

SPECIAL NEEDS OFFENDERS in the COMMUNITY

An aerial photograph of a city at night, showing a dense grid of buildings. Many windows are illuminated, creating a pattern of bright yellow and orange lights against the dark, silhouetted structures. The perspective is from directly above, looking down on the urban landscape.

Special Needs Offenders And The Community:

Routledge Handbook on Offenders with Special Needs Kimberly D. Dodson, 2018-05-11 Current estimates indicate that approximately 2.2 million people are incarcerated in federal state and local correctional facilities across the United States. There are another 5 million under community correctional supervision. Many of these individuals fall into the classification of special needs or special populations e.g. women, juveniles, substance abusers, mentally ill, aging chronically or terminally ill offenders. Medical care and treatment costs represent the largest portion of correctional budgets and estimates suggest that these costs will continue to rise. In the community, probation and parole officers are responsible for helping special needs offenders find appropriate treatment resources. Therefore, it is important to understand the needs of these special populations and how to effectively care for and address their individual concerns. The Routledge Handbook of Offenders with Special Needs is an in-depth examination of offenders with special needs such as those who are learning challenged, developmentally disabled, and mentally ill, as well as substance abusers, sex offenders, women, juveniles, and chronically and terminally ill offenders. Areas that previously have been unexamined or examined in a limited way are explored. For example, this text carefully examines the treatment of gay, lesbian, bisexual, and transgender offenders and racial and gender disparities in health care delivery, as well as pregnancy and parenthood behind bars, homelessness, and the incarceration of veterans and immigrants. In addition, the book presents legal and management issues related to the treatment and rehabilitation of special populations in prisons, jails, and the community, including police/citizen interactions, diversion through specialty courts, obstacles and challenges related to reentry and reintegration, and the need for the development and implementation of evidence-based criminal justice policies and practices. This is a key collection for students taking courses in prisons, penology, criminal justice, criminology, and related areas of study and an essential resource for academics and practitioners working with offenders with special needs.

Special Needs Offenders in Correctional Institutions Lior Gideon, 2012-09-14 Effective treatment and preparation for successful reintegration can be better achieved if the needs and risks of incarcerated offenders are taken into consideration by correctional practitioners and scholars. Special Needs Offenders in Correctional Institutions offers a unique opportunity to examine the different populations behind bars e.g. chronically and mentally ill, homosexual, illegal immigrants, veterans, radicalized inmates, etc. as well as their needs and the corresponding impediments for rehabilitation and reintegration. Author Lior Gideon takes a rehabilitative and reiterative approach to discuss and differentiate between the needs of these various categories of inmates and provides in-depth discussions not available in other correctional texts about the specific needs, risks, and policy recommendations when working with present-day special needs offenders. Each chapter is followed by suggested readings and relevant websites that will enable readers to further enhance understanding of the issues and potential solutions discussed in the chapter. Further, each chapter has discussion questions specifically designed to promote class discussions. The text concludes with a theoretical framework for future policy.

Shannon M. Barton-Bellessa,2012-05 In response to recognition in the late 1960s and early 1970s that traditional incarceration was not working alternatives to standard prison settings were sought and developed One of those alternatives community based corrections had been conceived in the 1950s as a system that might prove more progressive humane and effective particularly with people who had committed less serious criminal offenses and for whom incarceration with constant exposure to serious offenders and career criminals might prove more damaging than rehabilitative The alternative of community corrections has evolved to become a substantial part of the criminal justice and correctional system spurred in recent years not so much by a progressive humane philosophy as by dramatically increasing prison populations court orders to fix overextended prison settings and an economic search for cost savings Encyclopedia of Community Corrections explores all aspects of community corrections from its philosophical foundation to its current inception Features a thematic reader s guide in the front matter groups entries by broad topical or thematic areas to make it easy for users to find related entries at a glance a chronology in the back matter helps students put individual events into broader historical context a glossary provides students with concise definitions to key terms in the field a resource guide to classic books journals and web sites along with the further readings accompanying each entry guides students to further resources in their research journeys and appendix offers statistics from the Bureau of Justice The Virtual Prison Julian V.
