

While they waited, Snugglepoot and Chubbipoot bought two little second-hand houses from a wayside shop. (Krustums always carry money in their caps.)

"They will be warm to sleep in," said Snugglepoot, "and we can rest until Mr. Lizard comes back." So they settled in and both went fast asleep.

In the middle of the night a spotted cat came sniffing at their houses. He had a large family to feed and had had no luck that night.

"These grubs will be better than nothing," he thought, and was just about to seize them in his mouth when a terrible noise arose above him. Scream after scream filled the night. The spotted cat fled, and down the tree slid two large koalas, or native bears, as they are often called. They were fighting, and as they hit each other they screamed with rage.

Routledge Handbook of International Law and the Humanities

Shane Chalmers, Sundhya Pahuja, 2021-05-19. This Handbook brings together 40 of the world's leading scholars and rising stars who study international law from disciplines in the humanities, from history to literature, philosophy to the visual arts, to showcase the distinctive contributions that this field has made to the study of international law over the past two decades.

Including authors from Australia, Canada, Europe, India, South Africa, the UK, and the USA, all the contributors engage the question of what is distinctive and critical about the work that has been done and that continues to be done in the field of international law and the humanities. For many of these authors, answering this question involves reflecting on the work they themselves have been contributing to this path-breaking field since its inception at the end of the twentieth century. For others, it involves offering models of the new work they are carrying out or else reflecting on the future directions of a field that has now taken its place as one of the most important sites for the study of international legal practice and theory.

Each of the book's six parts foregrounds a different element or cluster of elements of international law and the humanities, from an attention to the office conduct and training of the jurist and jurisprudent (Part 1) to scholarly craft and technique (Part 2), to questions of authority and responsibility (Part 3), history and historiography (Part 4), plurality and community (Part 5), as well as the challenge of thinking and rethinking international legal concepts for our times (Part 6).

Outlining new ways of imagining and doing international law at a moment in time when original critical thought and practice is more necessary than ever, this Handbook will be essential for scholars, students, and practitioners in international law.

international relations as well as in law and the humanities more generally.

Australian Children's Books, 1980-2000

Marcie Muir, Kerry White, 2004. All Australian children's books published from 1989 to 2000 are listed in this essential reference for those who appreciate the richness of Australian writing for children. Following the same format as volumes 1 and 2 in this series, chronicling books published as early as 1774, entries include publishing details, the number of illustrations, and the awards received for each book.

This third volume follows the continuing careers of authors such as Mem Fox, Bob Graham, Robin Klein, and Paul Jennings, and traces changes in the popularity of Australian themes and settings to identify publishing trends. Varied cultural aspects of modern-day life are shown, from globalization, commercialism, and the rise of the middle class in Asia to desktop publishing, outcome-based school curricula, and the modern obsession with celebrities, all of which are reflected in the type and quantity of books produced by Australian writers and publishers. The wealth of included
