David Pearson, Rebecca Barr, 2016-11-18 In Volume III as in Volumes I and II the classic topics of reading are included from vocabulary and comprehension to reading instruction in the classroom and in addition each contributor was asked to include a brief history that chronicles the legacies within each of the volume s many topics However on the whole Volume III is not about tradition Rather it explores the verges of reading research between the time Volume II was published in 1991 and the research conducted after this date The editors identified two broad themes as representing the myriad of verges that have emerged since Volumes I and II were published 1 broadening the definition of reading and 2 broadening the reading research program The particulars of these new themes and topics are addressed The relationship between music and language Lutz Jäncke, Traditionally music and language have been treated as different psychological faculties This duality is reflected in older theories about the lateralization of speech and music in that speech functions were thought to be localized on the left and music functions on the right hemisphere But with the advent of modern brain imaging techniques and the improvement of neurophysiological measures to investigate brain functions an entirely new view on the neural and psychological underpinnings of music and speech has evolved The main point of convergence in the findings of these new studies is that music and speech functions have many aspects in common and that several neural modules are similarly involved in speech and music There is also emerging evidence that speech functions can benefit from music functions and vice versa This new research field has accumulated a lot of new information and it is therefore timely to bring together the work of those researchers who have been most visible productive and inspiring in this field and to ask them to present their new work or provide a summary of their laboratory s work Mobile Learning Applications in Early Childhood Education Papadakis, Stamatios, Kalogiannakis, Michail, 2019-11-29
