Depositions Catherine Seavitt Nordenson, 2018-05-01 Burle Marx created a new and modern grammar for international landscape design Lauro Cavalcanti quoted in the New York Times The real creator of the modern garden American Institute of Architects Roberto Burle Marx 1909 1994 is internationally known as one of the preeminent modernist landscape architects He designed renowned public landscapes in Brazil beginning with small plazas in Recife in the 1930s and culminating with large public parks in the early 1960s most significantly the Parque do Flamengo in Rio de Janeiro Depositions explores a pivotal moment in Burle Marx's career the years in which he served as a member of the Federal Cultural Council created by the military dictatorship in the mid 1960s. Despite the inherent conflict and risk in working with the military regime, Burle Marx boldly used his position to advocate for the protection of the unique Brazilian landscape, becoming a prophetic voice of caution against the regime's policies of rapid development and resource exploitation. Depositions presents the first English translation of eighteen environmental position pieces that Burle Marx wrote for the journal Cultura, a publication of the Brazilian Ministry of Education and Culture from 1967 through 1973. Catherine Seavitt Nordenson introduces and contextualizes the depositions by analyzing their historical and political contexts as well as by presenting pertinent examples of Burle Marx's earlier public projects, which enables a comprehensive reading of the texts. Addressing deforestation, the establishment of national parks, the place of commemorative sculpture, and the unique history of the Brazilian cultural landscape, Depositions offers new insight into Burle Marx's outstanding landscape oeuvre and elucidates his transition from prolific designer to prescient counselor. The New Politics of Inequality in Latin America Douglas A. Chalmers, 1997-01-30. Against a broader backdrop of globalization and worldwide moves toward political democracy, The New Politics of Inequality in Latin America examines the unfolding relationships among social change, equity, and the democratic representation of the poor in Latin America. Recent Latin American governments have turned away from redistributive policies; at the same time, popular political and social organizations have been generally weakened; inequality has increased, and the gap between rich and poor has grown. Hanging in the balance is the consolidation and the quality of new or would-be democracies. This volume suggests that governments must find not just short-term programmes to alleviate poverty but long-term means to ensure the effective integration of the poor into political life. The New Politics of Inequality in Latin America bridges the intellectual chasm between, on the one hand, studies of grassroots politics and, on the other, explorations of elite politics and formal institution building. It will be of interest to students and scholars of contemporary Latin American politics and society and more generally in the vicissitudes of democracy and citizenship in the late twentieth-century global system. A Trip Too Far Rosaleen Duffy, 2013-06-17. Environmentally sustainable tourism or ecotourism has become a major area of interest for governments, the private sector, and international lending institutions. It is regarded as a way of allowing economic development whilst protecting against environmental degradation, especially in those countries with fragile ecosystems. However, despite the beneficial intentions of ecotourism, it tends to be regarded uncritically by environmental organizations, governments, and the private sector alike. Rosaleen Duffy presents this analysis of ecotourism, linking it with environmental ideologies and the politics of North-South relations. By the extensive use of case study and interview material, she formulates ideas and proposals that should be important for the development of ecotourism around the globe. The Cambridge Economic History of Latin America: Volume 2, The Long Twentieth Century Victor Bulmer-Thomas, John Coatsworth, Roberto Cortés Conde, 2006-01-23. An indispensable reference work for anyone interested in Latin America's economic development.

Earthly Goods Fen Osler Hampson, Judith Reppy, 2018-09-05 Global environmental change raises profound moral issues with which society has only begun to grapple What does fairness mean in dividing responsibilities for problems of global warming between rich and poor nations Does the environment itself have moral standing and if so how should its conflicts with the interests of people who depend on the land for their livelihood be resolved How can the interests of the poor of indigenous peoples and of future generations be properly accommodated in a political discourse about environmental policy which is dominated by industrialized states This book extends the debate both within and across disciplines engaging philosophers geographers political scientists economists sociologists and environmental activists from four continents The essays address the role of science in global change and argue that western science does not provide morally disinterested solutions to environmental problems They discuss the role of state and substate actors in the international politics of the environment and then use accounts of actual negotiations to argue for the centrality of social justice in reaching desirable and equitable agreements They conclude that a framework for social justice under conditions of global environmental change must include community values and provide for participatory structures to arbitrate among competing interests
