A Study of Interactions Institute of Medicine, National Research Council, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Board on Children, Youth, and Families, Program Committee for a Workshop on the Synthesis of Research on Adolescent Health and Development, 2006-05-25 Scholars and adults in general have pondered for centuries the mysterious processes that influence the ways in which children gradually become adults The development of professional organizations and journals devoted to adolescence as well as increasing appreciation in academia and the world of policy for the importance of this phase of life have helped this field catch up with the pace of research on other stages of human development particularly infancy and early childhood The development of a comprehensive review of research on adolescence depends in large part on the perceived need for such a synthesis and the extent to which different research fields as well as policy and practice would benefit from such an effort To address these issues the National Research Council and the Institute of Medicine through the Board on Children Youth and Families held a two day workshop in September 2005 The workshop was designed as an opportunity for an interdisciplinary group to explore the different strands of research that contribute to understanding adolescence In the brief time available the group was not asked to address the entire range of issues related to adolescent health and development but rather to provide an initial explanation of issues that a longer term study might address A Study of Interactions summarizes the major themes discussed at the workshop It begins with an overview of what adolescence is and current views of the processes that shape development in the second decade of life It explores the transdisciplinary research issues already presented in this field as well as issues raised in discussions of goals for the field's future A closing section describes the presenters' thoughts on the feasibility of launching an in depth contextual study that could more firmly establish connections among the many fields of study concerned with adolescence Life-span Human Development Carol K. Sigelman, Elizabeth A. Rider, 2003 By combining the best of topical and chronological approaches this text presents life span development as a motion picture rather than as a series of individual snapshots

The novel begins with Richard Papen, a bright but troubled young man, arriving at Hampden College. Richard is immediately drawn to the group of students who call themselves the Classics Club. The club is led by Henry Winter, a brilliant and charismatic young man. Henry is obsessed with Greek mythology and philosophy, and he quickly draws Richard into his world. The other members of the Classics Club are equally as fascinating. Bunny Corcoran is a wealthy and spoiled young man who is always looking for a good time. Charles Tavis is a quiet and reserved young man who is deeply in love with Henry. Camilla Macaulay is a beautiful and intelligent young woman who is drawn to the power and danger of the Classics Club. The students are all deeply in love with Morrow, and they are willing to do anything to please him. Morrow is a complex and mysterious figure, and he seems to be manipulating the students for his own purposes. As the students become more involved with Morrow, they begin to commit increasingly dangerous acts. The Secret History is a masterful and thrilling novel that will keep you wondering until the very end. The novel is a warning tale about the dangers of obsession and the power of evil.
