Republic

St. Vincent's Hospital, 1834-1994 F. O. C. Meenan, 1995 St Vincent's Hospital Dublin founded by the Irish Sisters of Charity in 1834 was the first in the British Isles to be organized and staffed by women It eventually housed a nursing school too This history also presents the changing socio political scene in 19th and 20th century Ireland

Sean O'Casey Christopher Murray, 2004-11-08 Se O Casey was the quintessential Dublin playwright In critical works that include his Dublin Trilogy The Shadow of a Gunman Juno and the Paycock and The Plough and the Stars he portrayed the traumatic birth of a nation and delved into the Irish national character Christopher Murray's Se O Casey Writer at Work takes a fresh look at the last of the great writers of the Irish literary revival

A Dublin Magdalene Laundry Mark Coen, Katherine O'Donnell, Maeve O'Rourke, 2023-01-26 Towards the end of the 20th century the decades of abuse and neglect perpetrated in Ireland's comprehensive carceral network began finally to be exposed The mistreatment endured by children and others on the margins of Irish society notably women in these orphanages reformatory schools industrial schools psychiatric hospitals County Homes Mother and Baby Homes adoption agencies and Magdalene Laundries now attracts increasing investigation and scholarship Bringing together contributions from leading experts across a broad range of disciplines including history philosophy law archaeology criminology accounting and architecture this book offers a comprehensive exploration of the Magdalene system through a close study of Donnybrook Magdalene Laundry in Dublin To date the Justice for Magdalenes Research group has recorded the names of 315 women and girls who died at Donnybrook

Magdalene Laundry By focusing on this one institution on its ethos development operation and built environment and the lives of the girls and women held there this book reveals the underlying framework of Ireland's wider system of institutionalisation The analysis includes a focus on the privatisation and commodification of public welfare reproductive injustice institutionalised misogyny class prejudice the visibility of supposedly hidden institutions and the role of oral testimony in reconstructing history In undertaking such a close study the authors uncover truths missing from the state's own investigations shed new light on how these brutal institutions came to have such a powerful presence in Irish society and highlight the significance of their continuing impact on modern Ireland Charitable Words Margaret Preston,2004-10-30

Mismanaged by local authority in the 19th century Dublin lacked sufficient industrial development to provide adequate employment Dublin's charitable workers attempted to improve the lives of the thousands who flocked to the city in search of relief As a means to examining the hidden incentives of charity the author offers a discussion of the language of charity in this setting She notes how contemporary notions of race class and religion influenced how Ireland's philanthropists thought of and related to the poor While much has been written on the perceived racial inferiority of the Celt as compared to the Anglo Saxon Preston suggests that the Irish upper classes in seeking to gain equal footing with the British elite adopted the same language to describe the poor Intense sectarian strife marred Irish charities and undermined the smooth operation of social services Preston offers insight by focusing on two women philanthropists who battled for the souls of Ireland's children She also explores those who remained above the fray such as the Religious Society of Friends in Ireland who offered aid to all regardless of creed Within the charitable records of this group Preston contends that one can see how the Society changed over time and that in Ireland the industrial revolution as well as the 1798 Rebellion contributed to the Society adapting to the mainstream Finally the women of charity helped to establish a modern nursing system for Ireland and this work details their efforts at turning nursing into a respectable profession for women The Dead of the Irish Revolution Eunan

O'Halpin,Daithi O Corrain,2020-10-27 The first comprehensive account to record and analyze all deaths arising from the Irish revolution between 1916 and 1921 This account covers the turbulent period from the 1916 Rising to the Anglo Irish Treaty of December 1921 a period which saw the achievement of independence for most of nationalist Ireland and the establishment of Northern Ireland as a self governing province of the United Kingdom Separatists fought for independence against government forces and in North East Ulster armed loyalists Civilians suffered violence from all combatants sometimes as collateral damage often as targets Eunan O Halpin and Daith Corr in catalogue and analyze the deaths of all men women and children who died during the revolutionary years 505 in 1916 2 344 between 1917 and 1921 This study provides a unique and comprehensive picture of everyone who died in what manner by whose hands and why Through their stories we obtain original insight into the Irish revolution itself Investing in People Tony White,2001 Irish Economic and Social History ,1996 Royal Historical Society Annual Bibliography of British and Irish History Royal Historical Society (Great Britain),1997 The Royal Historical Society's Annual Bibliography of British and Irish History provides a comprehensive and authoritative survey of books and articles on historical topics published in a single calendar year The volume covers all periods of British and Irish history from Roman Britain to the late twentieth century and also includes a section on imperial and commonwealth history It is the most complete and up to date bibliography of its type and an indispensable tool for historians

Edward J. Byrne, 1872-1941 Thomas J. Morrissey,2010 An intriguing look at the ups and downs of the new state as well as an unusual insight into the clerical and ecclesiastical culture of Ireland immediately following its independence

Mother and child Lindsey Earner-Byrne,2017-10-03 This fascinating book provides a detailed account of the history of maternity and child welfare in Dublin between 1922 and 1960 In so doing it places maternity and child welfare in the context of twentieth century Irish history offering one of the only accounts of how women and children were viewed treated and used by key lobby groups in Irish society and by the Irish state Mother and child is of critical importance to understanding the political and social history of modern Ireland as it examines the responses of the State the church voluntary groups and women to the emergence of the welfare State in Ireland As such it makes a welcome contribution to Irish political social medical and gender history

Women and Paid Work in Ireland, 1500-1930 Bernadette Whelan,2000 Covering over 400 years of history this book explores the working experiences of Irish women covering business education medicine prison and child care among other broad topics The mostly Irish scholars contributing to this collection offer articles such as a case study of women in business in 18th century Dublin a look at the image and reality of the 19th century governess an overview of the female industrial movement in the mid 19th century and an overview of women's paid work from 1500 1800 Distributed by ISBS c Book News Inc

Irish Surgeons and Surgery in the Twentieth Century Barry O'Donnell,2008 A detailed history of Irish Surgeons and Surgery in the Twentieth Century

Medicine and Charity in Ireland, 1718-1851 Laurence M. Geary,2004 In this illuminating social history of medicine and charity in Ireland over almost 150 years from 1718 until just after the Great Famine Laurence M Geary shows how illness and poverty reacted upon each other The poverty resulting from great population growth that continued until the arrival of potato blight in 1845 had a severe effect on the health of the country's population and the Famine itself caused around one million deaths from starvation and disease This was a period of great change in medical and charitable services In the eighteenth century the sick had come to be regarded as the deserving poor therefore having a better claim to public assistance than those whose poverty was the result of their own dissipation idleness or vice A network of charities evolved in Ireland to provide free medical aid to the sick poor The first voluntary hospital in Dublin opened in 1718 and Geary traces the establishment and development of voluntary hospitals and county infirmaries throughout the country These had a strong Anglican ethos and bias but after Catholic emancipation in 1829 the nepotism sectarianism and divisive politics that were rife in these organisations came under increasing scrutiny Medical practitioners saw considerable progress in the development of a regulated profession Geary describes developments in policy making and legislation culminating in the 1851 Medical Charities Act which he describes as part of a process that characterised the century and more under review in this book the unrelenting pressure on philanthropy and private medical charity and the inexorable shift from voluntarism to an embryonic system of state medicine

Law and the Emergence of Modern Dublin W. N. Osborough, 1996 This book aims to reconstruct part of Dublin's past from source material of an unconventional and unfamiliar sort accounts Of lawsuits generated by the evolving fortunes of the city and surrounding district To enable the significance of these lawsuits to be better understood and to lend coherence to the narrative as a whole additional explanatory material has been incorporated drawn principally from general and specialist local histories But the choice of focus has been dictated by the presence of an inventory of lawsuits with a topographical bias In his preface Professor Osborough remarks that he is unaware of the existence of any equivalent published exercise carried out for any other large city The contents include introducing litigation topography defining Dublin the physical setting the river port and bay re naming Sackville street landmark buildings public utilities recreation for Dubliners burying Dubliners assessment Complete with a detailed index and tables of cases and statutes this volume is enhanced by over 100 illustrations in black and white
