The Millennium Nurse: Issues and Challenges

Sharing my reflection as a panel member on "The Philosophy and Science of Caring and its Implication to Nursing Education and Service" last December 14, 2010, reminded me of Albert Einstein's words, "Not everything that counts can be counted, and not everything that can be counted counts". Prof. Jean Watson's presentation on her "Theory of Transpersonal Caring" also called "Theory of Human Caring" indeed showed caring as the most abstract of all concepts in nursing. Dr. Cecilia Laurente's article, "CARITAS- CARING SCIENCE", reiterates this point, too. Also, Prof. Watson challenges my philosophical commitment as a researcher in discovering knowledge by means of caring while bringing to fore the issues and challenges confronting the Millennium Nurse.

Being exposed to major changes, environmental turbulence, socio-economic crisis and health sector reforms, nurses around the world are at risk of dehumanizing not only patient care but also their personhood. Watson reminds us that the core of nursing is caring and in a world where we may forget this, it is essential that we make a conscious effort to preserve and hold on to the heritage of caring. And here we have the important elements of Watson's caring theory which cater the aforementioned need to keep the heritage alive and not drift or wither away. Also, for the millennium nurses to be more grounded and evidence-based, they must continue comprehending and putting theories into practice, praxis as it is called.

The millennium nurse has to create paths to make a difference in this new world of health care. This is exemplified by the two phenomenological researches conducted by budding nurse researchers. Janel Castro's study on "The Lived Experience of Filipino DOTS Treatment Partners" explores shared meanings of the participants' stories and practices while the study on "Understanding Pregnancy and Childbirth Experiences Among Adolescents in Baguio City" by Teresita Malingta describes the participants' childbirth's experiences. These studies show that nurses are taking on and embracing the path of qualitative research as a mode of nursing inquiry. On the other hand, the research conducted by the PNA Department of Research called The PNA Nurse Survey 2009 generated data that responds to the issues of relevance and responsiveness to needs and concerns of its members. The study described the characteristics of the members of PNA in terms of demographic and employment characteristics, need for training, and intent to stay in the profession; factors influencing membership to the national organization; perceived needs of PNA members in terms of professional growth, and economic and welfare factors; and current concerns and experiences of PNA members that impact on satisfaction on being a nurse.

The millennium nurse's professional identity revolves around a context where humanistic values are constantly questioned and challenged. Ms. Nolasco's article on the rape of "Florence" describes the milieu where nurses work as an "environment that allows the exploitation of nurses and oppression of the people through the non-respect and violation of fundamental rights to health and quality life". Without deep professional roots and caring values, the millennium nurse maybe unable to transcend the situation and perceive it as "just a job," instead of a gratifying and responsive profession. And so the continuing advocacy for Justice For "Florence", Justice for the Nursing Profession; Review for JPEPA's Unfair Provision on Hiring of Nurses; Support for Accessible, Affordable Universal Health Care Program; and "Assertion for the Nurses' Role in the Administration

The Advanced Practice Nurse Joellen Watson Hawkins, Janice A. Thibodeau, 2000 Advanced Practice Nursing
E-Book Ann B. Hamric, Judith A. Spross, Charlene M. Hanson, 2008-07-02 Covering all advanced practice competencies and roles this book offers strategies for enhancing patient care and legitimizing your role within today's health care system. It covers the history of advanced practice nursing, the theory behind the practice and emerging issues. Offering a comprehensive exploration of advanced practice nursing, this edition also adds a focus on topics including the APN scope of practice, certification and the ethical and legal issues that occur in clinical practice. The development of all major competencies of advanced practice nursing is discussed: direct clinical practice, consultation, coaching, guidance, research, leadership, collaboration and ethical decision making. Advanced practice competencies are discussed in relation to all advanced practice nursing and blended CNS/NP roles: case manager, acute care nurse practitioner, highlighting the shared aims and distinctions of each role. In-depth discussions on educational strategies explain how competencies develop as the nurse's practice progresses. A chapter on research competencies demonstrates how to use evidence-based research in practice and how to promote these research competencies to other APNs. A conceptual framework shows the clear relationship between the competencies, roles and challenges in today's health care environment. Practical strategies are provided for business management, contracting and marketing. Comprehensive information covers the essential competencies of the new Doctor of Nursing Practice degree. More exemplars, case studies provide real-life scenarios showing APN competencies in action. A new chapter shows how to provide reliable and valid data to substantiate your impact and justify equitable reimbursement for APN services, also enhancing your skills in quality improvement strategies, informatics and systems thinking. Information on telehealth considerations covers the new sources of electronic healthcare information available to patients and describes how to counsel them on using reliable resources.
