CHILDHOOD SANDRA HEIDEMANN CHANG (BETH MENNINGA AND CLAIRE.),2021 Family-School Partnerships During the Early School Years Karen L. Bierman,Susan M. Sheridan,2021-11-25 This book presents research based family school intervention programs that target the specific developmental period of preschool through the early elementary years focusing on promoting positive child transitions into school It explores critical intervention issues including the need to understand mechanisms of efficacy issues with real world implementation and methods for scaling family school interventions The volume references developmental research to highlight the importance of family school partnerships at this critical transition period Several chapters briefly describe research on proven intervention models that are effective in promoting family school partnerships as children enter kindergarten and foster positive school outcomes Each chapter concludes with a review of the most critical next steps in family school intervention research within the context of the early school years At the end of the book several commentary chapters address overall implications for future research and methods for advancing the field including perspectives on research informed family school practices and policies Not only does the volume highlight interventions that work effectively to engage families with schools it focuses on identifying critical components and processes that may underlie effective intervention outcomes and offers agendas for future research and intervention diffusion efforts Key topics of coverage include Presenting the logic model of the intervention program Exploring questions concerning critical elements of family school partnerships that may account for children's positive outcomes. Discussing the challenges and strategies for scalability and broad diffusion, Family School Partnerships During the Early School Years is a valuable resource for researchers, professionals, and graduate students in child and school psychology, educational policy and politics, family studies, developmental psychology, sociology of education, sociology, and anthropology.

Family Engagement in Early Childhood Settings Mary Muhs, 2018-11-20. Working with parents and families can be a challenge, especially when there are contradicting expectations. However, it can also be a joyful and empowering experience for both the program and the family if partnering with families is built into the program's culture. Following a strengths-based approach, Family Engagement in Early Childhood Settings offers all programs, including family child care center-based and school-based programs, strategies for building or enhancing interactions, engagement, expectations, communication, and participation with families. This Redleaf Quick Guide provides clear information of what to do as well as what not to do when encouraging family engagement in early care and education programs. Readers will find helpful information on making the best first impressions with parents in person and online, establishing effective and supportive intake meetings for both parents and program, setting expectations from both perspectives, two-way communication strategies including daily conversations, verbal and technological methods, conferences, and documenting learning, and creating a culture of family engagement embedded into every part of your program.
