Violence and Messianism Petar Bojanić,2017-10-19 Violence and Messianism looks at how some of the figures of the so called Renaissance of Jewish philosophy between the two world wars Franz Rosenzweig Walter Benjamin and Martin Buber grappled with problems of violence revolution and war At once inheriting and breaking with the great historical figures of political philosophy such as Kant and Hegel they also exerted considerable influence on the next generation of European philosophers like Levinas Derrida and others This book aims to think through the great conflicts in the past century in the context of the theory of catastrophe and the beginning of new messianic time Firstly it is a book about means and ends that is about whether good ends can be achieved through bad means Second it is a book about time peace time war time time it takes to transfer from war to peace etc Is a period of peace simply a time that excludes all violence How long does it take to establish peace to remove all violence Building on this it then discusses whether there is anything that can be called messianic acting Can we are we capable of or allowed to act violently in order to hasten the arrival of the Messiah and peace And would we then be in messianic time Finally how does this notion of messianism a name for a sudden and unpredictable event fit in for example with our contemporary understanding of terrorist violence The book attempts to understand such pressing questions by reconstructing the notions of violence and messianism as they were elaborated by 20th century Jewish political thought Providing an important contribution to the discussion on terrorism and the relationship between religion and violence this book will appeal to theorists of terrorism and ethics of war as well as students and scholars of Philosophy Jewish studies and religion studies
