Robert R. Janes, 2015-12-14 Drawing together nearly 40 years of experience Museums without Borders presents the key works of one of the most respected practitioners and scholars in the field Through these selected writings Robert R Janes demonstrates that museums have a broader role to play in society than is conventionally assumed He approaches the fundamental questions of why museums exist and what they mean in terms of identity community and the future of civil life This book consists of four Parts Indigenous Peoples Managing Change Social Responsibility and Activism and Ethics The Parts are ordered chronologically and each begins with an introduction and an overview of the ensuing articles which situates the papers in their historical and cultural contexts Using an interdisciplinary approach that combines anthropology ethnography museum studies and management theory Janes both questions and supports mainstream museum practice in a constructive and self reflective manner offering readers alternative viewpoints on important issues Considering concepts not generally recognized in museum practice such as the Roman leadership model of primus inter pares and the Buddhist concept of mindfulness Janes argues that the global museum community must examine how they can meet the needs of the planet and its inhabitants Museums without Borders charts the evolving role of the contemporary museum in the face of environmental societal and ethical challenges and explores issues that have and will continue to shape the museum sector for decades to come This book demonstrates that it is both reasonable and essential to expand the purpose of museums at this point in history not only because of their unique characteristics and value to society but also because of Janes respect and admiration for their rich legacy It is time that museums assist in the creation of a new caring and more conscious future for themselves and their communities This can only be done through authentic engagement with contemporary issues and aspirations The Age of Manipulation Wilson Bryan Key, 1993 Dr Key exposes the devious and sophisticated strategies that advertisers use in newspapers magazines and television to manipulate and seduce our thoughts and senses He explores why Americans are the most manipulated people in the world Lightning Print On Demand Title Burchard de Volder and the Age of the Scientific Revolution Andrea Strazzoni, 2019-11-18 This monograph details the entire scientific thought of an influential natural philosopher whose contributions unfortunately have become obscured by the pages of history Readers will discover an important thinker Burchard de Volder He was instrumental in founding the first experimental cabinet at a European University in 1675 The author goes beyond the familiar image of De Volder as a forerunner of Newtonianism in Continental Europe He consults neglected materials including handwritten sources and takes into account new historiographical categories His investigation maps the thought of an author who did not sit with an univocal philosophical school but critically dealt with all the major philosophers and scientists of his age from Descartes to Newton via Spinoza Boyle Huygens Bernoulli and Leibniz It explores the way De Volder's unsystematic thought used, rejected and reshaped their theories and approaches In addition the title includes transcriptions of De Volder's teaching materials, disputations, dictations and notes Insightful analysis combined with a trove of primary source material will help readers gain a new perspective on a thinker so far mostly ignored by scholars They will find a thoughtful figure who engaged with early modern science and developed a place that fostered experimental philosophy

Discovered, Not Designed: Building Things in the Age of Complexity Sean McClure, 2024-06-25 To build is to be human Creating things is part of our nature and our principal mode of survival The things we have built throughout history have always relied on design to turn discoveries into workable tools But the underlying premise of design is that we can reason about the pieces and connections that make a thing work From the stone axe to the rocket engine design is predicated on our ability to see causal connections between the parts of a system But what happens when such causality is no longer apparent When the things we must build to solve our challenges have inner workings that cannot be discerned The answer lies in nature Nature fashions truly complex objects that solve categorically hard problems Complex things produce their most important outputs via emergence whereby a system's structures and behaviors arise in ways that cannot be designed This book argues that we are entering an age where humanity must build truly complex things to continue our progress This means learning to build as nature builds and as it turns out forces us to redefine knowledge and skill and more broadly our scientific and engineering paradigm Mathematics Education in the Age of Artificial Intelligence Philippe R. Richard, M. Pilar Vélez, Steven Van Vaerenbergh, 2022-03-09 This book highlights the contribution of artificial intelligence for mathematics education It provides concrete ideas supported by mathematical work obtained through dynamic international collaboration and discusses the flourishing of new mathematics in the contemporary world from a sustainable development perspective Over the past thirty years artificial intelligence has gradually infiltrated all facets of society When it is deployed in interaction with the human designer or user AI certainly raises new ethical questions But as soon as it aims to augment

Intelligence contributing to Mathematical Human Learning PAST, PRESENT AND FUTURE AS TIME IN THE AGE OF SCIENCE - SECOND EDITION Samuel K. K. Blankson, 2016-01-31 The book is about the post relativity philosophy of time as championed by Bertrand Russell and Einstein It argues that The Past Present and Future notion of time is an illusion The sun as daylight is on constantly with no temporal past and future except in chemistry perhaps Only the earth's revolutions bring temporary days and nights So the Bertrand Russell notion that under relativity man constructs his time is logically unassailable the days weeks months and years are all human concepts Relativity allows time to begin from anywhere So the revolutionary view is that there are or can be as many times as there are frames or planets a world changing idea but true because it is based on objective physical experiments but generally ignored If the Body Politic Could Breathe in the Age of the Refugee Julia Metzger-Traber, 2018-05-15 This book posits that the refugee crisis may actually be a crisis of identity in a rapidly changing world It argues that Western conceptions of the individual Self shape metaphors of political homes and thus the geopolitics of belonging and exclusion Metzger Traber creatively re-conceives political belonging by perceiving the interconnection of each Self through its most immediate home the breathing body On an experimental literary journey through her own past and that of Germany she puts political philosophy in conversation with somatic and spiritual insight to expand notions of Self and Home Then she asks What ethical imperatives arise What kinds of homes and homelands would we create if we no longer thought we ended at our skin The Postcolonial Age of Migration Ranabir Samaddar, 2020-05-11 This book critically examines the question of migration that appears at the intersection of global neo liberal transformation postcolonial politics and economy It analyses the specific ways in which colonial relations are produced and reproduced in global migratory flows and their consequences for labour human rights and social justice The postcolonial age of migration not only indicates a geopolitical and geo economic division of the globe between countries of the North and those of the South marked by massive and mixed population flows from the latter to the former but also the production of these relations within and among the countries of the North The book discusses issues such as transborder flows among countries of the South migratory movements of the internally displaced growing statelessness leading to forced migration border violence refugees of partitions customary and local practices of care and protection population policies and migration management both emigration and immigration the protracted nature of displacement labour flows and immigrant labour and the relationships between globalisation nationalism citizenship and migration in postcolonial regions It also traces colonial and postcolonial histories of migration and justice to bear on the present understanding of local experiences of migration as well as global social transformations while highlighting the limits of the fundamental tenets of humanitarianism protection assistance security responsibility which impact the political and economic rights of vast sections of moving populations Topical and an important intervention in contemporary global migration and refugee studies the book offers new sources interpretations and analyses in understanding postcolonial migration It will be useful to scholars and researchers of migration studies refugee studies border studies political studies political sociology international relations human rights and law human geography international politics and political economy It will also interest policymakers legal practitioners nongovernmental organisations and activists
