The African Quest for Freedom and Identity Richard Bjornson, 1994-01-01 Independence generated the promise of a better future for the ethnically diverse populations of African countries but during the past thirty years economic and political crises have called into question the legitimacy of speaking about nationhood in Africa Richard Bjornson argues here that a national consciousness can indeed be seen in the shared systems of references made possible by the emergence of literate cultures By tracing the evolution of literate culture in Cameroon from the colonial period to the present and by examining a broad spectrum of writing in its social political economic and cultural contexts Bjornson shows how the concepts of freedom and identity have become the dominant concerns of the country's writers and he relates those themes to the history of Cameroon as a complex modern state Bjornson also analyzes in detail works by writers such as Mongo Beti Ferdinand Oyono Marcien Towa Guillaume Oyono Mbida Renée Philombe and Francis Bebey

African Freedom Phyllis Taoua, 2018-07-26 The push for independence in African nations was ultimately an incomplete process with the people often left to wrestle with a partial imperfect legacy Rather than settle for liberation in name alone the people engaged in an ongoing struggle for meaningful freedom Phyllis Taoua shows how the idea of freedom in Africa today evolved from this complex history With a pan African interdisciplinary approach she synthesizes the most significant issues into a clear compelling narrative Tracing the evolution of a conversation about freedom since the 1960s she defines three types and shows how they are interdependent Taoua investigates their importance in key areas of narrative interest the intimate self gender identity the nation global capital and the spiritual realm Allowing us to hear the voices of African artists and activists this compelling study makes sense of their struggle and the broad importance of the idea of freedom in contemporary African culture

Nationalists and Nomads Christopher L. Miller, 1998 How does African literature written in French change the way we think about nationalism colonialism and postcolonialism How does it imagine the encounter between Africans and French And what does the study of African literature bring to the fields of literary and cultural studies Christopher L Miller explores these and other questions in

Nationalists and Nomads Miller ranges from the beginnings of francophone African literature which he traces not to the 1930s Negritude movement but to the largely unknown virulently radical writings of Africans in Paris in the 1920s to the evolving relations between African literature and nationalism in the 1980s and 1990s Throughout he aims to offset the contemporary emphasis on the postcolonial at the expense of the colonial arguing that both are equally complex with powerful ambiguities Arguing against blanket advocacy of any one model such as nationalism or hybridity to explain these ambiguities Miller instead seeks a form of thought that can read and recognize the realities of both identity and difference

Encyclopedia of African Literature Simon Gikandi, 2003-09-02 The most comprehensive reference work on African literature to date this book covers all the key historical and cultural issues in the field The Encyclopedia contains over 600 entries covering criticism and theory African literature's development as a field of scholarship and studies of established and lesser known writers and their texts While the greatest proportion of literary work in Africa has been a product of the twentieth century the Encyclopedia also covers the literature back to the earliest eras of story telling and oral transmission making this a unique and valuable resource for those studying social sciences as well as humanities This work includes cross references suggestions for further reading and a comprehensive index

Democracy and Human Rights in Africa Ateh-Afac Fossungu, 2013-04-08 Since the mid 1980s there has been much federalism talk in Cameroon where federation said to have been created in Fombran in 1961 had supposedly been overwhelmingly rejected in 1972 by Cameroonians Confusioncracy is the one good term that could conveniently explain it Written with the trilogy of criticism provocation and construction in mind this book aims at reconstructing a new and vigorous society in Cameroon that ensures respect for fundamental human rights and certain basic shared values Much as the book centres on the Anglophone Problem it is principally about human rights and their excessive violations the direct result of the absence of separation of powers and constitutionalism It largely condemns Cameroons government for incessantly singing democracy and rule of law at the same time as it is massively torturing and wantonly killing citizens that dare to question the confusion While sharing the position that a state like Cameroon must be seen to ensure that its laws and other practices accord with its international commitments the book nonetheless strives to apportion the blame for Cameroons human rights catastrophe accordingly showing how the English speaking minority itself generally speaking contributes to a large extent in propping up the dictatorship that is oppressing not only that minority but Cameroonians at large The book challenges Cameroon to assume a leadership role in uniting Africans through meaningful federalization rather than further splitting them into incapable mini states on the challenging world stage turn shaped by European contacts with Africa from the fifteenth century onward the politics of the Cold War and the subsequent collapse of the Soviet Union In essence Africa and its elite cannot be fully understood without also considering the West and changing global politics Neither can the academic and media contributions by non Africans be ignored as these also affect the ways that Africans think about themselves and their continent Nationalism and African Intellectuals examines intellectuals ambivalent relationships with the colonial apparatus and subsequent nation state formations the contradictions manifested within pan Africanism and nationalism and the relation of academic institutions and intellectual production to the state during the nationalism period and beyond Toyin Falola is the Jacob and Frances Sanger Mossiker Chair in the Humanities and University Distinguished Teaching Professor at the University of Texas at Austin

Critical Perspectives on Cameroon Writing Ndumbe Eyoh, Albert Azeyeh, 2013-07-24 This landmark volume brings together a very rich harvest of forty critical essays on Cameroon literature by Cameroon literary scholars The book is the result of the Second Conference on Cameroon Literature which took place at the University of Buea in 1994 The Buea conference was motivated by a determination to look at Cameroon literature straight into its face and criticize it using literary criteria of the strictest kind Gone were the times when the criticism was complacent because it was believed that a nascent literature could easily be stifled by application of rather strict canons of literary criticism Both writers and critics had a lot to say Subjects dealt with ranged from general topics on literature survival and national identity through specialized articles on prose poetry drama translation language folklore childrens literature Journalism and politics It is the hope of the volume editors that the publication of these papers will instigate the kind of actions that were recommended and that the prolific nature of Cameroon literature will equally give rise to a prolific and robust criticism

Shades of Empire in Colonial and Post-Colonial Literatures ,2021-11-01 The scope of the articles in Shades of Empire in Colonial and Post Colonial Literatures which are arranged in a broad sweep from East to West with four short papers nestled in the middle on the theme of colonialism and motherhood is extensive and varied But in one way or another they all reflect the growing importance of literatures and cultures that might once have been regarded as marginal During the colonial period the literature of the centre took possession of the margin as well as of the imagination of the margin But only recently has the question been raised as to why traditional English literary history has paid so little attention to colonial literature Now post colonial literatures are writing themselves back into the centre and what used to be the margins of the English language world have now set themselves up as rival centres An interesting question to arise from this is whether in the process the former colonial or colonizing literature has now itself turned into a post colonial literature What this book affirms is the importance and interest of a wide variety of literatures sharing a language but reflecting a rich and provocative diversity of histories experiences and attitudes to the shared world which still also divides us
