Street Cops:

Two Cultures of Policing Elizabeth Reuss-Ianni, 2011-12-31 The emergence and functioning of two competing and sometimes conflicting cultures within police departments demonstrates how competition between street cops and bosses is at the heart of the organizational dilemma of modern urban policing Unlike other works in this field that focus on the monolithic culture or familial quality of policing this study demonstrates that which might look cohesive from the point of view of outsiders has its own internal dynamics and conflicts The book shows that police departments are not immune to the conflict inherent in any large scale bureaucracy when externally imposed management schemes for increasing efficiency and effectiveness are imposed on an existing social organization Based upon two years of extensive field work in which the author covered every major aspect of policing at the precinct level in the New York City police department from manning the complaint desk to riding in squad cars Ianni shows how the organized structure of the police department is disintegrating The new Management Cop Culture is bureaucratically juxtaposed to the precinct level Street Cop Culture and bosses loyalties to the social and political networks of management cops rather than to the men on the street causes a sharp division with grave consequences for the departments The study concentrates on a series of dramatic events such as the suicide of a police officer charged with corruption a major riot and the trial of an officer accused of killing a prisoner while in police custody Ianni traces how these events affected relationships among fellow officers and between officers and bosses

Policing the Media David D. Perlmutter, 2000-02-15 Policing the Media is an investigation into one of the paradoxes of the mass media age Issues events and people that we see most on our television screens are often those that we understand the least David Perlmutter examined this issue as it relates to one of the most frequently portrayed groups of people on television police officers Policing the Media is a report on the ethnography of a police department derived from the author's experience riding on patrol with officers and joining the department as a reserve policeman Drawing upon interviews Perlmutter describes the lives and philosophies of street patrol officers He finds that cops hold ambiguous attitudes toward their television characters for much of TV copland is fantastic and unrealistic Moreover the officers perceive that the public's attitudes toward law enforcement and crime are directly influenced by mass media This in turn he suggests influences the way that they themselves behave and perform on the street and that unreal and surreal expectations of them are propagated by television cop shows This cycle of perceptual influence may itself profoundly impact the contemporary criminal justice system on the street in the courts and in the hearts and minds of ordinary people Chicago Street Cop Pat
