The Addiction Process A Systemic Cultural Condition:

The Addiction Process Bob Colonna, 2000-11-20 This book came out of a series of lectures given to participants in a chemical dependency treatment program It is a provocative and powerful book that illuminates the hypocrisies and inequities in the laws and values in our society surrounding alcohol and other drug use abuse and addiction These inequities stem from the lack of knowledge of the underlying addiction process on the part of our institutions and the general public The author challenges the very foundation of our cultural values and shows us how these values give birth to an addiction process that permeates thinking throughout our family religious governmental and educational institutions This distorted thought system perpetuates a state of fear which polarizes society in an us against them mentality and an attitude of any means justify the end The Addiction Process Bob Colonna, Dr. Bob, 1998-09-01

Religion in Systematic Theology Edmond Zi-Kang Chua, 2023-09-28 Most systematicians take as their starting point the nature of God and scripture as the means by which God s nature is revealed but what would a systematic theology look like that began with an experiential knowledge of God Here Edmond Chua offers a method for just such an approach Beginning with realms of human experience including psychology cultural diversity and religious plurality he builds the framework of a systematic theology that is inclusive and pluriform while retaining the core tenets of a Christian doctrine of God Notwithstanding his novel methodology Chua s argument remains biblically rooted and appreciative of the Christian tradition In the latter half of the book he returns to the classical doctrines of the Trinity Christology evil sin and salvation allowing his inclusive view of the human religious experience to shed new light on the wisdom bequeathed by Paul Augustine Aquinas

Challenging Addiction in Canadian Literature and Classrooms Cara Fabre, 2016-01-01 In the richly interdisciplinary study Challenging Addiction in Canadian Literature and Classrooms

Cara Fabre argues that popular culture in its many forms contributes to common assumptions about the causes and personal and social implications of addiction. Recent fictional depictions of addiction significantly refute the idea that addiction is caused by poor individual choices or solely by disease through the connections the authors draw between substance use and poverty, colonialism, and gender-based violence. With particular interest in the pervasive myth of the Drunken Indian, Fabre asserts that these novels reimagine addiction as social suffering rather than individual pathology or moral failure. Fabre builds on the growing body of humanities research that brings literature into active engagement with other fields of study, including biomedical and cognitive behavioural models of addiction, medical and health policies of harm reduction, and the practices of Alcoholics Anonymous. The book further engages with critical pedagogical strategies to teach critical awareness of stereotypes of addiction and to encourage the potential of literary analysis as a form of social activism.

The Routledge International Handbook of Race, Culture and Mental Health Roy Moodley, Eunjung Lee, 2020-10-27 This handbook presents a thorough examination of the intricate interplay of race, ethnicity, and culture in mental health, historical origins, subsequent transformations, and the discourses generated from past and present mental health and wellness practices. The text demonstrates how socio-cultural identities, including race, gender, class, sexual orientation, disability, religion, and age, intersect with clinical work in a range of settings. Case vignettes and recommendations for best practice help ground each in a clinical focus, guiding practitioners and educators to actively increase their understanding of non-Western and indigenous healing techniques, as well as their awareness of contemporary mental health theories as a product of Western culture with a particular historical and cultural perspective. The international contributors also discuss ways in which global mental health practices transcend racial, cultural, ethnic, linguistic, and political boundaries. The Routledge International Handbook of Race, Culture and Mental Health is an essential resource for students, researchers, and professionals alike as it addresses the complexity of mental health issues from a critical global perspective.

Substance Abuse Intervention, Prevention, Rehabilitation, and Systems Change Edith Freeman, 2001-09-26 This book is the first to utilize the empowerment approach of social work practice with substance-abusing clients, bridging clinical, community, and social policy approaches in order to place individual addiction in its sociopolitical context. As Lorraine Gutierrez points out in her foreword, the book challenges us to transform our thinking about substance abuse and move beyond our existing focus on individual deficits. Arguing that pathology-focused definitions of substance abuse tend to transform people into their problems, Freeman instead advocates for strengths-centered policies and regulations as the means to empower clients, communities, and society as a whole. Freeman outlines basic empowerment principles and practices, then details the service delivery processes, offers a context for power, policy, and funding decisions, and examines the needs of special populations. Case examples supplement each chapter, and the final part examines four exemplary programs that demonstrate the empowerment process in action.
