The Amah:

State, 1986 The Lushan Addiction Warren Shulman, 2006-12-20 In this tale of intrigue love and revenge spanning three decades and two continents retired CIA operative West Lambert returns to help the Agency discover the secret behind a cutting edge computer chip manufactured in Lushan China which could affect the economic balance of power in the world. Traveling first to Hong Kong Lambert meets and enlists the aid of a beautiful martial arts master Ching Ping who is from Lushan. They discover that a revolutionary drug Joss developed by Shih Liping Lamberts nemesis from his early days in Laos is responsible for the industry changing success at Lushan. Lambert and Ping are sent to acquire Joss for America and in the quest overcome assassins sent by a Japanese company also vying for the rights to Joss. Joss becomes the catalyst for dramatic increases in American productivity but the CIA is not satisfied and plots to gain control of Joss. Lambert is covertly dropped into Lushan tasked with stealing the formula. There he is betrayed by Ping with whom he has become romantically involved and discovers she is actually Shih's daughter. Lambert is devastated when Shih reveals that he deliberately inserted Joss into American culture because he has the ability to alter the molecular structure of Joss to render it highly addictive. Shih boasts that years earlier when Lambert was in Hong Kong that he staged a boating explosion to make it appear that Lamberts first love Bergita perished. In reality Shih took Bergita captive, raped her and conceived Ping. Ping overhears her father and in a rage attacks and mortally wounds him. She releases Lambert and together they destroy the Joss manufacturing plant before escaping to America with the prized secret formula. Medical Guide for Anglo-Indians, Etc R. S. Mair, 1874 The Bitter Tea of General Yen Grace Zaring Stone, Victoria Wilson, 2014-09-23 The groundbreaking novel that was the basis for Frank Capra's strange shocking drama starring Barbara Stanwyck and Nils Asther. Traveling to Shanghai to marry her medical missionary fiancé, the beautiful Megan Davis finds herself caught in the toils of civil war between Republican and Communist forces. Determined to save the inhabitants of an orphanage in a Communist occupied city nearby, Megan joins a nighttime rescue mission that ends up under attack by a mob. She avoids death only thanks to the intervention of General Yen who brings her to his palace where they come to form an unlikely trust and companionship in one another. As the political climate sours and violence outside the palace walls escalates, the motives behind various associates of the General are called into suspicion, leading to an unexpected and irreparable betrayal. Originally published in 1930, this absorbing novel of war-torn China was adapted into a film in 1933. With a new foreword by Victoria Wilson, Vintage Movie Classics spotlights classic films that have stood the test of time, now rediscovered through the publication of the novels on which they were based.

The Mold Maker's Daughter Barbara Kanowick,Daniel Liebowitz,2010-09-20 In this tale of ancient China Persimmon daughter of a Jewish mold maker and a Chinese woman becomes a famous panda painter Living in the forest of Chengdu Province she adopts Bampo an orphaned panda bear but what she has done is illegal as only members of the royal family can own panda bears But she has treated Prince Ting Ling with a secret potion when he was gored by a wild boar in the forest of Chengdu The prince recovered in his palace His soldiers are sent far and wide to find the girl who saved his life but to no avail The poacher Che Tu Wa knows that she is living in a little cottage in the forest with her amah and alerts the authorities that the girl has a pet panda bear Persimmon is arrested and her sentence is to be beheaded Just then Prince Ting Ling arrives at the court house He recognizes Persimmon as the young lady who saved his life with the secret potion He requests a reprieve for the forest girl and offers to marry her She agrees providing she can keep Bampo and the story ends happily A charming fairy tale set in ancient China with a Jewish twist Gathered amid other children Ping Ling listens as her grandmother tells the story of their famous ancestor Persimmon It s a genuinely charming opening and as Ping Ling s grandmother narrates the authors make the reader aware of the importance of the very act of storytelling Persimmon was the daughter of a Jewish mold maker and a Han Chinese woman in the third century B C She inherits her father s aesthetic prowess and becomes an excellent panda portraitist She lives in the forest for inspiration and takes care of a panda named Bampo a pet reserved only for royalty Persimmon no royal herself happens to save Prince Tin Ling s life one day in the forest and after he recovers in his palace he searches for the girl that came to his rescue Meanwhile Persimmon is in dire legal straits for having taken a panda as her pet and must stand trial for her crime facing a possible death sentence The resolution is fairy tale perfect and Ping Ling and her playmates are gratified by the tale the reader will be too as the prose and Kanowick s simple black and white illustrations are equally charming But for readers unaware of Judaism s surprisingly long if limited history in China some integrated background or a simple preface would have enhanced the book s broader appeal A brief sketch of a famous example such as the Kaifeng community or a relevant history of the Silk Road would ve sufficed There is a playful historical reference when Persimmon s father is commissioned by the emperor to build his terra cotta army and these touches enhance the historical reality while still engaging in the story s allegorical elements that promote love and loyalty There s not a word too many in this slim enjoyable volume which is great for children not afraid of a little history A pleasing children s story featuring characters with a unique intriguing cultural background Kirkus Discoveries Review
