Virtual Mentoring for Teachers: Online Professional Development Practices Keengwe, Jared, 2012-08-31 A major investment in professional development is necessary to ensure the fundamental success of instructors in technology integrated classrooms and in online courses However while traditional models of professional development rely on face to face instruction online methods are also gaining traction viable means for faculty development Virtual Mentoring for Teachers Online Professional Development Practices offers peer reviewed essays and research reports contributed by an array of scholars and practitioners in the field of instructional technology and online education It is organized around two primary themes professional development models for faculty in online environments and understanding e Learning and best practices in teaching and learning in online environments The objective of this scholarship is to highlight research based online professional development programs and best practices models that have been shown to enhance effective teaching and learning in a variety of environments Shaping the College Curriculum Lisa R. Lattuca, Joan S. Stark, 2011-01-11 Shaping the College Curriculum focuses on curriculum development as an important decision making process in colleges and universities The authors define curriculum as an academic plan developed in a historical social and political context They identify eight curricular elements that are addressed intentionally or unintentionally in developing all college courses and programs By exploring the interaction of these elements in context they use the academic plan model to clarify the processes of course and program planning enabling instructors and administrators to ask crucial questions about improving teaching and optimizing student learning This revised edition continues to stress research based educational practices The new edition consolidates and focuses discussion of institutional and sociocultural factors that influence curricular decisions All chapters have been updated with recent research findings relevant to curriculum leadership accreditation assessment and the influence of academic fields while two new chapters focus directly on learning research and its implications for instructional practice A new chapter drawn from research on organizational change provides practical guidance to assist faculty members and administrators who are engaged in extensive program improvements Streamlined yet still comprehensive and detailed this revised volume will continue to serve as an invaluable resource for individuals and groups whose work includes planning designing delivering evaluating and studying curricula in higher education This is an extraordinary book that offers not a particular curriculum or structure but a comprehensive approach for thinking about the curriculum ensuring that important considerations are not overlooked in its revision or development and increasing the likelihood that students will learn and develop in ways institutions hope they will The book brings coherence and intention to what is typically an unstructured haphazard and only partially rational process guided more by beliefs than by empirically grounded substantive information Lattuca and Stark present their material in ways that are accessible and applicable across planning levels course program department and institution local settings and academic disciplines It s an admirable and informative marriage of scholarship and practice and an insightful guide to both Anyone who cares seriously about how we can make our colleges and universities more educationally effective should read this book Patrick T Terenzini distinguished professor and senior scientist Center for the Study of Higher Education The Pennsylvania State University

Faculty Mentoring Susan L. Phillips, Susan T. Dennison, 2023-07-03 Faculty mentoring programs greatly benefit the institutions that have instituted them and are effective in attracting and retaining good faculty Prospective faculty members commonly ask about mentoring at on campus interviews and indicate that it is a consideration when choosing a position Mentoring programs also increase the retention rate of junior faculty greatly reducing recruitment costs and particularly help integrate women minority and international faculty members into the institution while providing all new hires with an orientation to the culture mission and identity of the college or university The book provides step by step guidelines for setting up planning and facilitating mentoring programs for new faculty members whether one on one or using a successful group model developed and refined over twenty five years by the authors While it offers detailed guidance on instituting such programs at the departmental level it also makes the case for establishing school or institutional level programs and delineates the considerable benefits and economies of scale these can achieve The authors provide guidance for mentors and mentees on developing group mentoring and individual mentor prot g relationships the corresponding chapters being available online for separate purchase as well as detailed outlines and advice to department chairs administrators and facilitators on how to establish and conduct institution wide group mentoring programs and apply or modify the material to meet their specific needs For training and faculty development purposes we also offer two chapters as individual e booklets Each respectively provides a succinct summary of the roles and expectations of the roles of Mentor and Mentee Faculty Mentoring Mentor Guide Faculty Mentoring Mentee Guide The booklets are affordably priced and intended for individual purchase by mentors and mentees and are only available through our Web site

Building Teaching Capacities in Higher Education

Alenoush Saroyan, Mariane Frenay, 2023-07-03 This book is the culmination of three years work by teams from eight institutions in five different European and North American countries The teams included faculty developers professors and graduate students interested in developing and disseminating a more profound understanding of university level pedagogy The purpose of the project was first to conceptualize what an internationally appropriate formal academic program for faculty development in higher education might look like taking into account differing national contexts from national standards for faculty development U K and Scandinavia almost universal institutional support North America to virtually no activities France The intention was to create and nurture a community of practice enriched and informed by a range of expertise and different higher education traditions cultures and languages To do so the book begins with a section of five case studies that describe current practice in Belgium Canada Denmark France and Switzerland The second purpose was to define a common curriculum or core course with common foundations for faculty and graduate students based on a distributed learning model The final section of the book presents a concrete concept map used to define the curriculum and to educational developers with useful tool for furthering their work and explains the rationale for redefining faculty development as educational development This book offers practitioners around the world a framework and model of educational development that can serve a number of purposes including professional development monitoring and assessment of effectiveness and research as they seek to meet increasing demands for public accountability For North American readers it offers insight into the vision and aims of the Bologna Process with which they may need to engage to maintain international competitiveness
