University and College Students Educators Professional Practitioners Research Personnel and Policy Analysts Managers and Decision Makers and NGOs      Conchologia Iconica: Or, Illustrations of the Shells of Molluscous Animals Lovell Augustus Reeve, 1843      Animals as Biotechnology Richard Twine, 2010-09-23 In Animals as Biotechnology sociologist Richard Twine places the question of human animal relations at the heart of sustainability and climate change debates The book is shaped by the emergence of two contradictory trends within our approach to nonhuman animals the biotechnological turn in animal sciences which aims to increase the efficiency and profitability of meat and dairy production and the emerging field of critical animal studies mostly in the humanities and social sciences which works to question the nature of our relations with other animals The first part of the book focuses on ethics examining critically the dominant paradigms of bioethics and power relations between human and non human The second part considers animal biotechnology and political economy examining commercialisation and regulation The final part of the book centres on discussions of sustainability limits and an examination of the prospects for animal ethics if biotechnology becomes part of the dominant agricultural paradigm Twine concludes by considering whether growing calls to reduce our consumption of meat dairy products in the face of climate change threats are in fact complicit with an anthropocentric understanding of sustainability and that what is needed is a more fundamental ethical and political questioning of relations and distinctions between humans animals and nature

Report Upon the Invertebrate Animals of Vineyard Sound and Adjacent Waters Addison Emery Verrill, Sidney Irving Smith, 1874      Animals in Islamic Tradition and Muslim Cultures Richard Foltz, 2014-10-01 From references to animals in the Qu ran to modern day websites on Islamic vegetarianism Richard C Foltz presents the first comprehensive study of the role of animals in the Islamic tradition Drawing on a wide range of sources including classic mysticism Foltz traces the development of Islamic attitudes towards animals over the centuries and confronts the key ethical questions facing Muslims today Modern advances in science and technology and the increasing prevalence of techniques such as bioengineering and factory farming have forced many religions to reassess their traditional notions of animal rights and as Foltz demonstrates Muslims are increasingly asking their tradition to respond to such issues Scholarly yet accessible this is an original and informative contribution to Islamic studies and will be essential reading for anyone Muslim or non Muslim with an interest in the significance of religion and culture for the contemporary animal rights debate      What We Owe to Nonhuman Animals Gary Steiner, 2023-09-27 This book strongly challenges the Western philosophical tradition's assertion that humans are superior to nonhuman animals It makes a case for the full and direct moral status of nonhuman animals The book provides the basis for a radical critique of the entire trajectory of animal studies over the past fifteen years The key idea explored is that of felt kinship a sense of shared fate with and obligations to all sentient life It will help to inspire some deep rethinking on the part of leading exponents of animal studies The book's strong outlook is expressed through an appeal for radical humility on the side of humans rather than a constant reference to the human animal divide Historical figures examined in depth include Aristotle Seneca and Kant contemporary figures examined include Christine Korsgaard and Martha Nussbaum This book presents an account according to which the tradition has not proceeded on the basis of impartial motivations at all but instead has made a set of pointedly self serving assumptions about the proper criteria for assessing moral worth Readers of this book will gain exposure to a wide variety of thinkers in the Western philosophical tradition historical as well as contemporary This book is suitable for professionals working in nonhuman animal studies students advanced undergraduates and practitioners working in the fields of philosophy environmental studies law literature anthropology and related fields

On Animals David L. Clough, 2018-12-27 This book presents an authoritative and comprehensive survey of human practice in relation to other animals together with a Christian ethical analysis building on the theological account of animals which David Clough developed in On Animals Volume I Systematic Theology 2012 It argues that a Christian understanding of other animals has radical implications for their treatment by humans with the human use and abuse of non human animals for food the most urgent immediate priority Following an introduction examining the task of theological ethics in relation to non human animals and the way it relates to other accounts of animal ethics this book surveys and assess the use humans make of other animals for food for clothing for labour as research subjects for sport and entertainment as pets or companions and human impacts on wild animals The result is both a state of the art account of what humans are doing to other animals and a persuasive argument that Christians in particular have strong faith based reasons to acknowledge the significance of the issues raised and change their practice in response

Valuing Animals Susan D. Jones, 2003-04-30 Over the course of the twentieth century the relationship between Americans and their domestic animals has changed dramatically In the 1890s pets were a luxury horses were the primary mode of transport and nearly half of all Americans lived or worked on farms Today the pet industry is a multibillion dollar a year business keeping horses has become an expensive hobby and consumers buy milk and meat in pristine supermarkets Veterinarians have been very much a part of these changes in human animal relationships Indeed the development of their profession from horse doctor to medical scientist provides an important perspective on these significant transformations in America s social cultural and economic history In Valuing Animals Susan D Jones trained as both veterinarian and historian traces the rise of veterinary medicine and its impact on the often conflicting ways in which Americans have assessed the utility and worth of domesticated creatures She first looks at how the eclipse of the horse by motorized vehicles in the early years of the century created a crisis for veterinary education practice and research In response veterinarians intensified their activities in making the livestock industry more sanitary and profitable Beginning in the 1930s veterinarians turned to the burgeoning number of house pets whose sentimental value to their owners translated into new market opportunities Jones describes how vets overcame their initial doubts about the significance of this market and began devising new treatments and establishing appropriate standards of care helping to create modern pet culture Americans today value domestic animals for reasons that typically combine exploitation and companionship Both controversial and compelling Valuing Animals uncovers the extent to which veterinary medicine has shaped and been shaped by this contradictory attitude
