Teaching Positions Difference Pedagogy And The Power Of Address:

Teaching Positions Elizabeth Ann Ellsworth, 1997 Drawing on media studies literary theory and the work of psychoanalytic feminist theorist Shoshana Felman Ellsworth portrays the work of pedagogy as a performative practice revealing the manner in which pedagogy positions teachers and students to engender gaps and silences in the communication of knowledge and self This provocative study of the teacher student relationship uses recent developments in film and literary studies to explore how education understands who it is teaching and how teachers understand who their students are

The 'Poor Child' Lucy Hopkins, Arathi Sriprakash, 2015-07-16 Why are development discourses of the poor child in need of radical revision What are the theoretical and methodological challenges and possibilities for ethical understandings of childhoods and poverty The poor child at the centre of development activity is often measured against and reformed towards an idealised and globalised child subject This book examines why such normative discourses of childhood are in need of radical revision and explores how development research and practice can work to unsettle the global child It engages the cultural politics of childhood a politics of equality identity and representation as a methodological and theoretical orientation to rethink the relationships between education development and poverty in children s lives This book brings multiple disciplinary perspectives including cultural studies sociology and film studies into conversation with development studies and development education in order to provide new ways of approaching and conceptualising the poor child The researchers draw on a range of methodological frames such as poststructuralist discourse analysis arts based research ethnographic studies and textual analysis to unpack the hidden assumptions about children within development discourses Chapters in this book reveal the diverse ways in which the notion of childhood is understood and enacted in a range of national settings including Kenya India Mexico and the United Kingdom They explore the complex constitution of children s lives through cultural policy and educational practices The volume s focus on children s experiences and voices shows how children themselves are challenging the representation and material conditions of their lives The Poor Child will be of particular interest to postgraduate students and scholars working in the fields of childhood studies international and comparative education and development studies

Critical Voices in Teacher Education Barry Down, John Smyth, 2012-04-28 We live in dangerous times when educational policies and practices are debated largely in terms of how they fit with the needs of the free market This volume is a collection of writing by teacher educators that draws on their unique biographies experiences and perspectives to denounce these misguided norms It explores what it means practically and intellectually to teach for social justice in conservative times In a globalised world where the power of capital holds sway the purposes of social institutions such as universities and schools is being refashioned in ways that are markedly instrumental and technicist in nature The consequence is that teachers work is increasingly constrained by regimes of control such as standardised testing accountability transparency and national curricula In the meantime large numbers of students and teachers are disengaging physically emotionally and intellectually from learning The contributors to this edited volume present both a powerful critique of these developments and a counter hegemonic vision of teacher education founded on the principles and values of social justice democracy and critical inquiry Teacher education they argue involves a commitment to critical intellectual work that subjects some deeply entrenched assumptions beliefs habits routines and practices to closer scrutiny The contributing authors expose how ideology and power operate in seemingly blameless rational ways to perpetuate social hierarchies based on class gender sexuality race and culture

Interpreting Difficult History at Museums and Historic Sites Julia Rose, 2016-05-02 Interpreting Difficult History at Museums and Historic Sites is framed by educational psychoanalytic theory and positions museum workers public historians and museum visitors as learners Through this lens museum workers and public historians can develop compelling and ethical representations of historical individuals communities and populations who have suffered It includes various examples of difficult knowledge detailed examples of specific interpretation methods and will give readers an in depth explanation of the psychoanalytic educational theories behind the methodologies Audiences can more responsibly and productively engage in learning histories of oppression and trauma when they are in measured and sensitive museum learning environments and public history venues To learn more check out the website here <http://interpretingdifficulthistory.com>

Reconstructing Professionalism In University Teaching
Walker, Melanie, 2001-07-01 How can academics carve out new and effective ways of working with students against a background of constant change and policy pressure How can university teachers both enhance student learning and realize their own educational values What might be the shape of a new professionalism in university teaching At the heart of this book is a small group of academics from very different disciplines making sense of their teaching situations We witness each of their struggles and celebrations in designing a new course engaging a large first year class introducing a mentoring programme nurturing independent learning through project work using debates to develop students critical thinking and evaluating the success of their teaching This book is the story of a higher education project and central to the story are the attempts of university teachers to enact a critical professionalism in their everyday lives in teaching and learning and also their development of a shared and collaborative dialogue Each of the team seeks not only to improve their practice of teaching but also to explore amongst themselves what kind of professional they want to be and how to realize it in their work with students Reconstructing Professionalism in University Teaching reveals how academics working together on researching their own teaching can both improve their students learning and start to redefine their own professional roles

Transforming Teaching and Learning with Active and Dramatic Approaches Brian Edmiston, 2013-09-11 A CHOICE Outstanding Academic Title 2014 How can teachers transform classroom teaching and learning by making pedagogy more socially and culturally responsive more relevant to students lives and more collaborative How can they engage disaffected students in learning and at the same time promote deep understanding though high quality teaching that goes beyond test preparation This text for prospective and practicing teachers introduces engaging innovative pedagogy for putting active and dramatic approaches to learning and teaching into action Written in an accessible conversational and refreshingly honest style by a teacher and professor with over 30 years experience it features real examples of preschool elementary middle and high school teachers working in actual classrooms in diverse settings Their tales explore not only how but also why they have changed the way they teach Photographs and stories of their classroom practice along with summarizing charts of principles and strategies both illuminate the critical cross curricular and inquiry based conceptual framework Edmiston develops and provide rich examples and straightforward guidelines that can support readers as they experiment with using active and dramatic approaches to dialogue inquiry building community planning for exploration and authentic assessment in their own classrooms

Queer Youth Cultures Susan Driver, 2008-03-27 Essays explore the contemporary contexts activism and cultural productions of queer youth and their communities

Unresolved Identities Bic Ngo, 2012-02-01 In her ethnographic study of Lao American students at an urban public high school Bic Ngo shows how simplistic accounts of these students smooth over unfinished precarious identities and contested social relations Exploring the ways that immigrant youth identities are shaped by dominant discourses that simplify and confine their experiences within binary categories of good bad traditional modern and success failure she unmasks and examines the stories we tell about them and unsettles the hegemony of discourses that frame identities within discrete dualisms Rather than cohesive the identity negotiations of Lao American students are responses that modify resist or echo these discourses Ngo argues that while Lao American students are changing what it means to be urban and immigrant youth most people are unable to read them as doing so and instead see the youth as confused backward and problematic By illuminating the discursive practices of identity this study underscores the need to conceptualize urban immigrant identities as contradictory fractured and unresolved

Peacebuilding, Citizenship, and Identity Christina Parker, 2015-12-17 As communities around the world continue to attract international immigrants schools have become centers for learning how to engage with people s multiple ethnic and cultural origins Ethnocultural minority immigrant students carry diverse histories and perspectives which can serve as resources for critical reflection about social conflicts These students identities need to be included in the curriculum so that diversity and conflictual issues can be openly discussed Immigrant children embody the many issues confronting today s youth in a global transnational and interconnected world Drawing on in depth empirical case studies this book explores the classroom experiences of these children Varying in social and cultural capital they contend with social and cultural conflict influenced not only by global politics and familial prejudices but also by structural exclusion in Western curricula In democratic peacebuilding education diverse students express divergent points of view in open inclusive dialogue Negotiating their multiple identities such children develop skills for managing and responding to that conflict thereby acquiring tools to challenge dominant hegemonic systems of oppression and control later in life In vivid classroom depictions the reader learns of many outcomes Young quiet and marginalized voices were heard Dialogic pedagogies encouraged cooperation among students and strengthened class communities What is more the implicit and explicit curricula implemented in these diverse classrooms served to shape how students interpreted democracy in multicultural Canada The diverse experiences of the young people and teachers in this book illuminate the innermost landscapes of multicultural classrooms providing deep insight into the social and cultural challenges and opportunities that ethnocultural minority children experience at school Doing Educational Research Kenneth George Tobin, 2006 The authors explore a variety of topics from methodologies such as ethnography action research hermeneutics historiography psychoanalysis literary criticism to issues such as social theory epistemology and paradigms Back cover Food Pedagogies Rick Flowers, Elaine Swan, 2016-04-22 In recent years everyone from politicians to celebrity chefs has been proselytizing about how we should grow buy prepare present cook taste eat and dispose of food In light of this contributors to this book argue that food has become the target of intensified pedagogical activity across a range of domains including schools supermarkets families advertising and TV media Illustrated with a range of empirical studies this edited and interdisciplinary volume the first book on food pedagogies develops innovative and theoretical perspectives to problematize the practices of teaching and learning about food While many different pedagogues policy makers churches activists health educators schools tourist agencies chefs think we do not know enough about food and what to do with it the aims effects and politics of these pedagogies has been much less studied Drawing on a range of international studies diverse contexts genres and different methods this book provides new sites of investigation and lines of inquiry As a result of its broad ranging critical evaluation of food as classroom and food as teacher it provides theoretical resources for opening up the concept of pedagogy and assessing the moralities and politics of teaching and learning about food in the classroom and beyond
