Prof. John Matthew A. Aquino, PhD, RDPO

MPA 309: Public Service Delivery

This section refers to the five principles that should be represented in a public service delivery system, based on assessments and reforms of public administration found in the literature and agreed to by Member States as the basis for improving service in the region: accessibility, participation, accountability, non-discrimination, and inclusiveness and responsiveness. It also reflects how the principles should be applied through the proposed indicators, which can be used for monitoring implementation of the principles in a public service delivery system.

MPA 309: Public Service Delivery

A. Definition of the principles of a public service delivery system

A strong and good-quality public service delivery system should be grounded on the following five principles, as
