Learning foreign languages: experiences of persons with disabilities and special educational needs and their teachers Ewa

Domagala-Zysk, Jitka Sedláčková, Katarzyna Karpińska-Szaj, 2025-09-22 In many parts of the world it is not a person's native language but a foreign one which is used for education work or entertainment. This is true for many European countries whose inhabitants need to learn English as a foreign language if they want to participate in education or among diverse fields in the workforce. In other parts of the world it might be Spanish, Hindi, Mandarin, Chinese, Arabic or other languages which will be serving a similar role. This need for learning a second language is understood well in many educational programs including those for students with special educational needs. However, to date there is not much research of the experiences of persons with diverse additional needs as learners of foreign languages. The most robust literature covers the field of additional language acquisition among Deaf and Hard of Hearing (DHH) people (cf. Domaga a Zy k Podlowska Moritz 2021 and others). Goals, methods and forms of teaching are fairly well described and DHH students' needs have been documented extensively.

The Ecology of Pre-Primary Foreign Language Learning Joanna Rokita-Jaśkow, 2025-01-29 This book synthesises research on very early language learning in pre-primary organised instruction settings such as kindergarten, nursery or afternoon classes. Using a framework of ecological development, it investigates the nested systems in which very young learners operate, the other agents involved in each of these systems and the influence these agents have on children's foreign language learning. It explores the ecosystems of the individual learner and their family, educational institutions, general social climate and language education policies, resulting in a holistic view of early language learning and the key transitions into and out of pre-primary formal instruction settings. This is the first book to gather research to date on very young learners in formal settings, offering a comprehensive state of the art to researchers and graduate students in early language learning, second language acquisition and early years pedagogy.
