Jewell,2007 Periods of time characterized by large scale social change encourage reinterpretations of the meanings of categories like race and class strategies for their reproduction and their relationship to one another as social structures The racialized nature of class identities makes movements which attempt to redistribute class resources along racial lines a challenge to both racial boundaries and class boundaries highlighting their intersection through the strategies and resources associated with social reproduction      An Introduction to Colonial African-American Evangelical Theology Cory J. exploration of the ways a particular religious tradition and a distinct social context have interacted over a 300 year period including the unique story of the oldest and largest African American Calvinist community in America The South Carolina low country has long been regarded not only in popular imagination and paperback novels but also by respected scholars as a region dominated by what earlier historians called a cavalier spirit and by what later historians have simply described as a wholehearted devotion to amusement and the neglect of religion and intellectual pursuits Such images of the low country have been powerful interpreters of the region because they have had some foundation in social and cultural realities It is a thesis of this study however that there has been a strong Calvinist community in the Carolina low country since its establishment as a British colony and that this community including in its membership both whites and after the 1740s significant numbers of African Americans contradicts many of the images of the received version of the region Rather than a devotion to amusement and a neglect of religion and intellectual interests this community has been marked throughout most of its history by its disciplined religious life its intellectual pursuits and its work ethic

Narrating the Slave Trade, Theorizing Community Raphaël Lambert, 2018-12-24 In Narrating the Slave Trade Theorizing Community Raphaël Lambert explores the notion of community in conjunction with literary works concerned with the transatlantic slave trade The recent surge of interest in both slave trade and community studies concurs with the return of free market ideology which once justified and facilitated the exponential growth of the slave trade The motif of unbridled capitalism recurs in all the works discussed herein however community whether racial political utopian or conceptual emerges as a fitting frame of reference to reveal unsuspected facets of the relationships between all involved parties and expose the ramifications of the trade across time and space Ultimately this book calls for a complete reevaluation of what it means to live together

Slavery, Fatherhood, and Paternal Duty in African American Communities over the Long Nineteenth Century Libra R. Hilde, 2020-10-01 Analyzing published and archival oral histories of formerly enslaved African Americans Libra R Hilde explores the meanings of manhood and fatherhood during and after the era of slavery demonstrating that black men and women articulated a surprisingly broad and consistent vision of paternal duty across more than a century Complicating the tendency among historians to conflate masculinity within slavery with heroic resistance Hilde emphasizes that while some enslaved men openly rebelled many chose subtle forms of resistance in the context of family and local community She explains how a significant number of enslaved men served as caretakers to their children and shaped their lives and identities From the standpoint of enslavers this was particularly threatening a man who fed his children built up the master's property but a man who fed them notions of autonomy put cracks in the edifice of slavery Fatherhood highlighted the agonizing contradictions of the condition of enslavement and to be an involved father was to face intractable dilemmas yet many men tried By telling the story of the often quietly heroic efforts that enslaved men undertook to be fathers Hilde reveals how formerly enslaved African Americans evaluated their fathers including white fathers and envisioned an honorable manhood African Migrants, European Borders, and the Problem with Humanitarianism P. Khalil Saucier, Tryon P. Woods, 2024-06-10 African Migrants European Borders and the Problem with Humanitarianism presents a probing examination of the contemporary migrant crisis in the Mediterranean Basin By centering our analysis on how racial slavery has shaped European democratic culture its abolitionist traditions and the global structures of capital accumulation P Khalil Saucier and Tryon P Woods reveal and confront how contemporary discourse on the migrant crisis displaces Black sovereign mobility Their inquiry into the modern world s culture of politics investigates freedom of movement discourse s ostensible confrontation with border policing the memorializing of Black migrant deaths by artists and advocates and the visual imagery of a cosmopolitan and multicultural Europe as conceived by filmmakers in response to the migrant crisis as variants of a slaveholding culture instantiated in the early Mediterranean and Atlantic worlds This analysis allows the authors to formulate a new critical framework for analysis of both the problems of contemporary migration and borders and the leading prescriptions on offer from analysts advocates and policy makers in order to develop alternate ways of conceptualizing global society

Glaude,2003-01-01 Believing that African American religious studies has reached a crossroads Cornel West and Eddie Glaude seek in this landmark anthology to steer the discipline into the future Arguing that the complexity of beliefs choices and actions of African Americans need not be reduced to expressions of black religion West and Glaude call for more careful reflection on the complex relationships of African American religious studies to conceptions of class gender sexual orientation race empire and other values that continue to challenge our democratic ideals
