Style and Sociolinguistic Variation Penelope Eckert, John R. Rickford, 2001 This study of sociolinguistic variation examines the relation between social identity and ways of speaking Studying variations in language not only reveals a great deal about speakers strategies with respect to variables such as social class gender ethnicity and age it also affords us the opportunity to observe linguistic change in progress The volume brings together leading experts from a range of disciplines to create a broad perspective on the study of style and variation Beginning with an introduction to theoretical issues the book goes on to discuss key approaches to stylistic variation in spoken language including such issues as attention paid to speech audience design identity construction the corpus study of register genre distinctiveness and the anthropological study of style Rigorous and engaging this book will become the standard work on stylistic variation It will be welcomed by students and academics in sociolinguistics English language dialectology anthropology and sociology

Play Frames and Social Identities Vally Lytra, 2007 This book is a sociolinguistic study of children s talk and how they interact with one another and their teachers in multilingual multicultural and multiethnic schools It is based on tape recordings and ethnographic observations of majority Greek and minority Turkish speaking children at an Athens primary school It offers the reader a unique look into the ways in which children draw upon their rich interactional histories and share transform and recontextualize linguistic and other semiotic resources in circulation to construct play frames and explore adopt resist available as well as novel social roles and identities Drawing on ethnographically informed approaches to discourse the book shows the ways in which verbal phenomena such as teasing joking language play music making and chanting can provide a productive locus for the study of the negotiation of social identities and roles at school This book will be of interest to scholars researchers and students of sociolinguistics discourse analysis cultural studies and multicultural education It will also be of interest to anthropologists and sociologists Language, Multimodal Interaction and Transaction Xuehua Xiang,2021-09-08 Xuehua Xiang examines multimodal interaction in the marketplace in a multilingual town at the juncture of urbanization in Southern China Using a collection of data that span nearly 20 years from ethnographic fieldwork Language Multimodal Interaction and Transaction Studies of a Southern Chinese marketplace analyzes multimodal talk in interaction in the traditional marketplace as both an economic mechanism and a localized social space Focusing on how buyers and sellers interact to complete transactions as marketplace shifts from sedimentations of road side peddling to centralized built space and further to corporate e commerce Xiang takes into account the Janus nature of language as both incurring transaction costs and a powerful tool of information and control By analyzing the socializing functions of language in the marketplace outside of and beyond economic dealings the study additionally documents and depicts the roles of affect and morality in marketplace encounters The study offers an overarching framework for future research on the mediating role of language and multimodal interaction in economic activities as well as on the interplay of information knowledge affect and morality in social encounters Porta Palazzo Rachel E. Black,2012-04-16 Porta Palazzo arguably Western Europe s largest open air market is a central economic social and cultural hub for Italians and migrants in the city of Turin Open air markets like Porta Palazzo have existed for centuries in Europe although their function has changed over time traditional markets are no longer the primary place to buy food they remain popular destinations In an age of supermarkets and online commerce markets offer unique social and cultural opportunities and bring together urban and rural worldviews These factors are often overlooked in traditional economic studies of food distribution but anthropologist Rachel E Black contends that social relations are essential for building and maintaining valuable links between production and consumption From the history of Porta Palazzo to the current growing pains of the market this book concentrates on points where trade meets cultural identities and cuisine Its detailed and perceptive portraits of the market bring into relief the lives of the vendors shoppers and passersby Black s ethnography illuminates the daily work of market going and the anxieties of shoppers as they navigate the market It examines migration the link between cuisine and cultural identity culinary tourism the connection between the farmers market and the production of local food and the urban planning issues negotiated by the city of Turin and market users during a recent renovation This vibrant study featuring a foreword by Slow Food Movement founder Carlo Petrini makes a strong case for why markets like Porta Palazzo are critical for fostering culinary culture and social life in cities Multimodality and Social Interaction in Online and Offline Shopping Gitte Rasmussen,Theo van Leeuwen,2023-09-29 This collection brings together social semiotic ethnographic and conversation analytic approaches to multimodality in global studies of shopping drawing on the rich diversity of the latest multimodal methods to critically reflect on shopping as a cornerstone of contemporary social life The volume explores shopping as an area of study in its own right with the buying and selling of goods and services a fundamental part of the social and cultural life of human communities for centuries The book looks at both online and offline shopping examining it as both everyday multi sensorial practice and its translation into the interactive text and imagery that comprise the online shopping experience from London street markets to Japanese grocery shops to Danish supermarkets to worldwide online shopping sites Highlighting the diversity of modern multimodal approaches through contributions from established scholars the book critically surveys both the challenges and opportunities in the embodied interactions between buyers and sellers and how these points of connection have been translated and will continue to transform in the age of algorithms and emergent technologies This book will appeal to students and scholars interested in multimodality multimodal conversation analysis social semiotics social interaction and retail studies A World of Others' Words Richard Bauman, 2008-04-15 Drawing on his work in Iceland Ireland Scotland North America Ghana and Fiji linguistic anthropologist and folklorist Richard Bauman presents a series of ethnographic case studies that offer a sparkling look at intertextuality as communicative practice A fascinating perspective on intertextuality the idea that written and spoken texts speak to one another e g through genre or allusions Presents a series of ethnographic case studies to illustrate the topic Draws on a broad range of oral performances and literary records from across the world The author's introduction sets a framework for the analysis of genre perform and intertextuality Shows how performers blend genres e g telling stories about riddles or legends about magical verses or constructing sales pitches Feeding Barcelona, 1714-1975 Montserrat Miller, 2015-01-12 The food markets of Barcelona host thousands of customers daily from tourists eager to sample fresh fruits and grilled seafood to neighborhood cooks in search of high quality ingredients While other countries experienced major shifts away from the public market model in the twentieth century Barcelona's food markets remained fundamental to the city's identity economy and culture Montserrat Miller's Feeding Barcelona 1714 1975 examines the causes behind the extraordinary vibrancy and tenacity of the Barcelonan market system Miller argues that recurrent revolutionary uprisings in Barcelona beginning in the mid eighteenth century forced ongoing collaboration between the public and private sectors to ensure adequate and effective food distribution Municipal support permitted small scale food sellers in Barcelona to survive in a period more commonly characterized by increasing capitalization in food retail while the importance of food markets to Barcelona's social networks enhanced vendors ability to recognize and adapt to changing customer demands In addition a high number of stalls owned by women contributed both to the financial well being of vendor families and to the sociability patterns that placed neighborhood food markets at the center of daily life in the city The shared commitment of vendors shoppers and government officials to a market model of food sales created the lasting and unique market system that persists in Barcelona to this day Drawing from extensive archival research and numerous interviews with individuals at all levels of the market system Feeding Barcelona 1714 1975 is the first detailed history of the historical and social influences that create urban food markets

Chinese Espresso Grazia Ting Deng, 2024-05-14 Why and how local coffee bars in Italy those distinctively Italian social and cultural spaces have been increasingly managed by Chinese baristas since the Great Recession of 2008 Italians regard espresso as a quintessentially Italian cultural product so much so that Italy has applied to add Italian espresso to UNESCO's official list of intangible heritages of humanity The coffee bar is a cornerstone of Italian urban life with city residents sipping espresso at more than 100 000 of these local businesses throughout the country And yet despite its nationalist bona fides espresso in Italy is increasingly prepared by Chinese baristas in Chinese managed coffee bars In this book Grazia Ting Deng explores the paradox of Chinese espresso the fact that this most distinctive Italian social and cultural tradition is being preserved by Chinese immigrants and their racially diverse clientele Deng investigates the conditions mechanisms and implications of the rapid spread of Chinese owned coffee bars in Italy since the Great Recession of 2008 Drawing on her extensive ethnographic research in Bologna Deng describes an immigrant group that relies on reciprocal and flexible family labor to make coffee deploying local knowledge gleaned from longtime residents who have come sometimes resentfully to regard this arrangement as a new normal The existence of Chinese espresso represents new features of postmodern and postcolonial urban life in a pluralistic society where immigrants assume traditional roles even as they are regarded as racial others The story of Chinese baristas and their patrons Deng argues transcends the dominant Eurocentric narrative of immigrant host relations complicating our understanding of cultural dynamics and racial formation within the shifting demographic realities of the Global North
