Everyday Aesthetics Yuriko Saito, 2008-01-03 Everyday aesthetic experiences and concerns occupy a large part of our aesthetic life However because of their prevalence and mundane nature we tend not to pay much attention to them let alone examine their significance Western aesthetic theories of the past few centuries also neglect everyday aesthetics because of their almost exclusive emphasis on art In a ground breaking new study Yuriko Saito provides a detailed investigation into our everyday aesthetic experiences and reveals how our everyday aesthetic tastes and judgments can exert a powerful influence on the state of the world and our quality of life By analysing a wide range of examples from our aesthetic interactions with nature the environment everyday objects and Japanese culture Saito illustrates the complex nature of seemingly simple and innocuous aesthetic responses She discusses the inadequacy of art centered aesthetics the aesthetic appreciation of the distinctive characters of objects or phenomena responses to various manifestations of transience and the aesthetic expression of moral values and she examines the moral political existential and environmental implications of these and other issues Zen Landscapes Allen S. Weiss, 2013-09-15 The essential elements of a dry Japanese garden are few rocks gravel moss Simultaneously a sensual matrix a symbolic form and a memory theater these gardens exhibit beautiful miniaturization and precise craftsmanship But their apparent minimalism belies a true complexity In Zen Landscapes Allen S Weiss takes readers on an exciting journey through these exquisite sites explaining how Japanese gardens must be approached according to the play of scale surroundings and seasons as well as in relation to other arts revealing them as living landscapes rather than abstract designs Weiss shows that these gardens are inspired by the Zen aesthetics of the tea ceremony manifested in poetry painting calligraphy architecture cuisine and ceramics Japanese art favors suggestion and allusion valuing the threshold between the distinct and the inchoate between figuration and abstraction and he argues that ceramics play a crucial role here relating as much to the site specificity of landscape as to the ritualized codes of the tea ceremony and the everyday gestures of the culinary table With more than one hundred stunning color photographs Zen Landscapes is the first in depth study in the West to examine the correspondences between gardens and ceramics A fascinating look at landscape art and its relation to the customs and craftsmanship of the Japanese arts it will appeal to readers interested in landscape design and Japan's art and culture

Japan's Dietary Transition and Its Impacts Vaclav Smil, Kazuhiko Kobayashi, 2012-08-24 An examination of the transformation of the Japanese diet from subsistence to abundance and an assessment of the consequences for health longevity and the environment In a little more than a century the Japanese diet has undergone a dramatic transformation In 1900 a plant based near subsistence diet was prevalent with virtually no consumption of animal protein By the beginning of the twenty first century Japan's consumption of meat fish and dairy had increased markedly although it remained below that of high income Western countries This dietary transition was a key aspect of the modernization that made Japan the world's second largest economic power by the end of the twentieth century and it has helped Japan achieve an enviable demographic primacy with the world's highest life expectancy and a population that is generally healthier and thinner than that of other modern affluent countries In this book Vaclav Smil and Kazuhiko Kobayashi examine Japan's gradual but profound dietary change and investigate its consequences for health longevity and the environment Smil and Kobayashi point out that the gains in the quality of Japan's diet have exacted a price in terms of land use changes water requirements and marine resource depletion and because Japan imports so much of its food this price is paid globally as well as domestically The book's systematic analysis of these diverse consequences offers the most detailed account of Japan's dietary transition available in English

Rethinking Aesthetics is the first book to bring together prominent voices in the fields of architecture philosophy aesthetics and cognitive sciences to radically rethink the relationship between body and design These essays argue that aesthetic experiences can be nurtured at any moment in everyday life thanks to recent discoveries by researchers in neuroscience phenomenology somatics and analytic philosophy of the mind who have made the correlations between aesthetic cognition the human body and everyday life much clearer The essays by Yuriko Saito Juhani Pallasmaa and Richard Shusterman among others range from an integrated mind body approach to chair design to Zen Buddhist notions of mindfulness to theoretical accounts of existential relationships with buildings to present a full spectrum of possible inquiries By placing the body in the center of design Rethinking Aesthetics opens new directions for rethinking the limits of both essentialism and skepticism

The Grain of the Clay Allen S. Weiss, 2016-09-15 Ceramics give pleasure to our everyday lives from the beauty of a vase's elegant curves to the joy of a meal served upon a fine platter Ceramics originate in a direct engagement with the earth and maintain a unique place in the history of the arts In this book Allen S Weiss sharpens our perception of and increases our appreciation for ceramics all the while providing a critical examination of how and why we collect them Weiss examines the vast stylistic range of ceramics and investigates both the theoretical and personal reasons for viewing using and collecting them Relating ceramics to other arts and practices especially those surrounding food he explores their different uses such as in the celebrated tea ceremony of Japan Most notably he considers how works previously viewed as crafts have found their rightful way into museums as well as how this new found engagement with finely wrought natural materials may foster an increased ecological sensitivity The result is a wide ranging and sensitive look at a crucial part of our material culture

The Architect, the Cook and Good Taste Petra Hagen Hodgson, Rolf Toyka, 2007-03-29 Since time immemorial cooking and building have been among humanity's most basic occupations Both of them are rooted in necessity but both of them also possess a cultural as well as a sensory aesthetic dimension And while it is true that cooking is a transitory art form it gives expression to the periods of human cultural history just as architecture does Moreover both arts accord a central role to the materials employed Both involve measuring and proportioning shaping and designing assembling and composing This book pursues the astonishing parallels and deeply rooted connections between the art of building and that of cooking A variety of essays takes up questions of materiality and proportioning Attention will also be given to food cultivation and architecture to the places where meals are prepared as well as a range of different culinary spaces With articles by Annette Gigon Stanislaus von Moos Claudio Silvestrin Ian Ritchie and others

Emotional Design Don Norman, 2007-03-20 Why attractive things work better and other crucial insights into human centered design Emotions are inseparable from how we humans think choose and act In Emotional Design cognitive scientist Don Norman shows how the principles of human psychology apply to the invention and design of new technologies and products In The Design of Everyday Things Norman made the definitive case for human centered design showing that good design demanded that the user's must take precedence over a designer's aesthetic if anything from light switches to airplanes was going to work as the user needed In this book he takes his thinking several steps farther showing that successful design must incorporate not just what users need but must address our minds by attending to our visceral reactions to our behavioral choices and to the stories we want the things in our lives to tell others about ourselves Good human centered design isn't just about making effective tools that are straightforward to use it's about making affective tools that mesh well with our emotions and help us express our identities and support our social lives From roller coasters to robots sports cars to smart phones attractive things
