The City Joel Kotkin, 2007-12-18 If humankind can be said to have a single greatest creation it would be those places that represent the most eloquent expression of our species's ingenuity beliefs and ideals the city In this authoritative and engagingly written account the acclaimed urbanist and bestselling author examines the evolution of urban life over the millennia and in doing so attempts to answer the age old question What makes a city great Despite their infinite variety all cities essentially serve three purposes spiritual political and economic Kotkin follows the progression of the city from the early religious centers of Mesopotamia the Indus Valley and China to the imperial centers of the Classical era through the rise of the Islamic city and the European commercial capitals ending with today's post industrial suburban metropolis Despite widespread optimistic claims that cities are back in style Kotkin warns that whatever their form cities can thrive only if they remain sacred safe and busy and this is true for both the increasingly urbanized developing world and the often self possessed global cities of the West and East Asia Looking at cities in the twenty first century Kotkin discusses the effects of developments such as shifting demographics and emerging technologies He also considers the effects of terrorism how the religious and cultural struggles of the present pose the greatest challenge to the urban future Truly global in scope The City is a timely narrative that will place Kotkin in the company of Lewis Mumford Jane Jacobs and other preeminent urban scholars

Housing and Planning References, 1958 The Nocturnal City Robert Shaw, 2018-02-02 Night is a foundational element of human and animal life on earth but its interaction with the social world has undergone significant transformations during the era of globalization As the economic activity of the daytime city has advanced into the night other uses of the night as a time for play for sleep or for escaping oppression have come increasingly under threat This book looks at the relationship between night and society in contemporary cities It identifies that while theories of planetary urbanization have traced the spatial spread of urban forms the temporal expansion of urban capitalism has been less well mapped It argues that as a key part of planetary being understanding what goes on at night in cities can add nuance to debates on planetary urbanization A series of practices and spaces that we encounter in the night time city are explored These include the maintenance and repair of infrastructure the aesthetics of the urban night nightlife and the night time economy the home at night and the ecologies of the urban night Taking these forward the book will ask whether the night can reveal some of the boundaries to what we call the urban in a world of cities and will call for a revitalized and enhanced nightology to study these limits

The Living City Des Fitzgerald, 2023-11-21 A sociologist explores why green cities won't fix everything and urges us to celebrate urban life as it is Everywhere you look cities are getting greener The general assumption is clear if something is unhealthy or bad about urban life today then nature holds the cure However argues sociologist Des Fitzgerald green spaces are not the panacea that people think In The Living City Fitzgerald tours the international green city movement that has flourished across the world and discovers the deep sometimes troubling roots of our desire to connect cities to nature Talking to policy makers planners scientists and architects Fitzgerald suggests that underneath the wish to turn future cities green is another wish to make the modern city and perhaps the modern world disappear altogether Ultimately he makes an argument for celebrating the contemporary city as it is in all its noisy constructed artificial glory

City Survivors Anne Power, 2007-11-22 This book provides a unique insider view on the impact of neighbourhood conditions on family life and explores the prospects for families from the point of view of equality integration schools work community regeneration and public services
