Tangled Wing Biological Constraints On:

The Tangled Wing Melvin Konner, 1993 First published twenty years ago to great acclaim The Tangled Wing soon became a must read for anyone interested in the biological roots of human behavior and emotions Since then however revolutions have taken place in the biological sciences not only in genetics but molecular biology and neuroscience as well All of these innovations have been brought into account in this vastly expanded edition of a book originally called an overwhelming achievement by the Times Literary Supplement Adaptation and Human Behavior Napoleon Chagnon, 2017-09-08 This volume presents state of the art empirical studies working in a paradigm that has become known as human behavioral ecology The emergence of this approach in anthropology was marked by publication by Aldine in 1979 of an earlier collection of studies edited by Chagnon and Irons entitled Evolutionary Biology and Human Social Behavior An Anthropological Perspective During the two decades that have passed since then this innovative approach has matured and expanded into new areas that are explored here The book opens with an introductory chapter by Chagnon and Irons tracing the origins of human behavioral ecology and its subsequent development Subsequent chapters written by both younger scholars and established researchers cover a wide range of societies and topics organized into six sections The first section includes two chapters that provide historical background on the development of human behavioral ecology and compare it to two complementary approaches in the study of evolution and human behavior evolutionary psychology and dual inheritance theory The second section includes five studies of mating efforts in a variety of societies from South America and Africa The third section covers parenting with five studies on societies from Africa Asia and North America The fourth section breaks somewhat with the tradition in human behavioral ecology by focusing on one particularly problematic issue the demographic transition using data from Europe North America and Asia The fifth section includes studies of cooperation and helping behaviors using data from societies in Micronesia and South America The sixth and final section consists of a single chapter that places the volume in a broader critical and comparative context The contributions to this volume demonstrate with a high degree of theoretical and methodological sophistication the maturity and freshness of this new paradigm in the study of human behavior The volume will be of interest to anthropologists and other professions working on the study of cross cultural human behavior Viable Utopian Ideas Art Shostak, 2015-06-11 Utopias whether philosophical literary or actual experiments are attempts to solve all social problems In the wake of the attack on the World Trade Center unfolding corporate scandals and other devastating shocks it is natural to search for practical lessons in utopian literature In this collection noted sociologists renew the call to develop an altruistic social order They address a wide variety of topics as they look for viable utopian ideas that can be applied to today's society Written in an engaging jargon free style and directed to introductory sociology students as well as anyone concerned with social problems the book provides both visionary ideals and insights for pragmatic decision making as we venture into an uncertain future Producing Public Television, Producing Public Culture Barry Dornfeld, 2021-02-09 From 1989 to 1991 Barry Dornfeld had an unusual double role on the crew of the major PBS documentary series Childhood. As a researcher for the series he investigated the relationship between children and media. As an anthropologist however his subject was the television production process itself examining for example how producers developed the series negotiated with their academic advisors and shaped footage shot around the world into seven programs. He presents the results of his fieldwork in this groundbreaking study one of the first to take an ethnographic approach to the production of a television show as opposed to its reception. Dornfeld begins with a broad discussion of public television's role in American culture and goes on to examine documentaries as a form of popular anthropology. Drawing on his observations of Childhood he considers the documentary form as a kind of imagining in which both producers and viewers construct understandings of themselves and others revealing their conceptions of culture and history and their ideologies of cultural difference and universality. He argues that producers of culture should also be understood as consumers who conduct their work through an active envisioning of the audience. Dornfeld explores as well how intellectual media professionals struggle with the institutional and cultural forces surrounding television that promote entertainment at the expense of education. The book provides a rare glimpse behind the scenes of a major documentary and demonstrates the value of an ethnographic approach to the study of media production.

It Takes a Worried Woman Debra Monroe, 2022-10-15 In Search of Human Nature Carl N. Degler, 1992-11-05 Winner of the Pulitzer Prize in History in 1972 and a past president of both the Organization of American Historians and the American Historical Association Carl Degler is one of America's most eminent living historians. He is also one of the most versatile. In a forty year career he has written brilliantly on race Neither Black Nor White which won the Pulitzer Prize women's studies At Odds which Betty Friedan called a stunning book Southern history The Other South the New Deal and many other subjects. Now in The Search for Human Nature Degler turns to perhaps his largest subject yet a sweeping history of the impact of Darwinism and biological research on our understanding of human nature providing a fascinating overview of the social sciences in the last one hundred years. The idea of a biological root to human nature was almost universally accepted at the turn of the century. Degler points out then all but vanished from social thought only to reappear in the last four decades. Degler traces the early history of this idea from Darwin's argument that our moral and emotional life evolved from animals just as our human shape did to William James's emphasis on instinct in human behavior then seen as a fundamental insight of psychology. We also see the many applications of biology from racism sexism and Social Darwinism to the rise of intelligence testing the eugenics movement and the practice of involuntary sterilization of criminals a public policy pioneered in America which had sterilization laws 25 years before Nazi Germany one such law was upheld by Oliver Wendell Holmes's Supreme Court. Degler then examines the work of those who denied any role for biology who thought culture shaped human nature a group ranging from Franz Boas Ruth Benedict and Margaret Mead to John B. Watson and B. F. Skinner. Equally important he examines the forces behind this fundamental shift in a scientific paradigm arguing that ideological reasons especially the struggle against racism and sexism in America led to this change in scientific thinking Finally Degler considers the revival of Darwinism without the Social Darwinism racism and sexism led first by ethologists such as Karl von Frisch Nikolaas Tinbergen Konrad Lorenz and Jane Goodall who revealed clear parallels between animal and human behavior and followed in varying degrees by such figures as Melvin Konner Alice Rossi Jerome Kagen and Edward O Wilson as well as others in anthropology political science sociology and economics What kind of animal is Homo sapiens and how did we come to be this way In this wide ranging history Carl Degler traces our attempts over the last century to answer these questions In doing so he has produced a volume that will fascinate anyone curious about the nature of human beings Human Evolutionary Biology Michael P. Muehlenbein, 2010-07-29 Wide ranging and inclusive this text provides an invaluable review of an expansive selection of topics in human evolution variation and adaptability for professionals and students in biological anthropology evolutionary biology medical sciences and psychology The chapters are organized around four broad themes with sections devoted to phenotypic and genetic variation within and between human populations reproductive physiology and behavior growth and development and human health from evolutionary and ecological perspectives An introductory section provides readers with the historical theoretical and methodological foundations needed to understand the more complex ideas presented later Two hundred discussion questions provide starting points for class debate and assignments to test student understanding

Sweet Anticipation David Huron, 2008-01-25 The psychological theory of expectation that David Huron proposes in Sweet Anticipation grew out of the author's experimental efforts to understand how music evokes emotions These efforts evolved into a general theory of expectation that will prove informative to readers interested in cognitive science and evolutionary psychology as well as those interested in music The book describes a set of psychological mechanisms and illustrates how these mechanisms work in the case of music All examples of notated music can be heard on the Web Huron proposes that emotions evoked by expectation involve five functionally distinct response systems reaction responses which engage defensive reflexes tension responses where uncertainty leads to stress prediction responses which reward accurate prediction imagination responses which facilitate deferred gratification and appraisal responses which occur after conscious thought is engaged For real world events these five response systems typically produce a complex mixture of feelings The book identifies some of the aesthetic possibilities afforded by expectation and shows how common musical devices such as syncopation cadence meter tonality and climax exploit the psychological opportunities The theory also provides new insights into the physiological psychology of awe laughter and spine tingling chills Huron traces the psychology of expectations from the patterns of the physical cultural world through imperfectly learned heuristics used to predict that world to the phenomenal qualia we experienced as we apprehend the world Genetic Seeds of Warfare R. Paul Shaw, Yuwa Wong, 2020-12-22 For millennia humanity has simultaneously deplored and waged war With each conflict the stakes have risen and we now face global annihilation for the sake of a practice all the world claims to condemn Is there some seemingly irresistible force that impels us toward our own destruction To explain this central paradox of human behaviour Genetic Seeds of Warfare originally published in 1989 advances a startling new theory It traces the origins of warfare back to early groups of Homo sapiens in competition for scarce resources showing that warfare evolved as these groups evolved kin group against kin group tribe against tribe nation against nation Rather than being tied to a specific gene warfare emerged as one of many behavioural strategies for maximising genetic survival As social groups became more complex motivations for warfare developed from simple protection of blood relations to political appeals to shared ethnicity religion and national identity But the ultimate cause of warfare is rooted in the most basic of human drives the need to ensure that one's genes will survive and reproduce The authors challenge many assumptions about human behaviour in general and warfare in particular They convincingly present the case for an evolutionary understanding of the propensity for warfare supporting their argument with data from a vast array of social and natural science research In doing so they reveal why previous attempts at ending war have failed and make proactive suggestions toward the development of a new agenda for world peace

Routledge Library Editions: Security and Society Various, 2021-09-30 This 12 volume set contains titles originally published between 1934 and 1995 An eclectic mix of titles this collection draws from anthropology economics ethics politics psychology and sociology Exploring security in both war and peacetime it includes volumes looking at the causes of war and its effect on society as a whole the soldiers themselves and their place in society the portrayal of war in the press both in words and photographs and the politics behind them
