Edelman, 2020-10-06 A validating new approach to the long term grieving process that explains why we feel stuck why that's normal and how shifting our perception of grief can help us grow from the New York Times bestselling author of Motherless

Daughters This is perhaps one of the most important books about grief ever written It finally dispels the myth that we are all supposed to get over the death of a loved one Claire Bidwell Smith author of Anxiety The Missing Stage of Grief Aren't you over it yet Anyone who has experienced a major loss in their past knows this question We've spent years fielding versions of it both explicit and implied from family colleagues acquaintances and friends We recognize the subtle cues the slight eyebrow lift the soft startled Oh That long ago from those who wonder how an event so far in the past can still occupy so much precious mental and emotional real estate Because of the common but false assumption that grief should be time limited too many of us believe we're grieving wrong when sadness suddenly resurges sometimes months or even years after a loss The AfterGrief explains that the death of a loved one isn't something most of us get over get past put down or move beyond Grief is not an emotion to pass through on the way to feeling better Instead grief is in constant motion it is tidal easily and often reactivated by memories and sensory events and is re-triggered as we experience life transitions anniversaries and other losses Whether we want it to or not grief gets folded into our developing identities where it informs our thoughts hopes expectations behaviors and fears and we inevitably carry it forward into everything that follows Drawing on her own encounters with the ripple effects of early loss as well as on interviews with dozens of researchers therapists and regular people who've been bereaved New York Times bestselling author Hope Edelman offers profound advice for reassessing loss and adjusting the stories we tell ourselves about its impact on our identities With guidance for reframing a story of loss finding equilibrium within it and even experiencing renewed growth and purpose in its wake she demonstrates that though grief is a lifelong process it doesn't have to be a lifelong struggle

Fernandez, 2022-05-19 So many lives have been lost now and the death toll still continues to rise because of the COVID 19 pandemic The poor and the marginalized not surprisingly have been disproportionately affected The pandemic has exposed the fault lines not only in our healthcare but also in our political and economic system a system driven by the pursuit of the bottom line profits If we are not only to survive but also thrive as a global society the challenge of the coronavirus pandemic must lead us to explore ways of thinking being and dwelling that promote our shared flourishing It is time to take personal stock about ourselves who we are where we have been and where we are heading What can the pandemic teach us about ourselves What is it revealing about us and our situation How shall we dwell together Do we want to wake up to a new and better tomorrow after this nighttime of pandemic That will largely depend on the way we respond now Who are we becoming in this time of pandemic What daily practices are we doing as embodiments of the new world we are anticipating

Affect and American Literature in the Age of Neoliberalism Rachel Greenwald

Smith,2015-04-20 Rachel Greenwald Smith's Affect and American Literature in the Age of Neoliberalism examines the relationship between American literature and politics in the twentieth and twenty first centuries Smith contends that the representation of emotions in contemporary fiction emphasizes the personal lives of characters at a time when there is an unprecedented and often damaging focus on the individual in American life Through readings of works by Paul Auster Karen Tei Yamashita Ben Marcus Lydia Millet and others who stage experiments in the relationship between feeling and form Smith argues for the centrality of a counter tradition in contemporary literature concerned with impersonal feelings feelings that challenge the neoliberal notion that emotions are the property of the self     Psychotherapy in the Age of Political Polarization William McCown,Linda Chamberlain,2025-04-10 Psychotherapy in the Age of Political Polarization is a response to the challenge so many mental health professionals face How do we best assist our clients who are suffering from the political polarization that is pervasive in our culture This book explores how highly politicized interactions can often affect psychotherapy and counseling and ways to combat the division The liberal conservative division that exists in psychotherapy is discussed and ways of overcoming these differences to work on a common goal in a therapeutic setting is of central importance Useful case examples and vignettes are included to aid and mend divisions caused when encountering politically and ideologically challenging clients Furthermore the book explores how we've become so divided the relevance of politics in therapy the interface of political polarization with psychological disorders and finally skills to aid mental health professionals in ethical practice This is an essential read for mental health professionals and students including social workers psychotherapists counselors and psychologists hoping to bridge the gap and reduce the negative impact of political polarization     German Cinema in the Age of Neoliberalism Hester Baer,2025-10-01 This book presents a new history of German film from 1980 2010 a period that witnessed rapid transformations including intensified globalization a restructured world economy geopolitical realignment and technological change all of which have affected cinema in fundamental ways Rethinking the conventional periodization of German film history Baer posits 1980 rather than 1989 as a crucial turning point for German cinema's embrace of a new market orientation and move away from the state sponsored film culture that characterized both DEFA and the New German Cinema Reading films from East West and post unification Germany together Baer argues that contemporary German cinema is characterized most strongly by its origins in and responses to advanced capitalism Informed by a feminist approach and in dialogue with prominent theories of contemporary film the book places a special focus on how German films make visible the neoliberal recasting of gender and national identities around the new millennium     Handbook of Psychosocial Interventions for Veterans and Service Members Nathan David Ainspan,Craig J. the beginning of the age of Henry VIII, by Richard Garnett Richard Garnett, Edmund Gosse, 1906      The Reformation of Emotions in the Age of Shakespeare Steven Mullaney, 2015-07-13

The crises of faith that fractured Reformation Europe also caused crises of individual and collective identity. Structures of feeling as well as structures of belief were transformed; there was a reformation of social emotions as well as a Reformation of faith. As Steven Mullaney shows in The Reformation of Emotions in the Age of Shakespeare, Elizabethan popular drama played a significant role in confronting the uncertainties and unresolved traumas of Elizabethan Protestant England. Shakespeare and his contemporaries, audiences as well as playwrights, reshaped popular drama into a new form of embodied social critical and affective thought. Examining a variety of works from revenge plays to Shakespeare's first history tetralogy and beyond, Mullaney explores how post-Reformation drama not only exposed these faultlines of society on stage but also provoked playgoers in the audience to acknowledge their shared differences. He demonstrates that our most lasting works of culture remain powerful largely because of their deep roots in the emotional landscape of their times.
