Lennard J. Davis,2009-05-15 We live in an age of obsession Not only are we hopelessly devoted to our work strangely addicted to our favorite television shows and desperately impassioned about our cars we admire obsession in others we demand that lovers be infatuated with one another in films we respond to the passion of single minded musicians we cheer on driven athletes To be obsessive is to be American to be obsessive is to be modern But obsession is not only a phenomenon of modern existence it is a medical category both a pathology and a goal Behind this paradox lies a fascinating history which Lennard J Davis tells in Obsession Beginning with the roots of the disease in demonic possession and its secular successors

Davis traces the evolution of obsessive behavior from a social and religious fact of life into a medical and psychiatric problem. From obsessive aspects of professional specialization to obsessive compulsive disorder and nymphomania no variety of obsession eludes Davis's graceful analysis.

Finding God Again John J. Shea, 2005-05-20 Growing out of two decades of teaching and practice Finding God Again Spirituality for Adults addresses in an experiential and pastoral way the need to reenvision God as we grow from an adolescent to adult spirituality. John Shea, a renowned pastoral counselor and teacher, shows how we can lose touch with religion, spirituality, and a belief in God because of times when our image of God is too narrow, unreal, or inadequate to make sense of our experience. Shea uses real-life stories to illustrate and offer a life-changing challenge to leave behind the Superego God of childhood in favor of a Living God we can relate to as adults. By showing the reader how to revisit God as an adult, Shea provides the motivation and method to embrace a Living God and claim the independence and responsibility that accompany genuine adulthood.

Art, Angst, and Trauma Doris Banowsky Arrington, 2007 This important new text demonstrates how art therapy can make a major contribution to the treatment of children who are seriously ill, in foster care, physically and emotionally traumatized, as well as deviant and addicted adolescents, young adults, and with the aftermath of a spouse's suicide. The first three chapters of this book set the framework, providing established developmental structure, holistic interactions of mind, body, and attachment essentials for human beings. In the following chapters, authors that are experts in facilitating art as healing with people of different ages and in different settings share their insights, images, and stories about treating developmental issues of angst and trauma. Of special interest are the two chapters on brain development and function, indicating that art therapy can make a major contribution to the healing of trauma because creative activity literally changes the traumatized topography of the brain. Information about the importance of bilateral integration, as seen in both Eye Movement Desensitization Reprocessing (EMDR) and art therapy, contributing to healing trauma is discussed. There is a special segment on art therapy and a new approach to the treatment of trauma with a sequence of chapters devoted to the ways art therapy facilitates healing of issues throughout the life span. The Instinctual Trauma Response (ITR) is examined, which resolves the client's trauma without abreaction or re-experiencing the event and without the use of medication. In addition, there is clinical documentation of the successful resolution of different kinds of trauma with a variety of clients at various stages of development. These cases include the trauma of multiple surgeries, family violence, and witness to death. The book concludes with a discussion of how art therapy has helped the elderly and their caretakers deal with issues of Alzheimer's and death. This is a book that contains significant new material that is a major contribution to the art therapy field.
