The Amazing Interlude (Classic Reprint) Mary Roberts Rinehart, 2015-07-24 Excerpt from The Amazing Interlude Sara Lee's days up to the twentieth of December 1914 had been much alike In the mornings she straightened up her room which she had copied from one in a woman's magazine with the result that it gave somehow the impression of a baby's bassinet being largely dotted Swiss and ribbon Yet in a way it was a perfect setting for Sara Lee herself It was fresh and virginal and very very neat and white A resigned little room like Sara Lee resigned to being tucked away in a corner and to having no particular outlook Peaceful too Sometimes in the morning between straightening her room and going to the market for Aunt Harriet Sara Lee looked at a newspaper So she knew there was a war She read the headings and when the matter came up for mention at the little afternoon bridge club as it did now and then after the prizes were distributed she always said Isn't it horrible And changed the subject About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
