Human Rights Education, 1994 Report of a European Teachers seminar held at Rostov on Don November 4 6 1993

Research in Education, 1974 Human Rights Education Sarita Cargas, 2019-11-22 In tracing the origins of the modern human rights movement historians typically point to two periods the 1940s in which decade the Universal Declaration of Human Rights UDHR was ratified by the United Nations General Assembly and the 1970s during which numerous human rights nongovernmental organizations NGOs most notably Amnesty International and M decins Sans Fronti res came into existence It was also in the 1970s Sarita Cargas observes when the first classes in international human rights began to be taught in law schools and university political science departments in the United States Cargas argues that the time has come for human rights to be acknowledged as an academic discipline She notes that human rights has proven to be a relevant field to scholars and students in political science and international relations and law for over half a century It has become of interest to anthropology history sociology and religious studies as well as a requirement even in social work and education programs However despite its interdisciplinary nature Cargas demonstrates that human rights meets the criteria that define an academic discipline in that it possesses a canon of literature a shared set of concerns a community of scholars and a methodology In an analysis of human rights curricula in Australia Canada the United Kingdom and the United States Cargas identifies an informal consensus on the epistemological foundations of human rights including familiarity with human rights law knowledge of major actors including the United Nations governments NGOS and multinational corporations and most crucially awareness and advocacy of the rights and freedoms detailed in the articles of the UDHR The second half of the book offers practical recommendations for creating a human rights major or designing courses at the university level in the United States Curriculum Development and Review for Democratic Citizenship and Human Rights Education

Tibbitts, Felisa, Council of Europe, 2016-03-01 Education for democratic citizenship and human rights education are vital for peaceful sustainable and inclusive societies based on respect for the human rights of every person Effective teaching and learning processes require well trained teachers positive learning environments and high quality learning materials This is underpinned by education policy including curriculum development and review which is the main focus of this book The strengthening of education policies in the fields of education for democratic citizenship and human rights lies at the very heart of the efforts of the Council of Europe the United Nations Educational Scientific and Cultural Organization the Office for Democratic Institutions and Human Rights of the Organization for Security and Co operation in Europe and the Organization of American States These organisations have jointly produced this publication in order to support states commitment to fostering citizenship and human rights education and improving access to quality education for all
