The Emerging British Underclass Choice In Welfare:

The Emerging British Underclass Charles A. Murray, 1990-01-01 Charles Murray and the Underclass Charles Murray, 2000-05-31 Charles Murray is one of America's most respected social policy analysts. His ideas about the underclass outlined in his classic Losing Ground have entered the mainstream of the debate about poverty. Murray's thesis that the underclass represents not a degree of poverty but a type of poverty characterised by deviant attitudes towards parenting, work, and crime has been explosively controversial. It has also become more difficult to resist as the deterioration of the social fabric has become increasingly obvious. British and US situations. In his article subsequently published by the IEA as The Emerging British Underclass, Murray described himself as a visitor from a plague area come to see whether the disease is spreading. In 1993 he returned to check on its progress and the resulting article also for The Sunday Times was published with commentaries by critics of Murray's thesis, thus presenting the reader with a range of views on the issue. Schools and universities have led to the present omnibus edition which contains all of the original material from both volumes together with a new introduction by Ruth Lister of Loughborough University and an update of the statistics by Alan Buckingham of the University of Sussex. Community Care Pupil Disaffection in Schools Sarah Swann, 2016-04-15 Sarah Swann provides a fresh approach to examining the long-standing debates over disaffection and, in particular, social class differences in educational achievement through a mixed methods methodology and the showcasing of new research. By observing pupils as they engage with peers and teachers in school, Swann allows disaffection to be seen and heard in real events which constructs disaffection differently from objective statistical evidence on school exclusions. Rather than a homogenous identity, this book illustrates disaffection as layered and resting on a series of issues located on the crossroads between the cultural context of the neighbourhood and the public sphere of the school. It plots in a detailed way how these structures interact and mesh to create disaffected identities. Disaffection does not emerge in a vacuum or without a cause. Pupils arrive at school with a wide variety of experiences and it is from these that they interpret, understand, and act out their identities. Whilst the study in part seeks to describe and understand the social world of the school in terms of the pupils' interpretations of the situation, it analytically frames the perceptions of pupils within a wider social context. In particular, it focuses on the relationships between schooling and the wider macro structures and social relations that underpin disaffection. This approach makes the research both critical and interpretative and also able to shed new light on educational policy across England based on an understanding of the role of disaffection. The Policing of Protest, Disorder and International Terrorism in the UK since 1945 Peter Joyce, 2017-02-06 This book examines the nature of protest and the way in which the police and state respond to the activities associated with this term. Protest is explored within the context of the perceived decline in public engagement with recent general election contests. It is often thought that protest is regarded as an alternative to or as a replacement for formal political engagement with electoral politics and this book provides a thoughtful assessment of the place of protest in the contemporary conduct of political affairs Analysing key forms of protest such as demonstrations direct action protest conducted within the workplace riots and terrorism this study also illustrates each of these activities with a wide range of examples of events that have taken place within the UK since 1945 It will be of keen interest to students of criminology criminal justice studies police studies and politics

Citizenship, Europe and Change P. Close, 2016-07-27 Citizenship Europe and Change is about the implications of the evolution of the European Union and the emergence of European supra citizenship for the people of Europe It addresses the way in which these implications are crucially mediated by inequalities according to social class age generation race ethnicity and sex gender An analytical framework is presented in terms of which European society processes and change are decisively shaped within a hierarchy of political communities and conflicts and driven by fundamental societal contradictions Attention is paid to conceptual and theoretical issues and there is a critical examination of the impact of social policy motivated by a commitment to European integration and supra citizenship in so far as these things benefit the people of Europe especially the disadvantaged and excluded

Social Divisions Lydia Morris, 2014-06-03 First published in 1995 Social Divisions uses a case study approach to explore the implications of economic decline for social relations and uncovers the mechanisms by which individuals become vulnerable to job loss and unemployment It examines the impact of economic change on gender roles and relations on the structure of work and on the employment prospects for both men and women This revealing study will be essential reading for undergraduate and postgraduate students of social change and inequality gender relations and social policy It will also be of interest to policy makers and practitioners in related fields

Towards a Classless Society? Helen Jones, 2005-08-02 An alternative to the right wing paradigm which has hijacked discussions of class this book focuses on the specific ways in which class inequalities manifest themselves in Britain and exposes the hollowness of politicians rhetoric over the classless society

Lone Mothers, Paid Work and Gendered Moral Rationality S. Duncan, R. Edwards, 1999-08-12 Why are most British lone mothers unemployed And is welfare to work the right sort of policy response This book provides an in depth analysis of how lone mothers negotiate the relationship between motherhood and paid work Combining qualitative and quantitative data it focuses on social capital in different neighbourhoods local labour markets and welfare states Criticising conventional economic theories of decision making it posits an alternative concept of gendered moral rationality and sets up new frameworks for understanding national policy differences and discourses about lone motherhood

Rights Lydia Morris, 2006-04-18 This pioneering book demonstrates how different traditions of sociological thought can contribute to an understanding of the theory and practice of rights It provides a sociological treatment of a wide range of substantive issues but never loses sight of the key theoretical questions It considers some varied cases of public intervention including welfare caring mental health provisions pensions justice and free speech alongside the rights issues they raise examines the question of rights from the point of view of distinctive population groups such as prisoners and victims women ethnic minorities indigenous peoples and lesbians and gays A key strength is its detailed presentation and analysis of different aspects of rights and its exploration of a variety of analytical perspectives Rights are viewed not in terms of ethical certainty but as the product of social processes and part of shifting terrain which is open to negotiation Including a theoretical critique of existing perspectives Rights offers a diverse and detailed exploration of the contribution sociological thought can make to this increasingly important aspect of social life and is an invaluable aid to students studying in this area Parenting the Crisis Tracey Jensen, 2018-03-28 Bad parenting is so often blamed for Britain's broken society manifesting in sites as diverse as the government reaction to the riots of 2011 popular entertainment like Supernanny and the discussion boards of Mumsnet This book examines how these pathologising ideas of failing chaotic and dysfunctional families are manufactured across media policy and public debate and how they create a powerful consensus that Britain is in the grip of a parent crisis It tracks how crisis talk around parenting has been used to police and discipline families who are considered to be morally deficient and socially irresponsible Most damagingly it has been used to justify increasingly punitive state policies towards families in the name of making bad parents more responsible Is the real crisis in our perceptions rather than reality This is essential reading for anyone engaged in policy and popular debate around parenting Families and the State S. Cunningham-Burley, L. Jamieson, 2003-11-25 How possible is it for the state to steer family values and relationships How do we assess claims of harm and benefit from state action and inaction What kind of engagement should we seek between the state and our personal lives The evidence presented includes state engagements with separating couples lone parents retired people black families disabled people pregnant teenagers and young people negotiating adulthood The range of perspectives data and cross nation state comparisons helps readers to come to their own conclusions Critical Criminology Russell Hogg, Kerry Carrington, 2013-01-11 Exploring the key issues and future prospects facing critical criminology this book brings together leading authorities in the field from the UK Australasia and the USA Risk Management and Society Eve Coles, Denis Smith, Steve Tombs, 2013-03-09 Recent events like the BSE and GM food crises and the Concorde crash in July 2000 have illustrated that large private and public sector organisations are vulnerable and can suffer from major disruption to their business Awareness of the need to develop expertise in risk management has grown and as a result new programs of research and teaching in risk and crisis management are being developed at universities The contributions to this volume have been selected by adopting a multi disciplinary approach to risk and by considering the implications for management business and society The contributions are written by recognized experts in their fields and represent a unique collection of papers on the topic Audience The book will be of benefit to scientists managers politicians and trainers in academia business and industry involved in risk analysis assessment and management regulation and deregulation of risk crisis management and accidents and disasters Working with Vulnerable Children, Young People and Families Graham Brotherton, Mark Cronin, 2020-10-11 This fully revised and expanded edition considers the meaning of vulnerability a key concept in early intervention and the relationship between vulnerability and the individual communities and society It includes new chapters on children s voices young people and vulnerability and working with vulnerable parents Introducing students to a broad debate around what constitutes vulnerability and related concepts such as risk and resilience it examines how vulnerability has been conceptualised by policy makers with a clear focus on early intervention for preventing social problems later in life It adopts a case study approach using chapters examining the concept of vulnerability from sociological psychological and social policy perspectives before looking at examples around leaving care victims of violence sexual abuse and the Internet Supporting students in engaging with and evaluating the conceptualisation and application of vulnerability in professional practice this book is suitable for anyone either preparing for or currently working within the children s workforce from social work and health care to education and youth work

Youth Policy and Social Inclusion Monica Barry, 2004-12-20 Taking a holistic and multidisciplinary approach this book identifies and analyzes the factors which promote or discourage social inclusion of young people in today s society It critically examines the discriminatory attitudes towards young people and focuses on the problem of adults rather than the problem of young people themselves The authors ask searching questions about society s capacity and willingness to be more socially inclusive of young people in terms of policy and practice and explore the extent to which young people have access to status rights and responsibilities as young adults Challenging existing theory the book covers issues including citizenship education rights youth transactions drug use homelessness teenage pregnancy and unemployment Incorporating the views and experiences of young people themselves the book highlights the strengths and weaknesses of the academic contribution and suggests ways forward for a more inclusive society

Ethnic Minorities and Industrial Change in Europe and North America Malcolm Cross, 1992-10-22 Following World War II racial and ethnic minorities formed a pool of low paid labour upon which the industrial city depended When industrial production shifted overseas the new local technological industries required fewer better skilled workers The consequence for those excluded was disastrous In this book leading authorities compare the situation of minorities in the post industrial cities of Europe and North America

Indexing 'Chav' on Social Media Emilia Di Martino, 2022-09-15 The book sets out to examine the concept of chav providing a review of its origins its characterological figures the process of enregisterment whereby it has come to be recognized in public discourse and the traits associated with it in traditional media representations The author then discusses the chav label in light of recent re appropriations in social network activity particularly through the video sharing app TikTok and subsequent commentary in the public sphere She traces the evolution of the term from its use during the first decade of the twenty first century to make sense of class status and cultural capital to its resurgence and the ways in which it is still associated with appearance in gendered and classed ways She then draws on recent developments in linguistic anthropology and embodied sociocultural linguistics to argue that social media users draw on communicative resources to perform identities that are both situated in specific contexts of discourse and dynamically changing challenging the idea that geo sociocultural varieties and mannerisms are the sole way of indexing membership of a community This volume contends that equating chav with underclass in the most recent uses of the concept on social networks may not be the whole story and the book will be of interest to sociocultural linguistics and identity researchers as well as readers in anthropology sociology British studies cultural studies identity studies digital humanities and sociolinguistics

Critical Psychiatry Ian Cummins, 2025-02-28 Critical Psychiatry outlines the history of a group of thinkers that has come to be known as the anti psychiatry movement Though it has been called a movement the individual thinkers and authors ideas were often in conflict but what they share is a critical perspective on psychiatry as a discipline and institutionalised modes of care The current crisis in mental health services means that it is time to examine once again the key themes of critical psychiatry The excesses of the 1960s radicalism have meant that these themes with an emphasis on the individual dignity of all those involved in mental health services have been lost These need to be rediscovered as part of a solution to current difficulties but also as the starting point for a new model of service provision Critical Psychiatry is a history of ideas It provides a critical evaluation of key thinkers and the application of their work to contemporary mental health service settings
