Tariffs And Smuggling In A Model Of Differentiated Products Trade:

Tariffs and Smuggling in a Model of Differentiated Products Trade Bijit K. Bora, 1988 Working Papers in Economics and Econometrics Australian National University. Research School of Social Sciences. Department of Economics, 1988

Channelizing Afghanistan to Pakistan informal trade into formal channels Khan Miankhel, Adil, 2016-05-06 This paper focuses on assessing the possibility of bringing informal trade from Afghanistan to Pakistan into the legal channels by reducing tariff and tax differentials between Pakistan and Afghanistan A basic model and illustrative example are presented that encompass the monetary incentives of smugglers and shows possible tariff tax reductions that bring profits from informal trade below the breakeven point The effects of price discounting of informally traded products in the Pakistan market and possible under invoicing by traders are also taken into consideration

International Trade Theory and Policy Giancarlo Gandolfo, 2013-08-13 In the present text the author deals with both conventional and new approaches to trade theory and policy treating all important research topics in international economics and clarifying their mathematical intricacies The textbook is intended for undergraduates graduates and researchers alike It addresses undergraduate students with extremely clear language and illustrations making even the most complex trade models accessible In the appendices graduate students and researchers will find self contained treatments in mathematical terms The new edition has been thoroughly revised and updated to reflect the latest research on international trade List of Recent Periodical Articles Joint Bank-Fund Library, 1990-03 Revue Canadienne D'économie , 1989 A general interest journal in economics

Differential Products and Evasion of Import Tariffs Beata K. Smarzynska Javorcik, Gaia Narciso, 2007 Emerging literature has demonstrated some unique characteristics of trade in differentiated products This paper contributes to the literature by postulating that differentiated products may be subject to greater tariff evasion due to the difficulties associated with assessing their quality and price Using product level data on trade between Germany and 10 Eastern European countries during 1992 2003 the authors find empirical support for this hypothesis They show that the trade gap defined as the discrepancy between the value of exports reported by Germany and the value of imports from Germany reported by the importing country is positively related to the level of tariff in 8 out of 10 countries Further the authors show that the responsiveness of the trade gap to the tariff level is greater for differentiated products than for homogeneous goods A one percentage point increase in the tariff rate is associated with a 0.6 percent increase in the trade gap in the case of homogeneous products and a 2.1 percent increase in the case of differentiated products Finally the data indicate that greater tariff evasion observed for differentiated products tends to take place through misrepresentation of the import prices

Australian National Bibliography , 1989 Applied International Economics W. Charles Sawyer, Richard L.
